Polio Vaccine Program Gains Bipartisan Congress Support

But Sen. Morse Says Mrs. Hobby Should Be Fired

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration's new polio vaccination program gained quick bipartisan support in Congress today. But Sen. Morse (D-Ore) blasted Secretary of Welfare Hobby's handling of Salk vaccine and declared she ought to be fired for "gross incompetency."

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) introduced a bill carrying out a proposal made by Mrs. Hobby and endorsed by President Eisenhower that the federal government put up 28 million dollars to make sure no child goes without vaccine for lack of money.

Speedy Approval Seen

Chairman Hill (D-Ala) of the Senate Labor Committee announced he would sponsor the appropriation, too, and said there is "absolutely no question" Congress will quickly approve it. Smith is the committee's ranking Republican.

In the House, Chairman Priest (D-Tenn) of the Commerce Committee put his name to a similar bill. The 28 million dollars would go to the states to provide free vaccination of lower income persons 1 to 19 years of age.

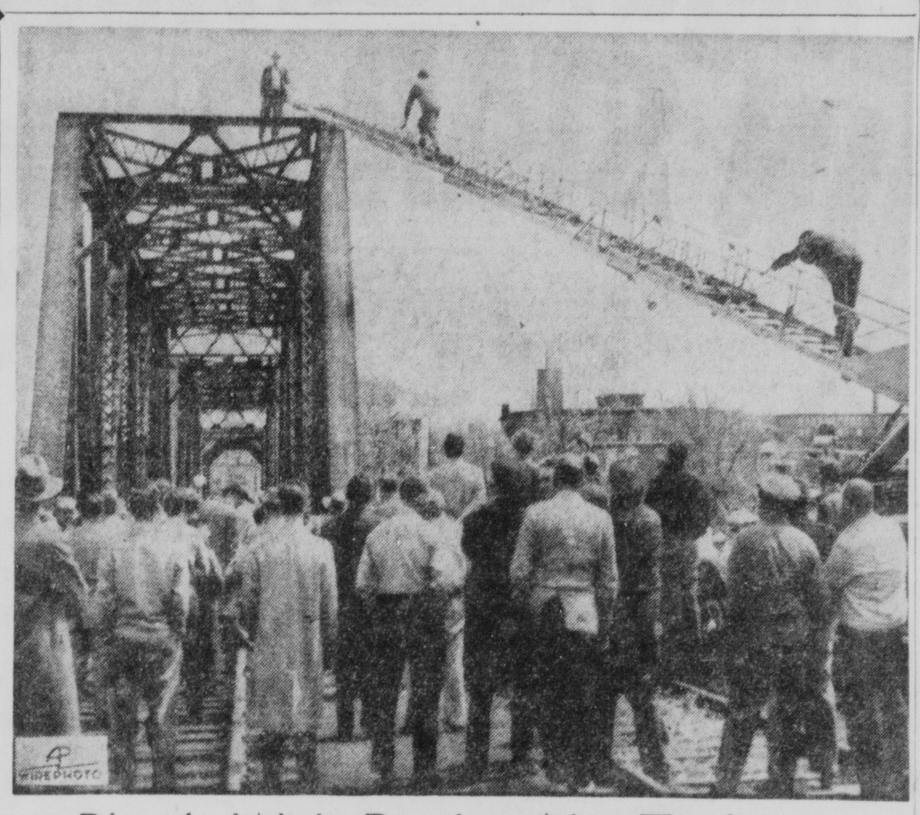
Morse took the Senate floor and said Mrs. Hobby, who has over-all charge of federal health programs, "has been guilty of bad administration that comes close to immorality" in handling the distribution and safety testing of Salk vaccine.

"Crude Incompetency"

The senator said Mrs. Hobby should be made to visit the hospital rooms of the more than 70 children who have been stricken with polio after vaccination.

And he accused both the secretary and Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele of "crude incompetency." He said Mrs. Hobby is "trying to bullhead an alibi for an horrendous mistake."

Mrs. Hobby and Scheele defended the Public Health Service's actions in testimony yesterday before the Senate Labor Committee. Mrs. Hobby opposed moves by many Democrats and some Republicans to provide standby controls for vaccine distribution.



Pleads With Brother Not To Jump

Fred Cloutier, 50, stands atop a railroad bridge near Auburn, Me., as his brother Philip, on fire ladder, pleads with him not to jump into the Androscoggin River 60 feet below. The mill worker remained on the bridge two hours until forced down the ladder by soot and smoke from an old-fashioned steam locomotive passing underneath. He was hospitalized with injuries after jumping from the ladder. Police said Cloutier complained of "strange voices."

Military Reserve Program Rapped

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Rep. Short (R-Mo) protested today that part of President Eisenhower's new military reserve program is designed to get "a foot in the door" for universal military training.

Short, ranking Republican on the House Armed Services Committee, led an assault on the plan to strengthen the reserves by the use of some compulsion and by training up to an extra one million volunteers for reserve duty in four years.

Rep. Brooks (D-La), leading the fight for the program, insisted "the measure is in no sense a UMT plans." He urged its support to "build up a trained reserve, ready to move at moment's notice."

House approval of the measure, which President Eisenhower requested, is expected tomorrow.

The bill is designed to build a force of 2,900,000 reservists in active training status by 1960, a four-fold increase over presnt strength. The President said this is necessary to back up his plans to cut down active military strength.

Soviet Farmers Formally Invited To United States

MOSCOW, May 17 (AP)—The United States today formally invited a delegation of Soviet farm experts to America this summer to learn how Iowa farmers raise corn and hogs. There is no doubt the Russians will accept.

U. S. Charge d'Affaires Walter Walmsley delivered a note to the Foreign Ministry suggesting that about 10 Soviet farmers reach Iowa July 10 for a month's stay. The Iowa sun is hot then and both corn and pigs should be growing lustily. The note, also released in Washington, said the U.S. Department of Agriculture would have over-all responsibility for the Russians, Iowa State College would arrange their program, and the University of Minnesota would take charge when they visit other areas, unspecified.

The note said some American farm experts would pay a return visit to Russia. It asked how many should go and when.

In compliance with Soviet requests when the exchange visits were first discussed, the Russian delegation would have official status so the members could avoid such U.S. immigration formalities as finger-printing, which the Russians say is obnoxious. But the American farmers going to Russia would be unofficial visitors.

Navy Plans Four A-Subs

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The Navy has advised a Senate-House Committee it is changing its new budget to provide for an additional atomic submarine, Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) reported today.

This will mean four nuclear-powered submarines in the budget for the fiscal year starting July 1, instead of three as originally planned.

Party Line User Guilty Of Refusing To Yield For Fire

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., May 17 (AP)—A hot-tempered housewife was convicted tonight of refusing to get off a country party line when volunteer fireman tried to report a fire.

A Dutchess County court jury of seven men and five women deliberated a little more than three hours, with time out for dinner, before finding Mrs. Mary L. Kayes, 43, of Rhinebeck, guilty. The jury foreman, Mrs Sue Case, is herself a party line user.

The case was the first test of a new state law covering use of party line telephones in an emergency. Mrs. Kayes could get a maximum of a year in jail and a $500 fine.

County Judge John R. Schwartz set May 24 for sentencing and continued Mrs. Kayes in $500 bail.

Mrs. Kayes cried when the verdict was announced.

"Let me alone, don't bother me," she told newsmen.

HST Says U.S. Must Help Keep U.N. Going

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 17 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said today the United States must help keep the United Nations going or face the prospect of a third world war "ten times more destructive than World War II."

He said the nation's withdrawal from the U.N. would mean "preparation for a third world war and the destruction of the world. We can't afford to do that."

The United States should try to keep Russia in the U.N., he said.

"When we have the Russians before the world," he said, "We are in a better position to make them perform for peace."

Underwater Test Of Atomic Device Staged In Pacific

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The prospect that any atomic war will be fought partly in the dark depths of the oceans was underlined today with word that the Navy has successfully tested a small nuclear device somewhere in the Pacific.

The underwater test presumably occurred some hundreds of miles off the West Coast of the United States. Officials have indicated it was part of a drive to perfect methods of "killing" submarines with the power of the atom.

New Dimension Of Atom War

The advent of a new dimension of atomic warfare was signaled in a joint announcement from the Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission:

"The underwater explosion of a small nuclear device in the eastern Pacific Ocean has been successfully completed."

There have been numerous nuclear explosions on the land and in the air—and one shallow underwater blast. However, the one now disclosed was clearly aimed at developing a new pattern of combat against submarines, which have been scourges in two world wars.

Russia Strong On Subs

The explosion took place against the background of reports that Russia has built up a fleet of about 375 U-boats. While none of them is known to be atomic powered—the USS Nautilus is believed to be alone in that field—they constitute

There was no pinpointing of just when or where the explosion took place. The May 9 announcement said it would be at a spot outside commercial fishing fields and outside of shipping lanes. Commercial fishermen had expressed concern over the possibility of fish being made radioactive by the explosion.

Allies And Russians To Discuss Road Tax

BERLIN, May 17 (AP)—The top Western and Russian officials in Germany are getting together Friday in their first four-power parley since September 1948 during the Soviet blockade of Berlin.

They agreed today to meet to discuss the stiff road taxes which Communist East Germany has been collecting since April 1 on trucks supplying Allied West Berlin. The trucks travel through the Soviet Zone from West Germany.

G. M. Pushkin, Soviet ambassador to East Germany, cleared the way by agreeing orally to receive the French, British and U. S. ambassadors to West Germany in his East Berlin office.

High School Student Designs Tiny Atom Electronic Tube

ARLINGTON, Va., May 17 (AP)—A young Swiss student who instructs his high school classmates in fencing as a sideline may have scored an important touche in the realm of atomic power for peaceful use.

He has come up with a design for a tiny self-powered electronic tube. For its energy source it would use built-in radioactive material from the atomic trashpile. It would step up, correct or switch a signal or a sound. He says it should last at least 10 years on its minute fuel supply. It would operate with no appreciable amount of heat.

For his work in the new field that is challenging the leaders in nuclear energy and electronics, Ralph D. Reymond, 18, has been given honorary membership in the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science. And last week at Harrisonburg the Virginia Academy of Science picked him as one of the science talent search winners, assuring him a top college scholarship. His report to the Virginia Academy produced a few unscientific whistles of amazement from several of the senior experts.

Reymond, a slender, scholarly-looking boy who speaks with a decided French accent, was quietly pleased at the honors. But he said he is keeping his fingers crossed pending the outcome of his application for a patent on the tube. He said three examiners in the U.S. Patent Office have assured him his device is patentable and practicable.

Chou's Peace Bid Denounced By Nationalists

Red China's Premier Would Limit Talks To U.S. Withdrawal

TOKYO, Wednesday, May 18 (AP)—Nationalist China yesterday viewed the latest peace proposals by Premier Chou En-lai of Red China as an attempt to drive U. S. forces from the western Pacific.

In Taipei, Formosa, a spokesman for the Nationalist government's information bureau said that "The Chinese Communists want a total American surrender in the Formosa area as the price for peace."

A Nationalist Foreign Ministry spokesman predicted Red China would set a deadline for withdrawing U. S. forces now guarding Formosa under the U. S.-Nationalist mutual defense treaty. This would be followed by threats of large-scale action, he said.

Cease-Fire Talks Ruled Out

Chou ruled out any Formosan cease-fire negotiations with the United States and implied he would talk only about withdrawing U. S. forces from the Formosa area.

"There is no war between China and the United States and so the question of the so-called cease-fire does not arise," he told the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress in Peiping last Friday. The speech was broadcast only yesterday by Peiping radio.

Chou's implied intent to limit any negotiations to the withdrawal of U.S. forces from Formosa came in this passage:

"The United States occupation of Taiwan (Formosa) has created tension in the Taiwan area and this constitutes an international issue between China and the United States.

Chinese People Want Peace

"The Chinese people do not want to have a war with the United States. To ease tension in the Taiwan area, the Chinese government is willing to sit down and enter into negotiations with the United States government."

Chou was making his report to the committee on the Asian-African conference at Bandung, Indonesia. It was at Bandung that Chou on April 23 first offered to negotiate with the United States to "relax tension" in the area of Formosa.

Owen J. Roberts, Famed Lawyer And Jurist, Dies

PHOENIXVILLE Pa., May 17 (AP)—Owen Josephus Roberts, 80, retired U. S. Supreme Court justice, who gained a reputation as a frequent dissenter in his 15 years on the nation's highest judiciary, died today of a heart attack.

Death came to the famed lawyer and jurist at his beloved farm home, "Bryncoed," not far from historic Valley Forge, after an illness of four months that had left him bedfast.

Until last weekend he had been a patient at a Philadelphia hospital but, feeling death was near, insisted on coming home. He told friends he preferred to die among familiar surroundings.

The tall, affable Roberts, an impassioned and eloquent debater in the courtroom, reputedly gave up a law practice worth $150,000 a year to accept a Supreme Court appointment by former President Herbert Hoover in 1930. He retired from the bench in 1945.

Farm Appropriation Bill Sent To President

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The Senate today passed and sent to the White House a bill granting the Agriculture Department $883,051,623 for operating expenses in the fiscal year starting July.

The Senate acted by voice vote shortly after the House had approved the measure, also by voice vote.

The bill, a compromise of varying Senate and House bills, also increases the department's lending authority by 388 million dollars — mostly for rural electrification loans.

Alaska, England Construction Hit

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Democratic Sens. Chavez (NM) and Robertson (Va) accused the Air Force today of "wasting" millions of dollars in its construction program outside the United States.

Recalling the wastage uncovered by Congress after the building of North African bases during the Korean War, the senators said they "could forgive the Air Force one mistake" made in a rush program but that they did not expect the errors to be repeated.

Air Force officials were confronted with the charges when they appeared before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee to explain requests for nearly 15 billion dollars in their budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Talbott To Reply

Chavez, subcommittee chairman, expressed regret that Secretary of the Air Force Talbott was not present to hear the criticism.

Asst. Secretary Lyle S. Garlock, who appeared surprised by the charges, said Talbott would appear later to reply to them. He added the Air Force had improved its efficiency and financial management greatly since 1952.

"We still have waste and inefficiency," Chavez declared.

He said an example was a report to the subcommittee that between 10 and 15 million dollars had been wasted on Air Force construction in the United Kingdom by "needless repetition of planning."

"Much greater sums have been wasted in trying to execute these imperfect plans," he added.

Unneeded Buildings Erected

"Structures have been built without utilities to support them; buildings have been built for which no specific requirement exists; buildings have been built that are much larger than required; and buildings have been built which are nonoperational because they will not accommodate the equipment which was intended to be installed in them."

Robertson said he had been told that waste in Britain was only "a small part of what was lost in Alaska."

Air Force projects there, he said, cost "a hundred million dollars more than was contemplated."

Symington Seeks U.S., Red Relative Strength Inquiry

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — A Senate inquiry into the relative strength of the Soviet and free world military forces was demanded today by Sen. Symington (D-Mo), who said it was time to stop this "game of blind man's bluff."

Symington told the Senate that Secretary of Defense Wilson has underestimated Communist strength and failed to press for "adequate arms" for the United States.

Wilson "Dead Wrong"

In offering his inquiry resolution, Symington referred to a Defense Department announcement last Friday that Soviet intercontinental bombers comparable to the U.S. eight-jet B52, have been observed in formation flights over Moscow, and that Soviet turboprop bomber and a new all-weather fighter have appeared.

This announcement, Symington said, proves that Wilson was "dead wrong" last year n saying the Russians were "building primarily a defensive air force."

"It is now clear," he added, "that the United States, along with the rest of the free world, may have lost control of the air, except for the possibility we still have advantages in base location and training."

"Implications" Inquiry

A former Air Force secretary and now a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, the Missourian asked an inquiry into the "implications" of Friday's announcement. His resolution also would direct that "appropriate steps" be taken to determine the relative strength of the Communist and free world forces "in all military categories, and with respect to all weapons systems."

Two Perish In Fire At Apartment House

TACOMA, Wash., May 17 (AP)—Two persons suffocated early today as flames engulfed a three-story frame apartment house here.

Firemen poured tons of water on the Santon Apartments before extinguishing the blaze.

Army Unveils Nike Battery, Unit In 'Back-Yard' Defense

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The Army displayed to the public today a unit of its eventual billion dollar system of "back-yard" defenses against enemy bombers, a Nike antiaircraft guided missile battery.

The battery, typical of others now in place around at least 15 northern and coastal cities, is located on farm land at Lorton, Va., 16 miles south of here.

Newsmen were shown a setup consisting of two sites.

One is the control point from which three radar systems locate approaching bombers, "lock onto" the aircraft and fire the target-seeking missiles. The other is the launching site composed of 12 ramps.

It is a self-contained community for 109 men of the battery, including six officers. They eat, sleep and live there, ready for a "red" alert which will send them racing to the control and launching positions if distant warning systems flash a signal of approaching, unidentified planes.

What can the Nike do against enemy planes?

Brig. Gen. R. R. Hendrix, commander of the 2nd Antiaircraft Region, said he could not divulge percentage of kills per number of missiles fired.

'But I can tell you that the weapon has a tremendous kill potential," he said. "It is capable of outmaneuvering and destroying any type of aircraft presently known and foreseeable for the immediate future. Moreover the range and altitude of Nike gives us the capability to destroy enemy aircraft before they reach a distance from one of our cities from which they could launch their bomb loads."

West Strength Forces Soviet Tactic Change

Nation Told Recent Events Might Turn The Tide Of History

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower and his secretary of state held out cautious hope tonight of a new dawn of peace in the world.

Joining in an unprecedented radio-TV report to the nation, the President and Secretary Dulles voiced hope of real progress in forthcoming top level talks with the Russians.

It was Eisenhower who spoke of a possible "new dawn," though he cautioned that this country must stay strong and vigilant—mustn't get its hopes too high or be mislead by any false appearance of agreement.

But he voiced confidence the American people have the maturity to take the right attitude.

And he nodded agreement when Dulles, just back from clear-the-ground negotiations in Europe, said recent events may have "turned the tide of history." Dulles referred to such things as the signing of an Austrian independence treaty and the seating of West Germany in the Atlantic alliance.

Russians Quit "Bucking"

Dulles said he was by no means convinced the Russians have "got religion." But he said it does look as if they have decided—in some fields at least—to quit "bucking" the moral standards of the world. And he attributed this mainly to strong and persistent pressure from the West.

That was a theme that ran through the Eisenhower - Dulles talk—that the United States and the rest of the free world have built up strength, are bargaining from a more potent position and that the Russians have changed their tactics accordingly.

Sitting in the President's oval office, Dulles told of his recent trip to Europe. The President introduced him, prompted him with questions and pointers, nodded and smiled as the secretary talked.

It had the air of an informal, chatty discussion of momentous issues, though Dulles had some notes with him and he and the President had conferred this afternoon, presumably to go over what was to be said.

Soviet Diplomatic Defeat

Dulles declared that in the decision of the NATO allies to rearm West Germany as an ally, Soviet Russia has suffered its "greatest diplomatic defeat" since World War II.

Furthermore Dulles declared that Russia's decision to withdraw troops from Austria as part of the Austrian treaty settlement "is bound to have a tremendous impact" on satellite countries where "Soviet armies are in occupation."

When Austria's freedom has been completed, Dulles said, it will be, for example, the first time that Red ruled Czechoslovakia has had "an open door" on a free country.

Furthermore he asserted that the joy of the Austrians in their promised freedom will be "contagious." The Soviets know, he said, that "the people of the satellite countries are going to want to get for themselves the same things the Austrians are getting. They want to dance in the streets some time too."

West Policy Paying Off

Dulles built his talk up to the climactic subject of the Big Four meeting and said that many people are puzzling over why the Soviets have undergone some change. He said he personally thought that "the Soviet Union may be feeling it is more convenient for them to conform to some of the rules and practices of the civilized community."

At another point he declared that the policies of strength, firmness and "high moral principles" expressed by the Western powers in allying themselves and in embracing West Germany are "beginning to pay off."

"We find for the first time," Dulles said, "a softening of the Soviet attitude."

From time to time the President interrupted Dulles with some comment of his own. At one point he did this to express confidence that the American people have developed "a greater maturity" with respect to negotiating with the Russians than they possessed some years ago.

Ike Plans Trip To New England

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower will visit Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine June 22-27 for a round of informal speeches and two days of fishing—unless international developments change his plans.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President had accepted invitations extended by the senators and the governors of the three states.

"In accepting," Hagerty added, "the President informed his hosts that his visit must be conditioned, of course, on any presidential obligations that might arise at that time."

Asked whether that meant the planned meeting of the chiefs of state of the U.S., Great Britain, France and Russia might be arranged for late June, Hagerty told newsmen:

"That (possibility) certainly is in there. We just don't know yet."

ARLINGTON, Va., May 17 (AP)—A young Swiss student who instructs his high school classmates in fencing as a sideline may have scored an important touche in the realm of atomic power for peaceful use.

He has come up with a design for a tiny self-powered electronic tube. For its energy source it would use built-in radioactive material from the atomic trashpile. It would step up, correct or switch a signal or a sound. He says it should last at least 10 years on its minute fuel supply. It would operate with no appreciable amount of heat.

For his work in the new field that is challenging the leaders in nuclear energy and electronics, Ralph D. Reymond, 18, has been given honorary membership in the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science. And last week at Harrisonburg the Virginia Academy of Science picked him as one of the science talent search winners, assuring him a top college scholarship. His report to the Virginia Academy produced a few unscientific whistles of amazement from several of the senior experts.

Reymond, a slender, scholarly-looking boy who speaks with a decided French accent, was quietly pleased at the honors. But he said he is keeping his fingers crossed pending the outcome of his application for a patent on the tube. He said three examiners in the U.S. Patent Office have assured him his device is patentable and practicable.

Chou's Peace Bid Denounced By Nationalists

Red China's Premier Would Limit Talks To U.S. Withdrawal

TOKYO, Wednesday, May 18 (AP)—Nationalist China yesterday viewed the latest peace proposals by Premier Chou En-lai of Red China as an attempt to drive U. S. forces from the western Pacific.

In Taipei, Formosa, a spokesman for the Nationalist government's information bureau said that "The Chinese Communists want a total American surrender in the Formosa area as the price for peace."

A Nationalist Foreign Ministry spokesman predicted Red China would set a deadline for withdrawing U. S. forces now guarding Formosa under the U. S.-Nationalist mutual defense treaty. This would be followed by threats of large-scale action, he said.

Cease-Fire Talks Ruled Out

Chou ruled out any Formosan cease-fire negotiations with the United States and implied he would talk only about withdrawing U. S. forces from the Formosa area.

"There is no war between China and the United States and so the question of the so-called cease-fire does not arise," he told the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress in Peiping last Friday. The speech was broadcast only yesterday by Peiping radio.

Chou's implied intent to limit any negotiations to the withdrawal of U.S. forces from Formosa came in this passage:

"The United States occupation of Taiwan (Formosa) has created tension in the Taiwan area and this constitutes an international issue between China and the United States.

Chinese People Want Peace

"The Chinese people do not want to have a war with the United States. To ease tension in the Taiwan area, the Chinese government is willing to sit down and enter into negotiations with the United States government."

Chou was making his report to the committee on the Asian-African conference at Bandung, Indonesia. It was at Bandung that Chou on April 23 first offered to negotiate with the United States to "relax tension" in the area of Formosa.

Owen J. Roberts, Famed Lawyer And Jurist, Dies

PHOENIXVILLE Pa., May 17 (AP)—Owen Josephus Roberts, 80, retired U. S. Supreme Court justice, who gained a reputation as a frequent dissenter in his 15 years on the nation's highest judiciary, died today of a heart attack.

Death came to the famed lawyer and jurist at his beloved farm home, "Bryncoed," not far from historic Valley Forge, after an illness of four months that had left him bedfast.

Until last weekend he had been a patient at a Philadelphia hospital but, feeling death was near, insisted on coming home. He told friends he preferred to die among familiar surroundings.

The tall, affable Roberts, an impassioned and eloquent debater in the courtroom, reputedly gave up a law practice worth $150,000 a year to accept a Supreme Court appointment by former President Herbert Hoover in 1930. He retired from the bench in 1945.

Farm Appropriation Bill Sent To President

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The Senate today passed and sent to the White House a bill granting the Agriculture Department $883,051,623 for operating expenses in the fiscal year starting July.

The Senate acted by voice vote shortly after the House had approved the measure, also by voice vote.

The bill, a compromise of varying Senate and House bills, also increases the department's lending authority by 388 million dollars — mostly for rural electrification loans.

Ike Asks $4,579,070

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower today asked Congress for a supplemental appropriation of $4,579,070 for salary and expense increases authorized for senators, House members and their employes.

Senators Charge Air Force Waste

Alaska, England Construction Hit

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Democratic Sens. Chavez (NM) and Robertson (Va) accused the Air Force today of "wasting" millions of dollars in its construction program outside the United States.

Recalling the wastage uncovered by Congress after the building of North African bases during the Korean War, the senators said they "could forgive the Air Force one mistake" made in a rush program but that they did not expect the errors to be repeated.

Air Force officials were confronted with the charges when they appeared before a Senate Appropriations subcommittee to explain requests for nearly 15 billion dollars in their budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Talbott To Reply

Chavez, subcommittee chairman, expressed regret that Secretary of the Air Force Talbott was not present to hear the criticism.

Asst. Secretary Lyle S. Garlock, who appeared surprised by the charges, said Talbott would appear later to reply to them. He added the Air Force had improved its efficiency and financial management greatly since 1952.

"We still have waste and inefficiency," Chavez declared.

He said an example was a report to the subcommittee that between 10 and 15 million dollars had been wasted on Air Force construction in the United Kingdom by "needless repetition of planning."

"Much greater sums have been wasted in trying to execute these imperfect plans," he added.

Unneeded Buildings Erected

"Structures have been built without utilities to support them; buildings have been built for which no specific requirement exists; buildings have been built that are much larger than required; and buildings have been built which are nonoperational because they will not accommodate the equipment which was intended to be installed in them."

Robertson said he had been told that waste in Britain was only "a small part of what was lost in Alaska."

Air Force projects there, he said, cost "a hundred million dollars more than was contemplated."

Symington Seeks U.S., Red Relative Strength Inquiry

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — A Senate inquiry into the relative strength of the Soviet and free world military forces was demanded today by Sen. Symington (D-Mo), who said it was time to stop this "game of blind man's bluff."

Symington told the Senate that Secretary of Defense Wilson has underestimated Communist strength and failed to press for "adequate arms" for the United States.

Wilson "Dead Wrong"

In offering his inquiry resolution, Symington referred to a Defense Department announcement last Friday that Soviet intercontinental bombers comparable to the U.S. eight-jet B52, have been observed in formation flights over Moscow, and that Soviet turboprop bomber and a new all-weather fighter have appeared.

This announcement, Symington said, proves that Wilson was "dead wrong" last year n saying the Russians were "building primarily a defensive air force."

"It is now clear," he added, "that the United States, along with the rest of the free world, may have lost control of the air, except for the possibility we still have advantages in base location and training."

"Implications" Inquiry

A former Air Force secretary and now a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, the Missourian asked an inquiry into the "implications" of Friday's announcement. His resolution also would direct that "appropriate steps" be taken to determine the relative strength of the Communist and free world forces "in all military categories, and with respect to all weapons systems."

Two Perish In Fire At Apartment House

TACOMA, Wash., May 17 (AP)—Two persons suffocated early today as flames engulfed a three-story frame apartment house here.

The dead were George Sigafoos, 35, a dairy worker, and a Mrs. Batchard, about 60.

Firemen poured tons of water on the Santon Apartments before extinguishing the blaze.

Ike Plans Trip To New England

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower will visit Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine June 22-27 for a round of informal speeches and two days of fishing—unless international developments change his plans.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the President had accepted invitations extended by the senators and the governors of the three states.

"If accepting," Hagerty added, "the President informed his hosts that his visit must be conditioned, of course, on any presidential obligations that might arise at that time."

Asked whether that meant the planned meeting of the chiefs of state of the U.S., Great Britain, France and Russia might be arranged for late June, Hagerty told newsmen:

"That (possibility) certainly is in there. We just don't know yet."

Truman May Get Bid

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 17 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman may be invited to make the closing speech of the U.N. commemorative session in San Francisco if President Eisenhower does not attend, U.N. sources said today.

Army Unveils Nike Battery, Unit In 'Back-Yard' Defense

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The Army displayed to the public today a unit of its eventual billion dollar system of "back-yard" defenses against enemy bombers, a Nike antiaircraft guided missile battery.

The battery, typical of others now in place around at least 15 northern and coastal cities, is located on farm land at Lorton, Va., 16 miles south of here.

Newsmen were shown a setup consisting of two sites.

One is the control point from which three radar systems locate approaching bombers, "lock onto" the aircraft and fire the target-seeking missiles. The other is the launching site composed of 12 ramps.

It is a self-contained community for 109 men of the battery, including six officers. They eat, sleep and live there, ready for a "red" alert which will send them racing to the control and launching positions if distant warning systems flash a signal of approaching, unidentified planes.

What can the Nike do against enemy planes?

Brig. Gen. R. R. Hendrix, commander of the 2nd Antiaircraft Region, said he could not divulge percentage of kills per number of missiles fired.

'But I can tell you that the weapon has a tremendous kill potential," he said. "It is capable of outmaneuvering and destroying any type of aircraft presently known and foreseeable for the immediate future. Moreover the range and altitude of Nike gives us the capability to destroy enemy aircraft before they reach a distance from one of our cities from which they could launch their bomb loads."

West Strength Forces Soviet Tactic Change

Nation Told Recent Events Might Turn The Tide Of History

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower and his secretary of state held out cautious hope tonight of a new dawn of peace in the world.

Joining in an unprecedented radio-TV report to the nation, the President and Secretary Dulles voiced hope of real progress in forthcoming top level talks with the Russians.

It was Eisenhower who spoke of a possible "new dawn," though he cautioned that this country must stay strong and vigilant—mustn't get its hopes too high or be mislead by any false appearance of agreement.

But he voiced confidence the American people have the maturity to take the right attitude.

And he nodded agreement when Dulles, just back from clear-the-ground negotiations in Europe, said recent events may have "turned the tide of history." Dulles referred to such things as the signing of an Austrian independence treaty and the seating of West Germany in the Atlantic alliance.

Russians Quit "Bucking"

Dulles said he was by no means convinced the Russians have "got religion." But he said it does look as if they have decided—in some fields at least—to quit "bucking" the moral standards of the world. And he attributed this mainly to strong and persistent pressure from the West.

That was a theme that ran through the Eisenhower - Dulles talk—that the United States and the rest of the free world have built up strength, are bargaining from a more potent position and that the Russians have changed their tactics accordingly.

Sitting in the President's oval office, Dulles told of his recent trip to Europe. The President introduced him, prompted him with questions and pointers, nodded and smiled as the secretary talked.

It had the air of an informal, chatty discussion of momentous issues, though Dulles had some notes with him and he and the President had conferred this afternoon, presumably to go over what was to be said.

Soviet Diplomatic Defeat

Dulles declared that in the decision of the NATO allies to re-arm West Germany as an ally, Soviet Russia has suffered its "greatest diplomatic defeat" since World War II.

Furthermore Dulles declared that Russia's decision to withdraw troops from Austria as part of the Austrian treaty settlement "is bound to have a tremendous impact" on satellite countries where "Soviet armies are in occupation."

When Austria's freedom has been completed, Dulles said, it will be, for example, the first time that Red ruled Czechoslovakia has had "an open door" on a free country.

Furthermore he asserted that the joy of the Austrians in their promised freedom will be "contagious." The Soviets know, he said, that "the people of the satellite countries are going to want to get for themselves the same things the Austrians are getting. They want to dance in the streets some time too."

West Policy Paying Off

Dulles built his talk up to the climactic subject of the Big Four meeting and said that many people are puzzling over why the Soviets have undergone some change. He said he personally thought that "the Soviet Union may be feeling it is more convenient for them to conform to some of the rules and practices of the civilized community."

At another point he declared that the policies of strength, firmness and "high moral principles" expressed by the Western powers in allying themselves and in embracing West Germany are "beginning to pay off."

"We find for the first time," Dulles said, "a softening of the Soviet attitude."

From time to time the President interrupted Dulles with some comment of his own. At one point he did this to express confidence that the American people have developed "a greater maturity" with respect to negotiating with the Russians than they possessed some years ago.

Mine Kills Two Israelis

JERUSALEM, Israel Section, May 17 (AP)—Israel complained to the Mixed Armistice Commission tonight that an Egyptian land mine blast killed two Israeli soldiers and wounded three today.

An Israeli army spokesman said the men were on routine patrol. One man was killed outright.

Knowland Still Predicts Postal Pay Bill's Veto

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — President Eisenhower was described once again today by a highly placed Republican as determined to veto an 8.8 per cent increase in the Post Office payroll.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California said after a White House conference the President probably will act on postal pay legislation "in the next day or two." And he said he still stands by his prediction of last week that the result would be a veto.

As Knowland and other GOP congressional leaders held their regular Tuesday morning meeting with Eisenhower, a group from Michigan went to another quarter to urge approval of the pay bill passed by Congress. The delegation told Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall the raise was justified and a veto would hurt the GOP.

Hall's callers were Donald Leonard, 1954 Republican candidate for governor of Michigan; James H. Rademacher Jr., Detroit president of the AFL National Assn. of Letter Carriers; and Snow F. Grigsby of Detroit, editor of Postal Alliance, organ of the National Alliance of Postal employes.

Leonard said Eisenhower's rejection of a postal pay bill last year was politically "rather disastrous" and argued a repeat would "rob the working man of a talking point for the Republican party."

Hall was quoted as replying the President makes his decisions on grounds of "what is best for the country as a whole."

Eisenhower has implied he would sign legislation providing a 7.6 per cent raise for the country's half-million postal employes. Although he said recently he hadn't committed himself on the bill sent from Congress, he noted previously he would view anything beyond 7.6 with concern.

Ex-Generals Denied Immigration Posts

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The House today tentatively turned down the appointment of two retired generals to the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Under special rules, it sent back to the Armed Services Committee Senate-passed bills authorizing appointment of Maj. Gen. Frank H. Partridge and Brig. Gen. Edwin B. Howard as asst. immigration commissioners.

The measures came up under regulations permitting two members to block action and send them back to committee. They can be sent to the House floor later under a different procedure.

Both Partridge and Howard now are part-time advisors to the department, at $50 daily.

Rep. Mollihan (D-WVa) a member of the Armed Services Committee, opposed appointment of the two generals on the grounds it would add some of President Eisenhower's military "cronies" to the government.

U.S. Readies Arms For West Germany

BONN, Germany, May 17 (AP)—Substantial quantities of American military equipment will be delivered to West Germany as soon as the Bonn Parliament passes laws creating her armed forces, the U.S. Embassy announced today.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said recently these laws will be passed before Parliament starts its summer recess July 15.

Before West Germans can be put into uniform a number of new laws, laying down conditions of service, rates of pay and other points, have to be passed.

The first set of laws will provide for the enlistment of about 150,000 volunteers. They will be the skeleton force which, after training, will receive conscripts to bring the total armed forces up to 500,000. The whole process is expected to take about three years.

Adlai Would Welcome Support Of Tammany

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson, defeated Democratic presidential candidate in 1952, said today that "If it were my ambition to seek the Democratic presidential nomination next year I would welcome the support of Carmine de Sapio and Tammany Hall."

De Sapio, the New York secretary of state, is a member of the Democratic National Committee as well as leader of Tammany, the New York County Democratic organization.

Stevenson returned from four weeks in Africa. He described it as primarily a business trip as a lawyer.

Eddie Duchin's Widow Is Granted Annulment

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP)—The former wife of the late Eddie Duchin, nationally known band leader, was granted an annulment today which ended her 1952 marriage to Morgan Griffin Heap, formerly of Knoxville, Md., but now of Colorado Springs, Colo.

Duchin's widow was granted the right to her former married name of Maria Teresa Duchin. The former English woman testified she wished to remain in the East to care for Peter Duchin, a son of the bandleader by another marriage.

Dr. Oppenheimer Rules Out General Hazard In A-Tests

AMES, Iowa, May 17 (AP)—Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, the famed physicist, said today he does not believe there are any general hazards in the atomic test explosions in Nevada.

Here for a technical lecture at Iowa State College, Dr. Oppenheimer discussed the atomic tests in an interview with Robert H. Spiegel of the Des Moines Tribune. Oppenheimer was in charge of the successful wartime atomic bomb project at Los Alamos, N. M.

Asked if he held an opinion on possible dangers involved in the test shots, he said:

"I do have rather strong views on the subject.

"I'll stick my neck out and say I don't believe there are any general hazards in the test shots.

"Further, I favor the full studies being made and feel they should be extended.

"I'm sure there will be no widespread harm from the tests. Perhaps one community might be affected, but the commission (Atomic Energy Commission) takes great care in that connection.

"That is not to say in warfare that people far away from a blast won't suffer. They will. But that is not the case in these tests of relatively feeble and controlled explosions."

Dr. Oppenheimer declined to discuss the action of the AEC last spring in denying him access to secret government data by classifying him as a security risk. The AEC did not question Oppenheimer's loyalty. His only comment in the interview was:

60,000 Londoners Brave Cold Wind To Hear Graham

LONDON, May 17 (AP) — Sixty thousand persons turned out in unseasonably cold weather tonight to hear Billy Graham preach about sin and salvation—and the temperature.

Wearing a top coat, a double breasted blue suit and a sweater, the American evangelist started the open-air meeting by drawing attention to the cold wind that brought snow to some parts of England.

"A personal welcome," he said, "on this wonderful summer evening. I am told that this is the coldest evening for this date in living memory."

London's temperature was in the low 40's.

"But," said Graham, "it was a warm, pleasant night out in San Francisco last night and they had 18,000 people. Tonight, we've got three to four times that many."

His reference was to the Rocky Marciano - Don Cockell heavyweight championship fight last night.

U.S. Inspectors Trial Is Shifted

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP) — The trial of three government wheat inspectors was transferred today from the Carroll County Circuit Court to the Federal District Court in Baltimore.

Assistant U. S. Atty. James H. Langrall said a copy of an order signed this morning by Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen was dispatched to Westminster, which was to have been the scene of the trial, for filing later in the day.

Langrall had filed a petition asking the transfer on grounds that the three defendants were on official government business when they were charged with trespassing on a Carroll County farm.

They are Elmer A. Ambrogne, of the compliance branch of the Department of Agriculture; Monroe G. Haines, a reporter with the county committee, and Frank L. Bushey, vice chairman of the committee.

The three ran into difficulties when they tried to measure wheat acreage on a farm to determine whether government wheat-planting quota regulations were being observed.

Langrall also has asked the courts to restrain the farmers from preventing government inspectors from carrying out their duties.

The trial on the trespassing charges had been set for tomorrow in Westminster, but will have to be rescheduled because of the transfer to federal court.

U.S. Inspectors Trial Is Shifted

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP) — The trial of three government wheat inspectors was transferred today from the Carroll County Circuit Court to the Federal District Court in Baltimore.

Assistant U. S. Atty. James H. Langrall said a copy of an order signed this morning by Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen was dispatched to Westminster, which was to have been the scene of the trial, for filing later in the day.

Langrall had filed a petition asking the transfer on grounds that the three defendants were on official government business when they were charged with trespassing on a Carroll County farm.

They are Elmer A. Ambrogne, of the compliance branch of the Department of Agriculture; Monroe G. Haines, a reporter with the county committee, and Frank L. Bushey, vice chairman of the committee.

The three ran into difficulties when they tried to measure wheat acreage on a farm to determine whether government wheat-planting quota regulations were being observed.

Langrall also has asked the courts to restrain the farmers from preventing government inspectors from carrying out their duties.

The trial on the trespassing charges had been set for tomorrow in Westminster, but will have to be rescheduled because of the transfer to federal court.

India Moves To Consolidate Position In Himalayan Area

KALIMPONG, India, May 17 (AP)—The Indian government is moving to consolidate its position in this strategic himalayan area, long considered a fertile spot for the spread of Red Chinese influences.

India has accepted Communist China's promises for peaceful coexistence; but New Delhi is taking nothing for granted when it comes to the buffer states of Nepal, Sikkim and Bhutan.

These three states, with their frontiers only a few miles from Kalimpong, stand between India and the Red Chinese occupiers of Tibet. All three are oriented toward India, to varying degrees; all three are considered ripe for Red infiltration.

New Delhi reportedly has made it clear to Peiping that it would be extremely concerned at any Chinese attempts to turn these states toward Peiping. But, apparently without too much effort on Peiping's part, pressure is building up against India's Himalayan position.

In steps seemingly intended to counter this pressure, India is offering technical and economic aid to the three buffer states. New Delhi believes its Himalayan position can be made stronger by building up the region's underdeveloped economies, rather than by trying to create military defenses.

In the past five years India has given Nepal $16,800,000 in economic aid and plans to give an additional $3,360,000 during the 1955-56 fiscal year. Dozens of Indian technicians also have been sent to assist the Nepalese.

Sikkim is getting $1,155,000 in economic aid from India this year. New Delhi has spent an equal amount since 1947 on the development and maintenance of Sikkimese roads. With Indian technical assistance, Sikkim is embarking on a 7-year development plan.

Bhutan, whose feudal Maharajah is trying to cope with a budding democratic movement, has accepted an Indian scholar to help write a "popular" constitution. Indian technicians also are expected to enter Bhutan soon to study flood and transportation problems. The Bhutanese government, which never has been too anxious for outside contacts, has not sought large-scale Indian aid.

While Sikkim and Bhutan are recognized protectorates of India, Nepal stands as an independent kingdom. However, Indian views have a strong influence on its foreign and domestic policies. There is considerable poverty in Nepal and some unrest. The Reds reportedly have been capitalizing on these problems.

Communist China also has bothered India. Singh fled to Tibet in 1952 after an abortive revolt. India has an advantage in Nepal in the fact that Nepalese culture is largely oriented toward India's Hindu religion and customs.

Sikkim and Bhutan involve different situations. Both states are underdeveloped and poor. However Peiping's biggest potential advantage lies in their ties with Buddhist Tibet. Both recognize the authority of the Dalai Lama, the spiritual ruler of Tibet, who apparently has gone over to the Chinese Reds. Communist organizers are said to be active, especially among workers on the big tea estates around Darjeeling.

ESB Move To Ban Credit Telephone Cards Disclosed

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP)—The Maryland Employment Security Board has moved to withdraw credit telephone privileges from its own members and from other officials of the Department of Employment Security.

The move, disclosed by the new board chairman, former State Sen. Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County, was one of a series of steps being taken to correct alleged irregularities in the State agency, which is the subject of a special investigation.

The board has also revoked parking privileges in a downtown Baltimore garage for its three members. Before Kimble became chairman, board members could park in the garage at the expense of the Federal government which supplies the agency with operating funds.

Records of the ESB show that a recently resigned member of the board, John L. Estes of Cumberland, made 242 long distance telephone calls in little more than a year.

During that period, another member, Charles H. Borcherding Sr., made 27 long distance telephone calls, seven of them to Estes.

Kimble noted in banning further use of the telephone credit cards that the system was open to abuse.

Other action taken by the board includes a decision to use present personnel to handle vacation vacancies instead of hiring temporary employes for the summer. About 150 temporary workers were hired last year.

The board also decided to ask national headquarters to provide technicians to survey the department's operations in order to determine what could be done to improve efficiency.

State's Strawberry Harvest At Its Peak

COLLEGE PARK, Md., May 17 (AP) — Lovers of Maryland strawberries are in for a treat.

The Maryland - Delaware Crop Reporting Service said today the strawberry harvest is at its peak in southern sections of the state and what's more, the berries are in ecellent condition.

The reporters, in their weekly survey of crop conditions in the two-state area, said the pea crop is progressing well in the truck farm area and the first peas would be ready for processing by the first of next month.

Nearly all other crops in the area are making good progress under favorable weather conditions but insects and plant diseases are showing up—beetles among potatoes, cut worms among tomatoes, hessian fly in wheat, wildfire in tobacco.

Yamin, Lococo Trial Set For September 27

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Trial of Martin Yamin, 32, former Baltimore police magistrate, and Rosario Lococo, 44, on a charge of first degree murder was set today for Sept. 27.

They were indicted April 25 in the Feb. 15 slaying of Joseph Aronowitz, 42, the day before he was scheduled to appear for trial in Baltimore as a member of a robbery gang in which Yamin allegedly was involved. The slain man reportedly was ready to testify against others in the gang.

The clerk of Kings County Court announced the trial date and said Judge George Joyce would preside.

Bataan Survivor Plunges To Death

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., May 17 (AP)—A Havre de Grace business man, who as a soldier in the Philippines survived the notorious "Death March" from Bataan, plunged to his death today from a railroad bridge.

Harford County Coroner Dr. Gerald Palmer described the death of 34-year-old Levering J. McCullough as a suicide.

McCullough's body was found below the 90-foot bridge over the Susquehanna River on a pile of boulders on the Harford County shore some 50 yards from the water's edge.

His car was parked a short distance from where he plunged from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Bridge. There is an iron railing guard on the bridge.

McCullough was a partner in the dry cleaning firm of McSpaden and McCullough. He is survived by a wife and child.

The dead man was reportedly despondent during the past three or four days.

McCullough was a prisoner of the Japanese throughout most of World War II. He was captured in the Japanese assault on the island fortress of Bataan.

Smoking Airliner Lands At Baltimore

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—American Airlines here said that one of its planes en route from Washington to New York landed safely at Baltimore airport this morning when the pilot, Capt. J. Miller, discovered smoke in the cockpit.

An airlines spokesman said it was caused probably by a short circuit in the electrical system.

The plane carried 35 passengers who were put aboard another plane to New York.

Crows Hard To Scare

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — Scarecrows don't scare crows much. The National Geographic Society says the birds are too smart. Farmers try such things as plastic snakes and recordings of crows in distress, but the big black birds go on eating.

COLLEGE PARK, Md., May 17 (AP)—Miss Carmen Guevara, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Santiago Guevara of Washington, D. C., was elected May Queen at May Day ceremonies on the University of Maryland campus this afternoon.

W.Va. Governor Signs Two Bills

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 17 (AP)—Gov. William C. Marland's office said today he has signed the only two bills enacted by the special session of the Legislature which adjourned last Friday.

The principal act is designed to prod counties to revise property assessments upward as a means of increasing local level support of schools.

Counties which fail to bring assessments up to levels prescribed in the bill will be penalized accordingly in the amount of state school aid they receive.

To qualify for a full share of state aid, in the 1956-57 fiscal year a county will have to have property assessed at a minimum of 35 per cent of appraised value, as determined by the tax commissioner.

The required assessment level will increase five per cent a year until it reaches 50 per cent for the year 1959-60. Each year thereafter, under the act, the required level also will be 50 per cent.

The other bill signed by Marland exempts state and local tax supported educational agencies from paying the 2 per cent privilege tax on purchase of motor vehicles. The measure will, for instance, relieve county boards of education from paying the tax on school buses.

D'Alesandro Begins Third Term As Baltimore Mayor

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP)—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, who has never lost an election, promised to "make Baltimore a big league city in every respect" as he was sworn in today for a third term.

Before leaving his home in "Little Italy" for the City Hall ceremonies, the mayor and his wife paid a visit at St. Leo's Parochial School where both were pupils when they were children.

The youngsters lined up along the curb to greet the mayor after the school fife and drum corps provided a stirring reception.

After the St. Leo's interlude, the mayor, Mrs. D'Alesandro and three of their six children proceeded to City Hall for the formal inauguration.

D'Alesandro listed among goals for the next four years in his inaugural address the following:

1. Improvement of the port through close cooperation of city and state.

2. Development of the Susquehanna River as a supplemental water source to meet rising city water needs.

3. Building of a civic center for conventions, concerts and sports events.

4. Completion of plans for locating a group of state office buildings as part of the redevelopment of the slum area adjacent to the Fifth Regiment Armory.

Canada's high north is a frozen desert, says the National Geographic Society. The northern islands get little more precipitation than the Sahara.

It places the county on a par with the majority of Eastern Shore counties.

The new minimum salary compares with the $2,500 current statewide minimum and the $2,800 which will go into effect next fall.

ESB Move To Ban Credit Telephone Cards Disclosed

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP)—The Maryland Employment Security Board has moved to withdraw credit telephone privileges from its own members and from other officials of the Department of Employment Security.

The move, disclosed by the new board chairman, former State Sen. Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County, was one of a series of steps being taken to correct alleged irregularities in the State agency, which is the subject of a special investigation.

The board has also revoked parking privileges in a downtown Baltimore garage for its three members. Before Kimble became chairman, board members could park in the garage at the expense of the Federal government which supplies the agency with operating funds.

Records of the ESB show that a recently resigned member of the board, John L. Estes of Cumberland, made 242 long distance telephone calls in little more than a year.

During that period, another member, Charles H. Borcherding Sr., made 27 long distance telephone calls, seven of them to Estes.

Kimble noted in banning further use of the telephone credit cards that the system was open to abuse.

Other action taken by the board includes a decision to use present personnel to handle vacation vacancies instead of hiring temporary employes for the summer. About 150 temporary workers were hired last year.

The board also decided to ask national headquarters to provide technicians to survey the department's operations in order to determine what could be done to improve efficiency.

BACK IN MOTHER'S ARMS — Tommy Woodard, 7, is comforted by his mother, Mrs. Joseph Woodard, at their home in Elsie, Ore., after his release yesterday by a man who held him in a tent in the woods since Sunday. The man, identified by state police as Pvt. William E. Kent, AWOL soldier with a record as a child molester, was jailed at Astoria, Ore., without charge.

State's Strawberry Harvest At Its Peak

The Maryland - Delaware Crop Reporting Service said today the strawberry harvest is at its peak in southern sections of the state and what's more, the berries are in ecellent condition.

The reporters, in their weekly survey of crop conditions in the two-state area, said the pea crop is progressing well in the truck farm area and the first peas would be ready for processing by the first of next month.

Nearly all other crops in the area are making good progress under favorable weather conditions but insects and plant diseases are showing up—beetles among potatoes, cut worms among tomatoes, hessian fly in wheat, wildfire in tobacco.

Yamin, Lococo Trial Set For September 27

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—Trial of Martin Yamin, 32, former Baltimore police magistrate, and Rosario Lococo, 44, on a charge of first degree murder was set today for Sept. 27.

They were indicted April 25 in the Feb. 15 slaying of Joseph Aronowitz, 42, the day before he was scheduled to appear for trial in Baltimore as a member of a robbery gang in which Yamin allegedly was involved. The slain man reportedly was ready to testify against others in the gang.

The clerk of Kings County Court announced the trial date and said Judge George Joyce would preside.

Bataan Survivor Plunges To Death

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., May 17 (AP)—A Havre de Grace business man, who as a soldier in the Philippines survived the notorious "Death March" from Bataan, plunged to his death today from a railroad bridge.

Harford County Coroner Dr. Gerald Palmer described the death of 34-year-old Levering J. McCullough as a suicide.

McCullough's body was found below the 90-foot bridge over the Susquehanna River on a pile of boulders on the Harford County shore some 50 yards from the water's edge.

His car was parked a short distance from where he plunged from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Bridge. There is an iron railing guard on the bridge.

McCullough was a partner in the dry cleaning firm of McSpaden and McCullough. He is survived by a wife and child.

The dead man was reportedly despondent during the past three or four days.

McCullough was a prisoner of the Japanese throughout most of World War II. He was captured in the Japanese assault on the island fortress of Bataan.

Smoking Airliner Lands At Baltimore

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP)—American Airlines here said that one of its planes en route from Washington to New York landed safely at Baltimore airport this morning when the pilot, Capt. J. Miller, discovered smoke in the cockpit.

An airlines spokesman said it was caused probably by a short circuit in the electrical system.

The plane carried 35 passengers who were put aboard another plane to New York.

Crows Hard To Scare

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — Scarecrows don't scare crows much. The National Geographic Society says the birds are too smart. Farmers try such things as plastic snakes and recordings of crows in distress, but the big black birds go on eating.

U. Of Md. Selects 32nd May Queen

COLLEGE PARK, Md., May 17 (AP)—Miss Carmen Guevara, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Santiago Guevara of Washington, D. C., was elected May Queen at May Day ceremonies on the University of Maryland campus this afternoon.

The University's 32nd May Queen is a senior with a scholastic average of 3.787. A member of Phi Kappa Phi sorority, she is historian of the Newman Club, treasurer of the International Club and a member of Mortar Board, women's honorary society.

Carmen is also president of the Associated Women's Societies and a committee chairman of the Student Government Assn.

W.Va. Governor Signs Two Bills

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 17 (AP)—Gov. William C. Marland's office said today he has signed the only two bills enacted by the special session of the Legislature which adjourned last Friday.

The principal act is designed to prod counties to revise property assessments upward as a means of increasing local level support of schools.

Counties which fail to bring assessments up to levels prescribed in the bill will be penalized accordingly in the amount of state school aid they receive.

To qualify for a full share of state aid, in the 1956-57 fiscal year a county will have to have property assessed at a minimum of 35 per cent of appraised value, as determined by the tax commissioner.

The required assessment level will increase five per cent a year until it reaches 50 per cent for the year 1959-60. Each year thereafter, under the act, the required level also will be 50 per cent.

The other bill signed by Marland exempts state and local tax supported educational agencies from paying the 2 per cent privilege tax on purchase of motor vehicles. The measure will, for instance, relieve county boards of education from paying the tax on school buses.

D'Alesandro Begins Third Term As Baltimore Mayor

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP)—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, who has never lost an election, promised to "make Baltimore a big league city in every respect" as he was sworn in today for a third term.

Before leaving his home in "Little Italy" for the City Hall ceremonies, the mayor and his wife paid a visit at St. Leo's Parochial School where both were pupils when they were children.

The youngsters lined up along the curb to greet the mayor after the school fife and drum corps provided a stirring reception.

After the St. Leo's interlude, the mayor, Mrs. D'Alesandro and three of their six children proceeded to City Hall for the formal inauguration.

1. Improvement of the port through close cooperation of city and state.

2. Development of the Susquehanna River as a supplemental water source to meet rising city water needs.

3. Building of a civic center for conventions, concerts and sports events.

4. Completion of plans for locating a group of state office buildings as part of the redevelopment of the slum area adjacent to the Fifth Regiment Armory.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

It may be more blessed to give than to receive, but this is a give and take world. Receiving is part of our natural relationship with others just as giving is. Do you know how to accept favors as gracefully as you bestow them?

We all know the person who is always doing something for someone else, but who seems unable to cope with the situation when anything is done for him. This so often causes embarrassment to everyone concerned. To make any well-intentioned person uncomfortable is, of course, out of the bounds of good manners as well as charm. Thus graciousness on the receiving end is as important as on the giving.

You want to be the giver as often as you can, but when you are in a position of accepting, do so simply. Don't object or try to refuse when an appropriate service or favor is done naturally and wholeheartedly. Argument is awkward, and it's a rebuff that isn't deserved. Then, too, it is unkind to deny another the pleasure of being generous or thoughtful.

Express appreciation that is definite, but avoid being profuse. Too emphatic thanks can also make others uncomfortable. A more sincere appreciation is expressed differently. It is so much better to remember until later when you can return the compliment with some generosity or thoughtfulness of your own.

They were Miss Janet Anderson of the International Relations group; Miss Mary Murray, Educational group; Mrs. Arleen Russell, Legislative committee; Mrs. Van Newkirk and Mrs. Milton Granet, Social Studies committee; Miss Ruth Clauson, Creative Arts committee; and Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger, Gardening group.

Miss Nan Livingstone and Miss Adele Malcolm were appointed to audit the treasurer's report.

June Safety Program Is Discussed

The Flintstone Homemakers Club made final plans for its June safety meeting and discussed a family picnic for July at the meeting Friday at the home of Mrs. Chester Robinette. Singing of "America the Beautiful" opened the meeting, followed by the reading of the collect by Mrs. Howard Robinette. In giving the history of the hymn of the month, Miss Pearl Wilson said, "Jesus Still Lead Us On" was the favorite of some 2,000 hymns written by the German composer, Nicholaus Zinzendors. Mrs. B. C. Robinette accompanied the group singing. Roll call was answered with each giving her own "paint up, clean up, and fix up" home improvement plans.

Mrs. Guy Thompson presided and led a discussion on RWSC. She also read letters from Miss Mary Wise, thanking the club for its contribution to the Homemakers Pantry Shelf at the Community Flower Show. Attention was called to the 1956 planning meetings being held at the extension office, for chairman of Family Life, Food and Nutrition, Home Management, Home Furnishing and Clothing committees. A report on the county executive meeting was given by Mrs. B. C. Robinette and Mrs. Thompson. A discussion of the new point system of scoring publicity was held.

Progress was reported, by the 40th Anniversary committee, on plans for the celebration August 10. Mrs. L. M. Wigfield, Miss Pearl Wilson and Mrs. H. C. Willison were appointed to assist.

In giving reports on the "do it yourself home training meeting," conducted by Guy Glenger, Mrs. K. T. Gilson, Home Management chairman, stressed much time, patience and effort is saved for the homemaker if she has the right tools for simple home repairs and keeps them in a convenient place. She can avoid mental frustration by making her own small repairs and calling for help on the more difficult tasks. Mrs. Gilson went on to discuss the various tools needed and gave suggestions for the selection of each.

Seven area clubs are joining in the June 10 meeting at the Flintstone High School. This will be a specially planned safety meeting and films are to be shown.

The meeting closed with the group singing, "John Brown's Baby." Others present were Mrs. Chester Robinette, Mrs. E. H. Roland, Mrs. H. K. Chaney, Mrs. H. V. Bender, and Mrs. Arthur Howard. Jean, Nancy and Lee Robinette were guests.

The Flintstone Homemakers Club made final plans for its June safety meeting and discussed a family picnic for July at the meeting Friday at the home of Mrs. Chester Robinette. Singing of "America the Beautiful" opened the meeting, followed by the reading of the collect by Mrs. Howard Robinette. In giving the history of the hymn of the month, Miss Pearl Wilson said, "Jesus Still Lead Us On" was the favorite of some 2,000 hymns written by the German composer, Nicholaus Zinzendors. Mrs. B. C. Robinette accompanied the group singing. Roll call was answered with each giving her own "paint up, clean up, and fix up" home improvement plans.

Mrs. Guy Thompson presided and led a discussion on RWSC. She also read letters from Miss Mary Wise, thanking the club for its contribution to the Homemakers Pantry Shelf at the Community Flower Show. In giving reports on the "do it yourself home training meeting," conducted by Guy Glenger, Mrs. K. T. She can avoid mental frustration by making her own small repairs and calling for help on the more difficult tasks. Mrs. Gilson went on to discuss the various tools needed and gave suggestions for the selection of each.

Seven area clubs are joining in the June 10 meeting at the Flintstone High School. This will be a specially planned safety meeting and films are to be shown.

The meeting closed with the group singing, "John Brown's Baby." Others present were Mrs. Chester Robinette, Mrs. E. H. Roland, Mrs. H. K. Chaney, Mrs. H. V. Bender, and Mrs. Arthur Howard. Jean, Nancy and Lee Robinette were guests.

Air Force Plans To Test New Jet Bomber In Foreign Lands During Next 18 Months

By VERN HAUGLAND
A.P. Aviation Reporter

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla., May 17 (AP)—The Air Force has spoken here of plans to try out its new intercontinental jet bomber, the B52, in foreign lands in the next year and a half.

The testing will be done by the Air Proving Ground Command (APGC), to which the first B52 made available for operational trials flew nonstop from Seattle last week.

The eight-engine Boeing heavy bomber arrived at the height of an air power demonstration for a military-civilian audience including 200 representatives of friendly foreign nations.

It was the first air show in which a B52 has taken part. Observers included Field Marshal Luang Pibulsonggram, prime minister of Thailand.

Brig. Gen. Daniel S. Campbell, proving ground commander, told his guests the B52 will be "subjected to exhaustive testing in many areas of the globe" the next 18 months.

He added the plane is to be delivered to operational units of the Strategic Air Command "in the very near future."

The B52 is to replace the slower piston-and-jet B36 bomber as the major potential intercontinental A-bomb carrier.

The Air Force also impressed visitors here last week with the newly developed ability of light bombers, as well as fighters, to "toss" a bomb — presumably atomic—too potent to be dropped conventionally.

A year ago the new toss-bombing technique was demonstrated here by an F84F fighter which released a 1,000-pound bomb during a steep, arching climb. The bomb sailed up and out like a baseball, landing accurately on a target some two miles away.

Last week the command duplicated the feat, for the first time publicly, with a Martin Canberra B57 night bomber. It was explained the Canberra is the first jet bomber capable of the vertical climb into upside - down flight which is required to toss a bomb. That maneuverability is usually associated only with fighters.

The Air Force also demonstrated for the first time in public a new rocket launcher that greatly increases the firepower of jet fighters.

Campbell said the command has just completed its test of the rocket launchers, which enable the F84F Thunderstreak to fire 70 2.75-inch folding fin rockets at a time. The F84F heretofore has carried 24 five-inch rockets.

PLOW TACKLES HUGE SNOWDRIFTS — High above the timberline in the Colorado Rockies, a rotary plow chops through snowdrifts on the Trail Ridge road between Estes Park and Grand Lake. Barring further storms, the road will be opened to motorists May 28 for the summer. In spots, the highway, one of the highest in the nation, climbs to an altitude of 12,000 feet.

Cubans Dance To Cha Cha Cha

HAVANA, Cuba, May 17 (AP)—Now it's the Cha Cha Cha.

This is the latest from the home of the Rhumba and the Mambo. From sunup to sunup the Cha Cha Cha throbs on the Cuban air. The Mambo, here at least, is as finished as last night's daiquiri.

Word drifting own from the north indicates the Cha Cha Cha—both song and dance—already has reached the United States.

"If only they don't try to Americanize it," is the fervent hope of one Cuban.

From the ch-ch-ch rattle of the maracas comes the Cha Cha Cha rhythm. It's a rapid 1-2, 1-2-3 beat. For the 1-2-3 read, or sing, Cha Cha Cha.

The dance is something else. It requires the coordination of a main event boxer and the boundless energy of a 3-year-old.

At first glance the Cha Cha Cha appears to be a sway and a dip on the 1-2 beat, and three fast shuffles on the 1-2-3. All accompanied by rhythmic wiggles and a twitch of either the left or right shoulder.

Variations include a fast curley-cue step.

Physician Says Middle Age Spread Shows Lack Of Exercise, Not Aging

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—So your vitality has seeped away until it almost isn't. Your ambition sags. And you have developed—you'll excuse the expression—a middle aged spread.

What's wrong with you?

Well, a University of Kentucky medical doctor suggested recently these aren't so much signs that you're growing old. He said it may be more of an indication that you no longer take vigorous physical exercise.

Dr. Ernst Jokl teaches physical medicine and rehabilitation at Kentucky. And he gave his views in the magazine put out by the American Assn. for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. This is the muscle flexing branch of the National Education Assn.

People today live 3½ times as long as they did back in the Stone Age. But a long life is not an unmixed blessing.

Dr. Jokl uses two pictures of a man identified merely as "an internationally known wrestling champion" to show what happens to many of us.

In one picture the internationally known wrestling champion is 28 years old, all chest, muscles and fierce mustache. The other picture shows the I.K.W.C. at 63, without any serious exercise for 30 years.

The way the doctor puts it, in professional prose, makes it seem even more chilling.

"The ratio between chest and abdominal circumference is reversed," he said. "Body weight did not change, though specific gravity was down by 5 per cent."

Your specific gravity doesn't have to fall.

Jokl notes with approval that Olympic winners show up at what once would have been thought middle age. A Dr. Savolaiken of Finland, for example, won a bronze medal in the 1952 games for excellence on the horizontal bars. He was 45.

A Swiss mountain climber named Chevalier went out and climbed himself a mountain at 74.

And to get away from sports, Jokl points to Toscanini and Bruno Walter who have shown a lively enthusiasm for work at an age when many are groping for a rocking chair.

Although we are living longer now, old age isn't a modern invention, as every student of Methuselah knows.

The Roman statesman, Cato, died at 85. Democritus, the so-called laughing philosopher, kept up the hilarity until he was 90. Hippocrates, the physician, lived to be 85. Isocrates, the Greek orator, lived to be 98.

Unfortunately, Dr. Jokl has no information on what happened to their centers of gravity. It's obvious, though, that he hopes they exercised enough to keep their chests out and their stomachs in to the end.

Doctor Sounds Call For All-Out War On Malaria

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 17 (AP) — Dr. Paul F. Russell, a modern Paul Revere, is sounding the alarm for a widescale war to wipe out malaria.

He says now is the time to attempt it, before the world gets populated with malaria-spreading mosquitoes too tough or wary to kill with DDT and Dieldrin.

Dr. Russell, a white-haired, bespectacled Bostonian, is a veteran malaria specialist of the Rockefeller Foundation in New York. He is on loan as consultant to the World Health Organization in Geneva.

He presented his case privately here the other day. Later he outlined it, like this, to a reporter:

Malaria, marked by chills and fever, is caused by a one-celled animal and spread from man to man by the blood-sucking female of the anopheles mosquito. To eradicate it, you must eradicate that microscopic animal.

The "old line" attack on it was made by giving drugs to malaria patients, using insecticides on mosquitoes and draining or oiling mosquito ponds. This was "malaria control."

Those insecticides had to be sprayed right on the mosquito to kill it. The newer ones, notably DDT and Dieldrin, are sprayed on walls where it lights—the mosquito absorbs the poison and dies.

"Now instead of talking control, to which you could see no end, we talk eradication," Dr. Russell said. "these new insecticides make it technically and financially feasible."

Since the war he said, malaria has been practically eliminated from the United States, Italy, Cyprus, Mauritius and large parts of Ceylon, French and British Guiana and Venezuela. But in 1950 a hitch developed. In Greece, mosquitoes turned up that DDT couldn't kill. They turned up last year in Java, this year in Saudi Arabia.

In Panama, mosquitoes took to avoiding DDT-treated walls.

The theory, the doctor said, is that in some species of malaria-carrying mosquitoes, strains existed all along that were proof against DDT and that as the susceptible lines of mosquitoes died off, the tough ones multiplied to replace them.

"We see handwriting on the wall, warning signals that we haven't all the time in the world to eradicate malaria."

Dr. Russell said all malaria fighters should strike hard now, with insecticides, before mosquitoes appear that are resistant to Dieldrin as well as DDT, and clean up any pockets of malaria thereafter with drugs. He said there might be only a year or two to spare.

Hurricanes, With Season Near, To Have New Names

By E. V. W. JONES

MIAMI, Fla., May 17 (AP)—Who will be Miss Hurricane of 1955 — Brenda? Stella? Yvonne?

Regardless of which tropical storm cuts the widest swath, it will have a brand new name and a new chief storm forecaster will be calling the shots as it whirls across the meteorological stage.

Alice, a rare out-of-season creature and the first hurricane of 1955 came too early, and for that reason she was given the same name as the first of 1954.

Those still to come will have names selected by a committee of Navy, Air Force and Weather Bureau officials to avoid confusion with storms already on record.

Hurricanes are totally unladylike creatures, and giving them feminine names created something of a disturbance itself last year after Carol, Edna and Hazel brought death to 279 persons and property damage totaling more than a billion dollars. All three raked the Northeastern states after whirling up from the tropics.

This year's Alice was far less formidable. She popped up in January to lash the Caribbean islands of the Lesser Antilles with 75 m.p.h. winds.

The next hurricane will be named Brenda. Her successors will be called Connie, Diane, Edith, Flora, Gladys, Hilda, Iona, Janet, Katie, Linda, Martha, Nelly, Orva, Peggy, Queena, Rosa, Stella, Trudy, Ursa, Verna, Wilma, Xenia, Yvonne and Zelda—if the season runs that long. Last year the list stopped with Hazel.

The normal hurricane season runs from June 15 to Nov. 15.

Gordon Dunn, 49-year-old former head of the Chicago Weather Bureau, took charge of the storm warning service at Miami April 11 as chief forecaster. He succeeded Grady Norton, who died last year when Hurricane Hazel was on the march.

Dunn formerly was associated with Norton in the storm warning service, and also saw hurricane duty in Puerto Rico and India during World War II.

An unassuming man, Dunn told those in his warning district he wanted to carry on the traditions of Norton, adding to them in the light of developments.

"We intend as a regular procedure to place areas under a hurricane alert when a storm threatens and is 36 to 48 hours away," said Dunn. "This practice was begun by Grady Norton, and we intend to follow it. An alert is not a warning, but merely tells the public to keep in touch with future advisories.

"Actual hurricane warnings, whenever practical, will be given 12 to 24 hours in advance. There are instances when these storms generate close to a coastline and sweep across within 12 hours. At other times they lag along until caught in a jet stream, then quickly develop a swift forward movement.

"In such circumstances shorter warning periods may occur, but in general a minimum deadline of 12 hours for warnings can be met."

Blue Law Test Set

MINEOLA, N.Y., May 17 (AP) — A deliberate test of a curious Nassau County blue law is slated for a court hearing May 25.

The law allows a florist to sell a plant in bloom on Sundays but not an evergreen.

By prearrangement, nurseryman Harold Crane got himself caught selling an evergreen on Sunday and was handed a summons.

The folding fan was invented by a Japanese in the Seventh Century and probably was brought to Europe by Portugese traders 1,000 years later.

Mountain Climbers Test Sleeping Bags In "Deep Freezer"

SEATTLE, May 17 (AP)—Two Seattle mountain climbers slept for seven hours last week in a cold storage locker at 26 below zero and with fans whipping up a 30-mile-an-hour breeze.

It was a test of specially built sleeping bags by Dick McGowan and Fred Beckey, who plan to use them in an attempt to climb 27,890-foot Mt. Lhotse in the Himalayas next fall.

"It would have been just like home," said McGowan of the night in cold storage, "except for the smell of fish."

Air Force Plans To Test New Jet Bomber In Foreign Lands During Next 18 Months

By VERN HAUGLAND
A.P. Aviation Reporter

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla., May 17 (AP)—The Air Force has spoken here of plans to try out its new intercontinental jet bomber, the B52, in foreign lands in the next year and a half.

The testing will be done by the Air Proving Ground Command (APGC), to which the first B52 made available for operational trials flew nonstop from Seattle last week.

The eight-engine Boeing heavy bomber arrived at the height of an air power demonstration for a military-civilian audience including 200 representatives of friendly foreign nations.

It was the first air show in which a B52 has taken part. Observers included Field Marshal Luang Pibulsonggram, prime minister of Thailand.

Brig. Gen. Daniel S. Campbell, proving ground commander, told his guests the B52 will be "subjected to exhaustive testing in many areas of the globe" the next 18 months.

He added the plane is to be delivered to operational units of the Strategic Air Command "in the very near future."

The B52 is to replace the slower piston-and-jet B36 bomber as the major potential intercontinental A-bomb carrier.

The Air Force also impressed visitors here last week with the newly developed ability of light bombers, as well as fighters, to "toss" a bomb — presumably atomic—too potent to be dropped conventionally.

A year ago the new toss-bombing technique was demonstrated here by an F84F fighter which released a 1,000-pound bomb during a steep, arching climb. The bomb sailed up and out like a baseball, landing accurately on a target some two miles away.

Last week the command duplicated the feat, for the first time publicly, with a Martin Canberra B57 night bomber. It was explained the Canberra is the first jet bomber capable of the vertical climb into upside - down flight which is required to toss a bomb. That maneuverability is usually associated only with fighters.

The Air Force also demonstrated for the first time in public a new rocket launcher that greatly increases the firepower of jet fighters.

Campbell said the command has just completed its test of the rocket launchers, which enable the F84F Thunderstreak to fire 70 2.75-inch folding fin rockets at a time. The F84F heretofore has carried 24 five-inch rockets.

PLOW TACKLES HUGE SNOWDRIFTS — High above the timberline in the Colorado Rockies, a rotary plow chops through snowdrifts on the Trail Ridge road between Estes Park and Grand Lake. Barring further storms, the road will be opened to motorists May 28 for the summer. In spots, the highway, one of the highest in the nation, climbs to an altitude of 12,000 feet.

Cubans Dance To Cha Cha Cha

HAVANA, Cuba, May 17 (AP)—Now it's the Cha Cha Cha.

This is the latest from the home of the Rhumba and the Mambo. From sunup to sunup the Cha Cha Cha throbs on the Cuban air. The Mambo, here at least, is as finished as last night's daiquiri.

Word drifting own from the north indicates the Cha Cha Cha—both song and dance—already has reached the United States.

"If only they don't try to Americanize it," is the fervent hope of one Cuban.

From the ch-ch-ch rattle of the maracas comes the Cha Cha Cha rhythm. It's a rapid 1-2, 1-2-3 beat. For the 1-2-3 read, or sing, Cha Cha Cha.

The dance is something else. It requires the coordination of a main event boxer and the boundless energy of a 3-year-old.

At first glance the Cha Cha Cha appears to be a sway and a dip on the 1-2 beat, and three fast shuffles on the 1-2-3. All accompanied by rhythmic wiggles and a twitch of either the left or right shoulder.

Variations include a fast curley-cue step.

Physician Says Middle Age Spread Shows Lack Of Exercise, Not Aging

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—So your vitality has seeped away until it almost isn't. Your ambition sags. And you have developed—you'll excuse the expression—a middle aged spread.

What's wrong with you?

Well, a University of Kentucky medical doctor suggested recently these aren't so much signs that you're growing old. He said it may be more of an indication that you no longer take vigorous physical exercise.

Dr. Ernst Jokl teaches physical medicine and rehabilitation at Kentucky. And he gave his views in the magazine put out by the American Assn. for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. This is the muscle flexing branch of the National Education Assn.

People today live 3½ times as long as they did back in the Stone Age. But a long life is not an unmixed blessing.

Dr. Jokl uses two pictures of a man identified merely as "an internationally known wrestling champion" to show what happens to many of us.

In one picture the internationally known wrestling champion is 28 years old, all chest, muscles and fierce mustache. The other picture shows the I.K.W.C. at 63, without any serious exercise for 30 years.

The way the doctor puts it, in professional prose, makes it seem even more chilling.

"The ratio between chest and abdominal circumference is reversed," he said. "Body weight did not change, though specific gravity was down by 5 per cent."

Your specific gravity doesn't have to fall.

Jokl notes with approval that Olympic winners show up at what once would have been thought middle age. A Dr. Savolaiken of Finland, for example, won a bronze medal in the 1952 games for excellence on the horizontal bars. He was 45.

Affable Clement Attlee Campaigns Informally

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON, May 17 (AP)—Clement Attlee campaigns informally.

Leader of the British Labor party, he is as easy and familiar as an old shoe as he goes about the country asking voters to support Socialist candidates in the general election of May 26.

Mrs. Attlee is his chauffeur. She takes him swiftly from meeting to meeting in the old family car. On the back seat is Clem's sweater, just in case of a sudden chill, and a vacuum bottle for tea.

Bald, affable, 72-year-old Attlee is just everybody's neighbor, dropping around without ceremony to chat and to urge that Labor party candidates be sent to Parliament.

He doesn't look like a former prime minister or long-time leader of an aggressive political party which did much to make Britain a welfare state. He looks rather like a neat professional man, or perhaps a teacher in some school of economics.

He is an informal man and informal things happen to him. Mrs. Attlee wheeled up to the Henry Thornton School at Clapham Common, but didn't stop quite where the reception committee expected. So when Mr. Attlee crawled out of the car he was greeted, not by the alderman, but by the school janior. Attlee knew his first name. They shook hands and discussed the new wedge which is the janitor's pride.

Socialists have a standardized chant to hail Attlee. They say, approximately in unison:

"Good old Clem — good old Clem!"

Mrs. Attlee takes off his overcoat, which under her management is well buttoned, and he strides quickly to the platform for a talk which is usually about local affairs. Invariably he knows them well. He knows the tax rate, the average income of the district, and the condition of the paving.

A Socialist slogan, printed under a folksy picture of Attlee smoking a pipe is:

"You can trust Mr. Attlee!"

In the first stages of the campaign Attlee had almost nothing to say of foreign affairs, and he did not mention the Conservative party candidate who is his chief opponent, Prime Minister Eden.

Attlee speeches are deliberately matter-of-fact. He avoids oratorical effects and makes few gestures. Usually his thumbs are caught in his vest pockets. His friends say he is dullest when he has thoroughly prepared a speech, but often he is witty when speaking casually.

He does not make personal remarks about opponents. In the House of Commons he has often seemed at his best when debating against Sir Winston Churchill, and least effective when taking issue with Eden. One explanation is that Eden seems to awaken an answering amiability in Attlee. But in one address Attlee did use the word "humbug" in discussing Eden's claim that Conservatives strive for a "property-owning democracy."

Attlee's chief concern midway in the campaign was to deny the Conservative contention that the controls of many activities outlined by the Socialist platform would bring a return of food rationing.

Attlee rarely is heckled. He is a bad man to heckle because he is so studious and, experienced that he knows all the answers, from the Socialist viewpoints, and he quietly devastates interrupters with a barrage of facts. Then his supporters, who are intensely loyal to the unassuming little man, shot:

"Good old Clem!"

Chicago's Cops Finding It Hard To Forget 1313

CHICAGO, May 17 (AP)—The Chicago Police Department is replacing its officers' stars with new badges, but the bluecoats are finding it hard to forget old star No. 1313.

They remember Sgt. Joseph Sevick, who was assigned No. 1313 in 1929. Within six years his wife, two daughters, a brother, his mother and father died. He asked for, and received, a new number.

Then there was John O'Bryant who took No. 1313 in 1923. A short time later, a cornice fell from a building and knocked off his hat. He was uninjured but said he wanted a new number. He changed his mind and kept No. 1313. A few years later he died at the age of 32.

Today's policemen remember Patrolman Charles Schwertfager. After getting No. 1313 in 1939, he and his partner were suspended, accused of shooting a youth. A civil service hearing cleared them but the youth's family filed a damage suit. While the suit was pending Schwertfager died, in his 13th year in the 13th Police District. His star was returned to the department May 13.

James McSweeney, police secretary, decided not to reissue No. 1313. Four years later, however, a large influx of new policemen forced it back into service.

This time it went to rookie Claude Connelly. Four months later he returned it. "Not taking any chances," he explained.

Some can remember back to 1922 when No. 1313 was issued to Roy Dillon. He was suspended from the force three months later and never returned.

Howard Seabury now wears No. 1313. It was issued to him after he lost his original badge. Since then he was bitten by one prisoner and fired at by another.

Asked if he would be glad to get rid of No. 1313, Seabury replied: "No, I'd like to keep it. I think I've worn the jinx right off it."

He may have a new No. 1313, but the department says the old one has to go. Not that they're superstitious, they add hastily.

Slum Elimination Cost

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP) — An added 100 billion dollar investment could eliminate American slums in 10 years in the opinion of the American Council to Improve Our Neighborhoods. The non-partisan organization made the estimate as part of its study of the nation's housing problems.

Brothers Separated 46 Years Reunited

MONTREAL, Que., May 17 (AP)—The Despres brothers plan to see each other more often in future. Arthur and Elphege Despres got together during the weekend after 46 years of separation.

Arthur, 52, now lives at Oriskany Falls, N. Y., while Elphege, 58, has lived in Montreal all his life.

The brothers were separated 46 years ago when their parents, with Arthur along, moved to New York State. Elphege was left with an uncle. Later the parents returned to Montreal, leaving Arthur in the United States to be sent for later. Something happened along the line—the brothers are not sure what—and Arthur stayed below the border.

"I decided lately to look for members of my family," said Arthur today, "and I came to Montreal where I remembered vaguely the address of an uncle.

"It took me three days to retrace relatives."

Well-Dressed Flier Soon May Wear Ankle 'Chutes

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — Ankle parachutes—that's what the well dressed airman may be wearing soon for bailing out of jet planes at high altitudes.

Nobody has tried such 'chutes yet, but it's hoped they'll stop the tumbling a man is subjected to when he's ejected from a high speed plane. Such gyrations often cause injuries.

The little ankle parachutes would be worn in addition to the regular parachute which is opened closer to the earth to let an airman safely down.

This report comes from the man best qualified to talk about it, Brazilian-born Lt. Col. John Paul Stapp, 44, of Holloman Air Development Center, N. M.

Stapp rode a rocket-driven sled at a record shattering speed down a 3,500-foot steel track in New Mexico last Dec. 10. In five seconds and 2,800-feet he attained 632 miles an hour. Then the sled braked to a stop within 780 feet.

Affable Clement Attlee Campaigns Informally

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON, May 17 (AP)—Clement Attlee campaigns informally.

Leader of the British Labor party, he is as easy and familiar as an old shoe as he goes about the country asking voters to support Socialist candidates in the general election of May 26.

Mrs. Attlee is his chauffeur. She takes him swiftly from meeting to meeting in the old family car. On the back seat is Clem's sweater, just in case of a sudden chill, and a vacuum bottle for tea.

Bald, affable, 72-year-old Attlee is just everybody's neighbor, dropping around without ceremony to chat and to urge that Labor party candidates be sent to Parliament.

He doesn't look like a former prime minister or long-time leader of an aggressive political party which did much to make Britain a welfare state. He looks rather like a neat professional man, of perhaps a teacher in some school of economics.

He is an informal man and informal things happen to him. Mrs. Attlee wheeled up to the Henry Thornton School at Clapham Common, but didn't stop quite where the reception committee expected. So when Mr. Attlee crawled out of the car he was greeted, not by the alderman, but by the school janior. Attlee knew his first name. They shook hands and discussed the new wedge which is the janitor's pride.

Socialists have a standardized chant to hail Attlee. They say, approximately in unison:

"Good old Clem — good old Clem!"

Mrs. Attlee takes off his overcoat, which under her management is well buttoned, and he strides quickly to the platform for a talk which is usually about local affairs. Invariably he knows them well. He knows the tax rate, the average income of the district, and the condition of the paving.

A Socialist slogan, printed under a folksy picture of Attlee smoking a pipe is:

"You can trust Mr. Attlee!"

In the first stages of the campaign Attlee had almost nothing to say of foreign affairs, and he did not mention the Conservative party candidate who is his chief opponent, Prime Minister Eden.

Attlee speeches are deliberately matter-of-fact. He avoids oratorical effects and makes few gestures. Usually his thumbs are caught in his vest pockets. His friends say he is dullest when he has thoroughly prepared a speech, but often he is witty when speaking casually.

He does not make personal remarks about opponents. In the House of Commons he has often seemed at his best when debating against Sir Winston Churchill, and least effective when taking issue with Eden. One explanation is that Eden seems to awaken an answering amiability in Attlee. But in one address Attlee did use the word "humbug" in discussing Eden's claim that Conservatives strive for a "property-owning democracy."

Attlee's chief concern midway in the campaign was to deny the Conservative contention that the controls of many activities outlined by the Socialist platform would bring a return of food rationing.

Attlee rarely is heckled. He is a bad man to heckle because he is so studious and, experienced that he knows all the answers, from the Socialist viewpoints, and he quietly devastates interrupters with a barrage of facts. Then his supporters, who are intensely loyal to the unassuming little man, shot:

"Good old Clem!"

Chicago's Cops Finding It Hard To Forget 1313

CHICAGO, May 17 (AP)—The Chicago Police Department is replacing its officers' stars with new badges, but the bluecoats are finding it hard to forget old star No. 1313.

They remember Sgt. Joseph Sevick, who was assigned No. 1313 in 1929. Within six years his wife, two daughters, a brother, his mother and father died. He asked for, and received, a new number.

Then there was John O'Bryant who took No. 1313 in 1923. A short time later, a cornice fell from a building and knocked off his hat. He was uninjured but said he wanted a new number. He changed his mind and kept No. 1313. A few years later he died at the age of 32.

Today's policemen remember Patrolman Charles Schwertfager. After getting No. 1313 in 1939, he and his partner were suspended, accused of shooting a youth. A civil service hearing cleared them but the youth's family filed a damage suit. While the suit was pending Schwertfager died, in his 13th year in the 13th Police District. His star was returned to the department May 13.

James McSweeney, police secretary, decided not to reissue No. 1313. Four years later, however, a large influx of new policemen forced it back into service.

This time it went to rookie Claude Connelly. Four months later he returned it. "Not taking any chances," he explained.

Some can remember back to 1922 when No. 1313 was issued to Roy Dillon. He was suspended from the force three months later and never returned.

Howard Seabury now wears No. 1313. It was issued to him after he lost his original badge. Since then he was bitten by one prisoner and fired at by another.

Asked if he would be glad to get rid of No. 1313, Seabury replied: "No, I'd like to keep it. I think I've worn the jinx right off it."

He may have a new No. 1313, but the department says the old one has to go. Not that they're superstitious, they add hastily.

Baltimore St. Benches To Remain Fixtures During The Summer

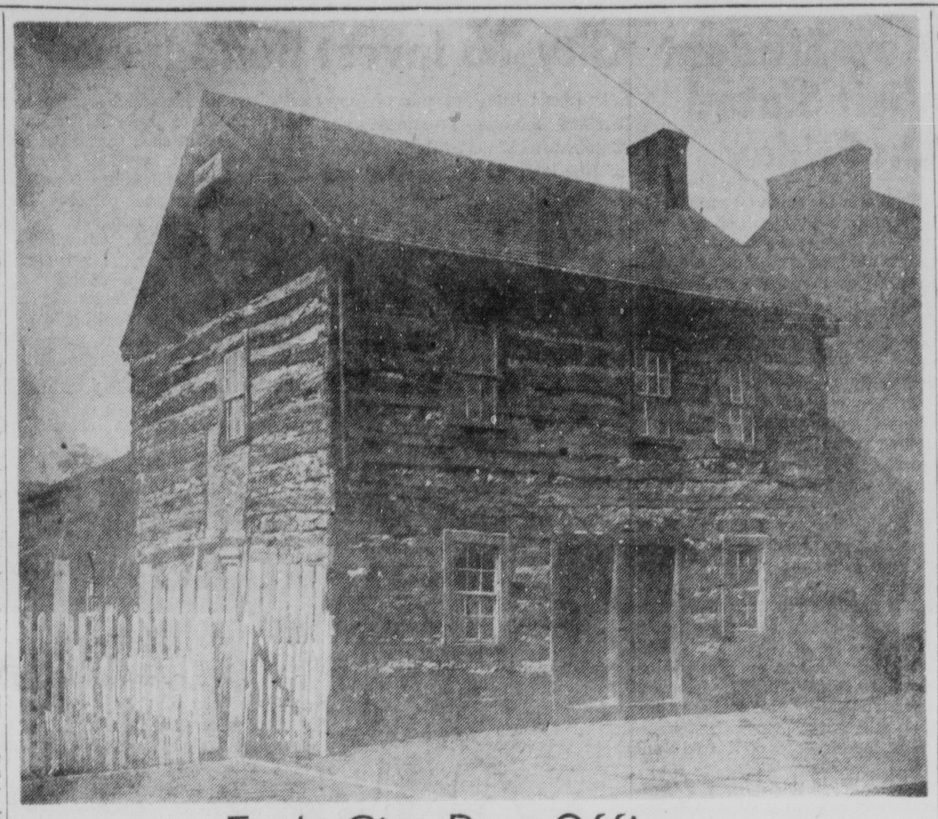
The decision was announced yesterday by William H. Buchholtz, commissioner of streets and public property.

Buchholtz said the benches have seen considerable use by pedestrians who wanted to rest and the commissioner continued he was "much impressed Sunday night by the sight of some of our older citizens taking advantage of the benches to enjoy themselves watching the traffic go by."

Buchholtz said some method will be sought to anchor the benches so they will not become a hazard to either pedestrians or vehicular traffic.

Twenty-eight states were territories before they were admitted to the Union and seven others were admitted without first having been territories.



Early City Post Office

The first post office established in Cumberland in September 1794 was located on North Mechanic Street between Baltimore and Bedford streets. It served inhabitants for several hundred miles around as both a post office and country store. In 1807 it was moved to this log cabin at Blue Spring near the old Canada Hose House on North Mechanic Street. It remained there until 1833 when it was moved to a building in the center of town. A plaque placed above the attic window of the building indicates it was the U. S. Post Office when Samuel Smith was postmaster here from 1807 to 1818.

Why Mercury is the man's car that women love

New power, pickup, and handling ease . . . dramatic new colors, fabrics, and luxury. There'll be no family argument if you decide to make your next car Mercury.

As any owner will tell you, there's plenty for everyone in the new Mercury.

For the ladies, there is styling as fashion-wise and far ahead as the latest Paris gown. Distinctive lines, unique color combinations. Exclusive styling—inside and out—shared by no other car.

There's easy handling and parking. Room for a big family. Effortless smoothness that makes driving a pleasure.

For the men, the mightiest engines Mercury has ever built—188- and 198-hp SUPER-TORQUE V-8's. Every model in Mercury's 3 series of cars has a 4-barrel vacuum carburetor and special high-compression spark plugs. All Montclairs and Montereys have dual exhaust at no extra cost.

New super-torque power cuts driving tension

Most important, Mercury's new power has been put to work where you need it most—in the everyday driving ranges, not merely for high speeds. The engineers call it "torque." To you it means pickup—up to 30% more usable power for getaways, passing, and hill climbing.

Widest choice of power features in field

If you want to make your driving the ultimate in ease and luxury, Mercury offers you optional power assists for steering, stopping, and adjusting the windows and front seat. Even power lubrication! Just press a button on the dash and lubricate vital parts automatically.

Mercury is one car, we believe, that you and your "better half" will find it easy to agree upon. We invite you both to see for yourself at our showroom.

Early City Post Office

The first post office established in Cumberland in September 1794 was located on North Mechanic Street between Baltimore and Bedford streets. It served inhabitants for several hundred miles around as both a post office and country store. In 1807 it was moved to this log cabin at Blue Spring near the old Canada Hose House on North Mechanic Street. It remained there until 1833 when it was moved to a building in the center of town. A plaque placed above the attic window of the building indicates it was the U. S. Post Office when Samuel Smith was postmaster here from 1807 to 1818.

Baltimore St. Benches To Remain Fixtures During The Summer

The decision was announced yesterday by William H. Buchholtz, commissioner of streets and public property.

Buchholtz said the benches have seen considerable use by pedestrians who wanted to rest and the commissioner continued he was "much impressed Sunday night by the sight of some of our older citizens taking advantage of the benches to enjoy themselves watching the traffic go by."

Buchholtz said some method will be sought to anchor the benches so they will not become a hazard to either pedestrians or vehicular traffic.

Twenty-eight states were territories before they were admitted to the Union and seven others were admitted without first having been territories.

Each troop will send its outstanding Explorer to the meeting Thursday.

One of the group will be chosen to be Cumberland district's nominee for one of the three Explorers chosen from Potomac Council to attend the junior leader training course at Camp Schiff in June.

After the two-week course at Camp Schiff, the national Scout reservation at Mendlam, N. J., the three Explorers will set up a junior leader course for Explorers in the council. It will be held this fall, Smith said.

Also to be selected at Thursday night's meeting will be an Explorer Scout to attend the Citizens Now Conference scheduled June 23 24 and 25 at Bucknell, University, Lewisburg, Pa.

He and four other Explorers from the council will be accompanied by two adults and at the conference each will be given specific assignments.

WM Railway Is Planning Improvements At Junction

The Western Maryland Railway yesterday announced a half-million dollar project to erect a Diesel service shop and demolish the old roundhouse at Maryland Junction.

Complete Dieselization of the railroad has resulted in the decision to tear down the roundhouse as that structure is not adaptable for use with the Diesels.

In its place will be constructed a modern Diesel engine service shop with emphasis on running maintenance and light repairs.

The roundhouse was built in 1912 when the Western Maryland Railway reached Cumberland. It has 25 stalls for steam locomotives.

The new building will be constructed of concrete block and steel sheeting and will have large window areas on the sides together with skylights in the roof.

There will be ventilating fans installed to provide fresh air at all times.

Offices, washrooms, machine shops and storerooms will be located inside the new maintenance building parallel to the work area.

This set up, officials observed, will save steps and save time from a work schedule standpoint.

There will be other improvements designed to make maintenance of the big engines safer and more efficient.

Fuel oil tanks will be relocated and surrounded by overflow falls.

A Y track will be installed in place of the turntable at the roundhouse.

Part of the old shop area will be remodeled to house machine tools now stored at the Mt. Savage shops.

The rebuilding program at Maryland Junction is estimated to cost approximately $500,000, railroad officials report.

The Western Maryland Railway is also razing the old C&P Railroad passenger station in Mt. Savage.

In addition to being used as a passenger station, the building about 50 years ago served as the town's post office.

The station has been used as a freight office since the discontinuance of passenger service on the C&P on September 1, 1942.

Past Grands To Install

The Tri-State Past Grands Association of Independent Order of Odd Fellows will install officers Friday at 8 p. m. in the hall of Barton Lodge 94, IOOF. Entertainment and refreshments will follow the installation.

Deed Is Approved

The Mayor and Council Monday approved a deed with Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Bowers for a consideration of $365 and involving three lots and improvements in Camp Hill Addition.

New Student Visit Slated On Friday

Pupils in the Sixth Grade of public schools in Cumberland will take part in a "get acquainted" program at Fort Hill and Allegany High Schools on Friday afternoon.

Fort Hill expects at least 375 pupils from schools in its area to take a tour of the building, attend an assembly program and be welcomed by school officials.

At 1 p. m. the Sixth Graders, who will enter the junior high section of Fort Hill next year, will assemble in the auditorium. A program will be presented by the Junior Band under the direction of Kenneth Shafer. Edward Root, president of the Junior High Council, will greet the prospective students.

The Junior High Girls Glee Club will sing several selections under the direction of Mrs. Doris Williams. A welcome address will be given by Victor D. Heisey, principal. The Boys Junior High Glee Club will present several numbers under the direction of Harold Hanson.

A group of girls from a gym class will present a demonstration and John R. McVicker, vice principal, will make a short talk. Ralph Weimer, director of guidance, will also speak.

A group of junior high students will act as ushers for the tour of the classrooms, gymnasium, laboratories, music rooms, cafeteria and other facilities of the school.

2 Women Attend Education Meet

Mrs. Stanley Buckley, a member of the Allegany County Board of Education, and Mrs. Lester McGill, president of the Allegany County Council of Parent-Teacher associations, attended a meeting of the Maryland Council on Education at the State Teachers Association office in Baltimore, Saturday.

The council is made up of representatives of organizations throughout the state who are interested in education.

City To Invest Bond Issue Proceeds

Proceeds from the sale of Cumberland Sewage Treatment and Cumberland Flood Protection Bonds will be invested to provide income for the city.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long introduced an order before the Mayor and Council Monday and said he wanted to invest in something that is riskless. That would be government bonds or local banks or whichever pays the highest interest rate, he added.

The city treasurer, under the order, would be authorized to invest portions of proceeds in such amounts and at such maturities he deems proper to produce income and still meet obligations incurred in constructing the projects for which funds are provided.

In another action, council reclassified Claude W. Light from chairman ($258.50 a month) to transitman ($295.90 a month) in the Engineering Department. The order said Light has been performing the duties of transitman.

Dominic DeArcangelis, 217 Hay Street, appeared before council to protest about the condition of the street. Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz assured the Hay Street resident it is first on the list to be tarred and chipped when the city receives oil specifications.

Commissioner William V. Keegan asked and received approval to place a banner on Baltimore Street advertising a circus June 25 sponsored by Dapper Dan and the Alhambra Club for benefit of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

Liquor Board Remonstrance Hearings Set

Hearings on two remonstrances filed with the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners were set yesterday for June 7 at 10 a. m.

One remonstrance filed with the board by Ruth J. Johnson and 75 other persons is against issuance of a beer and wine permit to Charles M. Evans for premises in Cresaptown.

The other petition in the name of Ada Twigg and a group of signers, is against issuance of a beer, wine and liquor permit to the John Murphy Company for premises at 116 Harrison Street. The site formerly housed the Trozzo Restaurant a number of years ago.

The board said it would file a written opinion within two weeks on the applications for beer licenses for two establishments on Polish Mountain.

A license on the mountain, about 15 miles east of Cumberland, is being sought by Russell V. Nierman and Ernest Poole for one location while Hetzel M. Pifer is seeking a permit for a beer license at another site.

Pifer was represented at the board meeting yesterday by William J. Gunter, local attorney. He said his client is married and the father of six children. The premises where he would operate has a restaurant with a garage business adjacent which is operated by another man.

Walter C. Capper, board chairman, told Pifer that there are two applications within a short distance and the board would have to have time to consider the matter.

The liquor board formally organized at yesterday's session with Capper retaining his chairmanship. He has two years to serve on the board. Stanley Hamilton has four years to serve and the newest member of the board, Howard Vandegrift, 600 Bedford Street, the minority Democratic member, has six years to serve.

Licenses were issued yesterday to Pearl Neilson, trading as Pearl's Market, for a Class D beer permit at Wright's Crossing.

Robert J. Kincaid, trading as Maud's Bar and Grill, was granted a Class D beer license for 16 South Mechanic Street. The license had been held by Maud Sutton, who died recently.

Victor J. and Gloria F. Moreland were granted a Class D beer license on premises on Oldtown Road. The license had been held by Almeda Milkowski.

Ruth M. Lewis was granted renewal of an off-sale Class A beer license for premises at 309 Fifth Street. She operates a grocery store.

The Recreation Department has submitted its recommendations for appointments to pool, playground and ball field positions.

The appointments are made by the Mayor and Council, following recommendations of the City Recreation Board.

Burkhart, who was represented by Attorneys Martin V. B. Bostetter and Charles Wagaman of Hagerstown and Edward J. Ryan of this city, had sued for $35,000 damages. Knight was represented by Irvine Rutledge of Hagerstown and William H. Geppert of this city.

Gaining Know-How On Bomb Survival

Most of the civil defense personnel for whose benefit the latest atomic blast in Nevada was staged had been forced to go home before the bomb was finally triggered, but the experiment proved what had been surmised—that a bomb one and one-half times the power of that dropped on Hiroshima can do great damage in a restricted area.

Man can live through an explosion like that—especially if he is more than a mile away—if he is fully prepared and equipped with survival know-how.

It is apparent such a bomb can do considerable damage to buildings and contents, but it is also amazing how much that was salvageable remained after the Nevada explosion. And as scientists continue their evaluation of the shock, more and more is being learned about how to prepare for the defense of cities against atomic warfare on as practical a basis as possible.

It is also of considerable value to know that human beings, with much unusual protection, can be within two miles of such a blast and live to describe their reactions.

Other items of interest are that fuel gas tanks came through the ordeal remarkably well, that the dial telephone system of Survival City suffered little damage, and that underground gas lines withstood the earth's jarring.

It was too bad that most civil defense workers had to leave Nevada before the bomb was exploded, but they are in a better position to understand the reports they are now reading of the evaluation of the damage as a result of their visit to the bomb scene.

But the conclusions being reached are reassuring—that survival is possible and that doom is not inevitable—in the face of all atom bombs.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

GAW

Apparently when a thesis that requires full study and accommodation to the national economy is given a cryptic title and is symbolized by initials, it is accepted rather by title and initials than by substance. GAW means guaranteed annual wage, a system already in vogue in many enterprises.

In most industries, the assured annual wage is more difficult than in, say, a slaughter house, because the sale of the commodity may be seasonal or on order. Automobiles are an example of a seasonal industry; structural steel of an on order industry. There is much talk these days of the peaks and valleys in industry being levelled off, but in this conversation, the fact that a large share of production has, for more than a decade, been war production or what is euphemistically called defense production, is too often forgotten. Do we require war or the preparation for war to have full employment?

Walter Reuther's proposal is to supplement state unemployment compensation by the employer which is not exactly a guaranteed wage for work done. What the United Automobile Workers demand is that the guaranteed annual wage plus unemployment compensation should be equal to the present take-home pay. This would only apply to those workers who have acquired seniority according to the union-company contract.

One of the problems that faces every worker in every industry in this country is what is called "automation." This is the growing fear among workers that the development of labor-saving and automatic machinery will result in reduced employment or unemployment.

While it is demonstrable that in the past, machines have made jobs, it is also demonstrable that in particular industries, automatic devices have become so perfected that few workers are necessary. It is not contended by anyone associated with either management or labor that the use of automatic devices should be reduced or curtailed; the point is made and has to be considered seriously that no interim period should be permitted to exist during which the purchasing power of large numbers of Americans should be sharply reduced or altogether removed, forcing them on the dole.

In a word, granted that new knowledge and techniques can free human beings from irksome and onerous toil and produce an abundance heretofore unknown, the task remains to minimize the perils of job displacement and family hardships.

It seems to me that this is so serious a problem that it cannot be solved by a strike which will not remove the problem no matter who wins. Involved in all this is the question of the smaller business which is being squeezed out of existence by taxes, wages, beneficial financing by the larger companies and the huge cost of advertising, particularly since the advent of television.

The question is whether it is beneficial to the American economy and to social conditions in this country if only huge monopolistic companies exist. That will not be solved by Attorney General Herbert Brownell's plethora of anti-trust suits, because if it requires say a quarter of a million dollars to buy one automatic machine to be on a competitive basis with an enormous firm, the small man cannot go into that sort of business. If Brownell breaks up large enterprises to prevent monopoly, he still cannot tell small men how they can set up businesses which require huge capital outlays to get started and to reach a break-even point.

Nor is the solution to this problem government-control of industry on either a Fascist or a Socialist basis. That would involve us in more problems, and less pleasant ones, than we face today.

In the older days of the free market, competition would solve the problem. But we are not living in the older days nor do we have a free market. We live in a mixed economy, a condition prolonged by the continuance of war-like conditions.

The solution does lie in management-labor studies as to how to protect not only the wage but the community life of the worker. We know, from experience during the depression, that the major problem of unemployment is not the discomfiture of the individual, who can be put on the dole, but the reduced purchasing power of the entire population which leads to vast social and even political changes, some of which are antagonistic to a free society.

On The Other Hand, Maybe Somebody's Sick

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It looks as if the boys who run things for Ike at the White House either didn't do much screening or else don't care what kind of Democrats they appoint on certain commissions, where, under the law, they have to appoint Democrats.

They have just appointed to the Subversive Control Board, a vital body which rules on loyalty and subversives, an ex-congressman from Georgia, John S. Wood, who ordinarily might have some difficulty passing a security test for a government job.

Here Is His Record: When Ralph Stanfield, a teen-age boy of Tate, Ga., was seriously injured by an Army truck on January 23, 1944, Congressman Wood introduced a bill, as is customary, compensating him for $10,000. On this his law office collected a fee of $1,000 . . . This is against the law. A congressman is paid a regular salary to introduce legislation. He is paid by all the taxpayers and is not permitted to collect from any one individual taxpayer no matter how many favors he does. Any such fees are a penitentiary offense . . . However, here's how the fee was paid. First, Charles Holcombe, according to a statement by Mack Stanfield, father of the injured boy, suggested that part of the $10,000 be paid back to Congressman Wood. Later, Carl Tallant, the congressman's law partner in the firm of Wood and Tallant, suggested a fee of 10 per cent. Tallant not only was Wood's law partner, but got a salary from Uncle Sam of $7,022 as Wood's assistant, and handled law cases from the vantage point of Wood's office. This in itself is highly unusual if not unethical . . . So Tallant made out a check for $1,000 and Mack Stanfield, father of the crippled boy, signed it . . . I have a photostat of the check, dated September 13, 1947, on the Bank of Canton, Canton, Ga. . . . It would have been easy for the FBI to verify this. Furthermore, Wood once admitted it publicly on the floor of Congress. Yet Eisenhower appointed him anyway.

Free Servant—Here's more of ex-Congressman Wood's record: William Fowler, a Negro servant, has been attached to the Wood family for years. When Wood became chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee in July 1945, he shifted Fowler from his personal payroll to the government payroll as committee "janitor." . . . Actually, janitoring services on Capitol Hill are performed for every congressman by a special Corps. But Fowler got paid $191.86 monthly, though spending most of his time at the congressman's home . . . On January 4, 1947, he went off the payroll. Why? The Republicans took over the 80th Congress and they didn't feel a janitor was necessary . . . Parnell Thomas of New Jersey, who followed Wood as chairman, padded the payroll in various ways and ended up in jail.

Mail Routes—A congressman is supposed to recommend the award of mail routes on merit, not because of any fee, direct or indirect. . . . Here is how Congressman Wood awarded them, as told in a sworn affidavit by Weldon C. Bennett of Canton, Ga. . . . He took an examination for rural mail carrier in June 1949, and two weeks later went to see C. D. Holcombe, secretary to Congressman Wood. . . . "I offered C. B. Holcombe $1,500 for said route," Bennett states. Mr. Holcombe is the secretary who originally approached the elder Stanfield about the $1,000 fee . . . Two other sworn affidavits signed by Ralph Clark of Flowery Branch, Ga., and Harold W. Puckett of Buford, Ga., state that in September 1949 Congressman Wood told them he was awarding the Flowery Branch mail route to Homer Reeves because of the large fee he had received in connection with a lawsuit brought by Reeves' father in breaking the will of the late Dr. George Bryce. . . . Reeves stood sixth on the eligibility list.

Congressional Sobriety—Here are more facts that could have been ascertained by the FBI or the White House before appointing Wood to a key job in which he passes upon the conduct of his fellow men . . . When Wood was solicitor general of the Blue Ridge Judicial Circuit, a sworn affidavit shows that the local sheriff "arrested the said John S. Wood while the said John S. Wood was drunk, and placed him in a room in the Mashburn Hotel in Cumming, Ga., and held him there 24 hours and that the opening of the Superior Court of Forsyth County was delayed from Monday morning to Tuesday morning while the said John S. Wood sobered up and got in condition to perform his duties as solicitor general." . . . If this had been an isolated case it would not be mentioned here. But as a congressman, Wood was so under the influence of liquor during one important debate on his own substitute for the Taft-Hartley Bill that ex-Speaker Joe Martin and Congressman Charlie Halleck of Indiana had to substitute for him. His own "Wood Bill," tougher than the Taft-Hartley Act, was being debated. Yet, though he was sitting in judgment on millions of American workers, he had to do so from a reclining position on a couch in the House cloakroom. Though he managed to appear on the floor to vote, he retired to the couch immediately afterward . . . Now he's been picked to pass upon security and subversive matters for all Americans.

Communism In Hollywood — As chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee, Wood was supposed to probe alleged communism wherever he found it, including Hollywood. However, when his committee started to probe certain Hollywood film writers in 1945-46, Louis B. Mayer, head of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, hired an obscure Georgia attorney, Edgar Dunlap, living in Congressman Wood's district. Mysteriously, the Hollywood probe was postponed . . . Later the Republicans took over Wood's committee and the probe went forward. However, attorneys for film writers Robert Kenny and Bartley Crum were informed in advance by attorneys for the film industry that Congressman Wood would ask friendly questions . . . The official record of the hearings shows that Wood did. He fell all over himself to be nice, kind, and gentle . . . The current question is: Would Wood be especially kind to others brought before the Subversive Control Board if they hired a lawyer from his district in Georgia?

West Germany Views Realistically Events In Europe

By David Lawrence

BONN — Here is the place where they have the most realistic view of what is happening in Europe today. They have no illusions about the Soviet strategy in neutralizing Austria, and they haven't been persuaded that it will necessarily be followed by the neutralization of Germany.

On the contrary, they feel here that the most dangerous phase of the "cold war" is at hand and that it is more than ever imperative for the Western democracies to work closely with the West German government.

This correspondent had a long talk today with a realist—General Adolf Heusinger, who is regarded as the ablest military man in West Germany. He was the chief of planning operations during the last war for the German army. He is the kind who keeps out of politics and he furnished objectively the military advice requested of him. Today the principal work of rebuilding a German army falls upon him.

Friendly Relations

Other military men were interviewed also by this writer, and it is possible to set down a composite impression of their views, which is about as follows:

1. Despite two wars, it is one of the miracles of the present day that there are such intimate and friendly relations between the men who head up the military side of the two countries and between the American soldiers and the German people.

2. The interests of Germany are indissolubly bound to the Western democracies and never will be joined with those of Soviet Russia.

3. Because of the neutralization of Austria and the Soviet attempt to neutralize Yugoslavia, it is more than ever necessary for West Germany to work closely with the West.

4. A narrowing of the defense line of the West by the setting up of neutral belts in Central Europe by Soviet tactics in Austria and Yugoslavia may mean increased effectiveness in and concentration on the defensive use of tactical atomic weapons but cannot alter the value of strategic air forces.

5. While the reduction in ground forces is possible nowadays because of atomic weapons, such cutting down must not go to extremes. This means the controversy in the American Congress is being watched with interest by military men in Europe.

6. The idea of an international control of armament is scoffed at here. It is recalled that any paper restriction can be circumvented, and the German military speak of how easy it was to overcome the limitations on Germany's armament in the period following the first world war.

Political Football

7. Reunification of West and East Germany is a political football which will be used in the "cold war" by the Soviets. While reunification is strongly desired, it is difficult for the officials here to figure out why the Soviets would ever really let it come to pass—if they do, which is doubted. Russia's game is to keep Germany divided because a rearmed and reunited Germany would be the biggest threat the Communists would ever face. Only if Russia is defeated in the "cold war" and believes she can control the German government and legislature by subversion from within is reunification expected to materialize. Hence, there is the most intense curiosity to see how the Soviet Union operates now inside Austria and whether she will keep hands off as the treaty pledges her to do.

8. The Yugoslav situation should be watched with eyes wide open, because there is evidence that Tito's hand is being forced by Communists inside his country who are beholden to Moscow.

9. There is a serious shortage of non-commissioned as well as commissioned officers for the new German army in the right age groups. Also, building an army from scratch presents a most difficult situation, and conscription will not come until after the training staff has been obtained from the ranks of volunteers.

10. There is unanimous agreement that Germany should have a national security council patterned somewhat after the one in the United States, but with industrial leaders, political leaders and military chiefs working closely together. The advantage of a permanent secretariat and staff to insure continuity is also urged.

Altogether, it may be said that the West German military men are preparing for their new responsibilities in an earnest and sincere manner. They feel that at last they are full-fledged partners of the Western democracies.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Survey indicates Ladies Auxiliary of Insufficient Postage is with Senator Knowland to a man.

Even though he is working up a nuisance value in the goodwill department we back his play.

All he wants to know is how you can trust Chou En-lai any further than you can slide on a rug.

In a manner of squeaking the senator has taken over the elder Cato's ultra-muttering, "Carthage must flip."

With Patrick Henry he judges the future by last month's bills. The senator is as correct as a reasured mile when he asks how you can trust Red China any further than the top half of a Dutch door.

The synchronized nodding, the polite vacuuming of the fanged breath, the clammy fingering and the affable grimace mean no more than buttons on a shadow.

Knowland is documented in indelible brackets by the three wisest men of the East. Romulo, El Jamali and Sir Jack Kotelawala ear-marked Chou En-lai at the Bandung tea tasters' olympics.

Sir Jack wanted to know the difference between Western and communistic colonialism. The way Chou changed the subject proved he was using an auctioneer's list for a road map.

Senator Knowland is not buttering up a minority report, embarrassing the administration or five-per-centing the next election. All he wants to know is how can you trust a bird dog pointing the extinct moa?

There's more sense to that question that eyes the meat.

Chou-chou gave Romulo the back of his neck. The question stopped him colder than the north side of Everest.

Miracle At Flint

By Bob Considine

FLINT, Mich. (INS) — Another miracle is taking shape in Flint. It will take its place with an earlier supernatural event which transformed this gentle little carriage-building town into an industrial colossus that punches out Buicks, Chevvies, spark plugs and a host of other products in fantastic amounts.

The new miracle is being wrought by a man of great vision named Michael A. Gorman, editor of the Flint Journal. His helpers range from production titans such as Harlow Curtice, president of General Motors, to Merliss Brown, a retired hourly-rate worker who was born in Minsk under the Czar.

Coming Up With Cash

Gorman and he good people of Flint are building, here and now, a $13,000,000 "college and cultural development." It will elevate Flint Junior College into a four-year course that has ties with the University of Michigan. It will drop a lovely campus into the heart of Flint and provide the community with a new library, little theater, historical museum, another museum designed to tell the incredible story of transportation, an auditorium and a planetarium.

In a day when it is accepted practice to turn to Washington or to the state capital for alms, Flint is digging into its own pocket and coming up with the necessary cash. It is showing the same daring in the field of education and public enlightenment that it showed in forging the great plants and providing jobs that make it perhaps the most remarkable "take-home-pay" town on earth.

The biggest and most dramatic contributions toward the "college and cultural development" have come from Charles Stewart Mott, hale, hearty leader whose influence on Flint has been greater than that of any other individual. He'll be 80 on June 2. On his 75th birthday, Mott, largest individual holder of GM stock, gave the local junior college $1,000,000 toward the day when it would grow into a full-fledged school. Since then Mott has given 32 prime acres to the project and another $557,000. The Charles Stewart Mott building for the sciences is about completed.

Curtice provided a GM gift of $3,000,000, which Mike Gorman accepted without blinking an eye. Gorman is a very strong man, and he's driving himself night and day in his all-out effort. The late William S. Ballenger provided $200,000 for a field house. Pledge of a minimum of $25,000 constitutes qualifications as a sponsor. The Kudner Advertising Agency of New York came in for $25,000. And so did the aforementioned man from Minsk.

Gorman is driven by such statistics as: "There are now 2,000,000 students in our universities. By 1970 there will be 5,000,000. Where are we going to put them? Well, Flint is getting ready. It's showing the way."

Plenty Of Interest

There is no question about Flint's interest in going to school. Years ago, Mott came to the conclusion that it was dumb waste of good facilities to close down the schools of the city when the children left in the afternoon. Through the Mott Foundation he has since provided teachers, instructors and a host of services for the adults of the city . . . the men and women who build cars by day and hanker to improve their minds at night. School gyms swarm with activity. There are courses in motherhood, cooking; cram courses for adults who, years after leaving school for financial reasons, have returned to earn high school diplomas.

Mott picks up the tab. The children of these adult scholars are certain to get a better education than their parents could afford. They'll be going on to college. But by the time they're ready for it, the college will have come to them. The college and much more.

Gorman's fund-raising campaign is one of those rare gestures of selflessness the world sees too little of in Anno Domini 1955. Not a penny is being spent for administration of the fund raising.

"We'll wind up with a quarter of a million dollars more than we raised," Gorman grinned. "The money will have generated that much interest."

"Doc, I Need A Tonic," Is Cause Of This Discussion

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

It is difficult to write about tonics without stepping on someone's toes. These medicines were common in grandma's day and many fortunes were amassed by vendors of such nostrums. Some were advertised to purify the liver or the kidneys; others were supposed to build up the blood. "Pink pills for pale people" was a popular slogan of the day.

The users felt peppier because the majority of tonics had a sizable alcoholic content. Some malt products had a higher percentage of alcohol than whisky does and large amounts were consumed during the day even though sipped by the tablespoon rather than gulped by the shot. More than one teetotaler and reformer used tonics of this kind and often drank more alcoholic than the "drunkards" they were trying to bring back into the fold.

A tonic generally is regarded as an agent that restores "normal tone," thus promoting vigor and encouraging a feeling of well being. Old-timers believed this could be accomplished by stimulating certain organs. It is for this reason that liver tonics, laxatives, and substances to flush the kidneys were ballyhooed in every newspaper and magazine

We now know that "tone" is an ambiguous term because the body cannot be compared to a motor that runs better when the spark plugs are cleaned and the carburetor is readjusted.

But the need for tonics still exists as many persons do not feel up to par or are in need of a lift at the end of the day. Before such a product is taken, however, most of us make an attempt to find out why we feel sluggish and rundown.

Is it too little sleep or are we overworked? Are we unhappy or in a rut? Health also enters the picture because infections, anemia, low metabolism, and an inadequate diet are capable of inducing fatigue.

These abnormalities must be corrected to obtain the desired results. How much better it is to live and work in an environment where such stimulation is not necessary. Besides, there is no sense in whipping a tired horse.

Modern tonics contain vitamins, especially the B complex group. The amphetamines also are used but not always recommended. Some elderly persons thrive on small doses of thyroid and there is nothing like a cup of coffee in the morning or a spot of tea in the afternoon to wake you up.

Since the repeal of prohibition, before dinner cocktails have been popular. There is no objection to a drink or two to enhance the sensation of well being. But some persons go too far and end as alcoholics.

Most of us take 10 times as much medicine as we need, including tonics. This is a human failing and one of the main distinctions between humans and animals. It may take a century or more for us to learn to use good sense by giving nature a chance.

REPLY

Yes, but in order to become sterile from this cause, the mumps virus would have to invade both ovaries. This is such a painful condition that if it had occurred, it would not have been missed.

Burned toast will not harm the body but I know that some families are difficult to convince.

If this is a hypnagogic state, not treatment is required unless you decide to stay in this strange place and talk with friends you meet there.

GAW

Apparently when a thesis that requires full study and accommodation to the national economy is given a cryptic title and is symbolized by initials, it is accepted rather by title and initials than by substance. GAW means guaranteed annual wage, a system already in vogue in many enterprises.

In most industries, the assured annual wage is more difficult than in, say, a slaughter house, because the sale of the commodity may be seasonal or on order. Automobiles are an example of a seasonal industry; structural steel of an on order industry. There is much talk these days of the peaks and valleys in industry being levelled off, but in this conversation, the fact that a large share of production has, for more than a decade, been war production or what is euphemistically called defense production, is too often forgotten. Do we require war or the preparation for war to have full employment?

Walter Reuther's proposal is to supplement state unemployment compensation by the employer which is not exactly a guaranteed wage for work done. What the United Automobile Workers demand is that the guaranteed annual wage plus unemployment compensation should be equal to the present take-home pay. This would only apply to those workers who have acquired seniority according to the union-company contract.

One of the problems that faces every worker in every industry in this country is what is called "automation." This is the growing fear among workers that the development of labor-saving and automatic machinery will result in reduced employment or unemployment.

While it is demonstrable that in the past, machines have made jobs, it is also demonstrable that in particular industries, automatic devices have become so perfected that few workers are necessary. It is not contended by anyone associated with either management or labor that the use of automatic devices should be reduced or curtailed; the point is made and has to be considered seriously that no interim period should be permitted to exist during which the purchasing power of large numbers of Americans should be sharply reduced or altogether removed, forcing them on the dole.

In a word, granted that new knowledge and techniques can free human beings from irksome and onerous toil and produce an abundance heretofore unknown, the task remains to minimize the perils of job displacement and family hardships.

It seems to me that this is so serious a problem that it cannot be solved by a strike which will not remove the problem no matter who wins. Involved in all this is the question of the smaller business which is being squeezed out of existence by taxes, wages, beneficial financing by the larger companies and the huge cost of advertising, particularly since the advent of television.

The question is whether it is beneficial to the American economy and to social conditions in this country if only huge monopolistic companies exist. That will not be solved by Attorney General Herbert Brownell's plethora of anti-trust suits, because if it requires say a quarter of a million dollars to buy one automatic machine to be on a competitive basis with an enormous firm, the small man cannot go into that sort of business. If Brownell breaks up large enterprises to prevent monopoly, he still cannot tell small men how they can set up businesses which require huge capital outlays to get started and to reach a break-even point.

Nor is the solution to this problem government-control of industry on either a Fascist or a Socialist basis. That would involve us in more problems, and less pleasant ones, than we face today.

In the older days of the free market, competition would solve the problem. But we are not living in the older days nor do we have a free market. We live in a mixed economy, a condition prolonged by the continuance of war-like conditions.

The solution does lie in management-labor studies as to how to protect not only the wage but the community life of the worker. We know, from experience during the depression, that the major problem of unemployment is not the discomfiture of the individual, who can be put on the dole, but the reduced purchasing power of the entire population which leads to vast social and even political changes, some of which are antagonistic to a free society.

On The Other Hand, Maybe Somebody's Sick

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It looks as if the boys who run things for Ike at the White House either didn't do much screening or else don't care what kind of Democrats they appoint on certain commissions, where, under the law, they have to appoint Democrats.

They have just appointed to the Subversive Control Board, a vital body which rules on loyalty and subversives, an ex-congressman from Georgia, John S. Wood, who ordinarily might have some difficulty passing a security test for a government job.

Here Is His Record: When Ralph Stanfield, a teen-age boy of Tate, Ga., was seriously injured by an Army truck on January 23, 1944, Congressman Wood introduced a bill, as is customary, compensating him for $10,000. On this his law office collected a fee of $1,000 . . . This is against the law. A congressman is paid a regular salary to introduce legislation. He is paid by all the taxpayers and is not permitted to collect from any one individual taxpayer no matter how many favors he does. Any such fees are a penitentiary offense . . . However, here's how the fee was paid. First, Charles Holcombe, according to a statement by Mack Stanfield, father of the injured boy, suggested that part of the $10,000 be paid back to Congressman Wood. Later, Carl Tallant, the congressman's law partner in the firm of Wood and Tallant, suggested a fee of 10 per cent. Tallant not only was Wood's law partner, but got a salary from Uncle Sam of $7,022 as Wood's assistant, and handled law cases from the vantage point of Wood's office. This in itself is highly unusual if not unethical . . .

So Tallant made out a check for $1,000 and Mack Stanfield, father of the crippled boy, signed it . . . I have a photostat of the check, dated September 13, 1947, on the Bank of Canton, Canton, Ga. . . . It would have been easy for the FBI to verify this. Furthermore, Wood once admitted it publicly on the floor of Congress. Yet Eisenhower appointed him anyway.

Free Servant—Here's more of ex-Congressman Wood's record: William Fowler, a Negro servant, has been attached to the Wood family for years. When Wood became chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee in July 1945, he shifted Fowler from his personal payroll to the government payroll as committee "janitor." . . . Actually, janitoring services on Capitol Hill are performed for every congressman by a special Corps. But Fowler got paid $191.86 monthly, though spending most of his time at the congressman's home . . . On January 4, 1947, he went off the payroll. Why? The Republicans took over the 80th Congress and they didn't feel a janitor was necessary . . . Parnell Thomas of New Jersey, who followed Wood as chairman, padded the payroll in various ways and ended up in jail.

Mail Routes—A congressman is supposed to recommend the award of mail routes on merit, not because of any fee, direct or indirect. . . . Here is how Congressman Wood awarded them, as told in a sworn affidavit by Weldon C. Bennett of Canton, Ga. . . . He took an examination for rural mail carrier in June 1949, and two weeks later went to see C. D. Holcombe, secretary to Congressman Wood. . . . "I offered C. B. Holcombe $1,500 for said route," Bennett states. Mr. Holcombe is the secretary who originally approached the elder Stanfield about the $1,000 fee . . . Two other sworn affidavits signed by Ralph Clark of Flowery Branch, Ga., and Harold W. Puckett of Buford, Ga., state that in September 1949 Congressman Wood told them he was awarding the Flowery Branch mail route to Homer Reeves because of the large fee he had received in connection with a lawsuit brought by Reeves' father in breaking the will of the late Dr. George Bryce. . . . Reeves stood sixth on the eligibility list.

Congressional Sobriety—Here are more facts that could have been ascertained by the FBI or the White House before appointing Wood to a key job in which he passes upon the conduct of his fellow men . . . When Wood was solicitor general of the Blue Ridge Judicial Circuit, a sworn affidavit shows that the local sheriff "arrested the said John S. Wood while the said John S. Wood was drunk, and placed him in a room in the Mashburn Hotel in Cumming, Ga., and held him there 24 hours and that the opening of the Superior Court of Forsyth County was delayed from Monday morning to Tuesday morning while the said John S. Wood sobered up and got in condition to perform his duties as solicitor general." . . . If this had been an isolated case it would not be mentioned here. But as a congressman, Wood was so under the influence of liquor during one important debate on his own substitute for the Taft-Hartley Bill that ex-Speaker Joe Martin and Congressman Charlie Halleck of Indiana had to substitute for him. His own "Wood Bill," tougher than the Taft-Hartley Act, was being debated. Yet, though he was sitting in judgment on millions of American workers, he had to do so from a reclining position on a couch in the House cloakroom. Though he managed to appear on the floor to vote, he retired to the couch immediately afterward . . . Now he's been picked to pass upon security and subversive matters for all Americans.

Communism In Hollywood—As chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee, Wood was supposed to probe alleged communism wherever he found it, including Hollywood. However, when his committee started to probe certain Hollywood film writers in 1945-46, Louis B. Mayer, head of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, hired an obscure Georgia attorney, Edgar Dunlap, living in Congressman Wood's district. Mysteriously, the Hollywood probe was postponed . . . Later the Republicans took over Wood's committee and the probe went forward. However, attorneys for film writers Robert Kenny and Bartley Crum were informed in advance by attorneys for the film industry that Congressman Wood would ask friendly questions . . . The official record of the hearings shows that Wood did. He fell all over himself to be nice, kind, and gentle . . . The current question is: Would Wood be especially kind to others brought before the Subversive Control Board if they hired a lawyer from his district in Georgia?

West Germany Views Realistically Events In Europe

By David Lawrence

BONN — Here is the place where they have the most realistic view of what is happening in Europe today. They have no illusions about the Soviet strategy in neutralizing Austria, and they haven't been persuaded that it will necessarily be followed by the neutralization of Germany.

On the contrary, they feel here that the most dangerous phase of the "cold war" is at hand and that it is more than ever imperative for the Western democracies to work closely with the West German government.

This correspondent had a long talk today with a realist—General Adolf Heusinger, who is regarded as the ablest military man in West Germany. He was the chief of planning operations during the last war for the German army. He is the kind who keeps out of politics and he furnished objectively the military advice requested of him. Today the principal work of rebuilding a German army falls upon him.

Friendly Relations

Other military men were interviewed also by this writer, and it is possible to set down a composite impression of their views, which is about as follows:

1. Despite two wars, it is one of the miracles of the present day that there are such intimate and friendly relations between the men who head up the military side of the two countries and between the American soldiers and the German people.

2. The interests of Germany are indissolubly bound to the Western democracies and never will be joined with those of Soviet Russia.

3. Because of the neutralization of Austria and the Soviet attempt to neutralize Yugoslavia, it is more than ever necessary for West Germany to work closely with the West.

4. A narrowing of the defense line of the West by the setting up of neutral belts in Central Europe by Soviet tactics in Austria and Yugoslavia may mean increased effectiveness in and concentration on the defensive use of tactical atomic weapons but cannot alter the value of strategic air forces.

5. While the reduction in ground forces is possible nowadays because of atomic weapons, such cutting down must not go to extremes. This means the controversy in the American Congress is being watched with interest by military men in Europe.

6. The idea of an international control of armament is scoffed at here. It is recalled that any paper restriction can be circumvented, and the German military speak of how easy it was to overcome the limitations on Germany's armament in the period following the first world war.

Political Football

7. Reunification of West and East Germany is a political football which will be used in the "cold war" by the Soviets. While reunification is strongly desired, it is difficult for the officials here to figure out why the Soviets would ever really let it come to pass—if they do, which is doubted. Russia's game is to keep Germany divided because a rearmed and reunited Germany would be the biggest threat the Communists would ever face. Only if Russia is defeated in the "cold war" and believes she can control the German government and legislature by subversion from within is reunification expected to materialize. Hence, there is the most intense curiosity to see how the Soviet Union operates now inside Austria and whether she will keep hands off as the treaty pledges her to do.

8. The Yugoslav situation should be watched with eyes wide open, because there is evidence that Tito's hand is being forced by Communists inside his country who are beholden to Moscow.

9. There is a serious shortage of non-commissioned as well as commissioned officers for the new German army in the right age groups. Also, building an army from scratch presents a most difficult situation, and conscription will not come until after the training staff has been obtained from the ranks of volunteers.

10. There is unanimous agreement that Germany should have a national security council patterned somewhat after the one in the United States, but with industrial leaders, political leaders and military chiefs working closely together. The advantage of a permanent secretariat and staff to insure continuity is also urged.

Altogether, it may be said that the West German military men are preparing for their new responsibilities in an earnest and sincere manner. They feel that at last they are full-fledged partners of the Western democracies.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Even though he is working up a nuisance value in the goodwill department we back his play.

All he wants to know is how you can trust Chou En-lai any further than you can slide on a rug.

In a manner of squeaking the senator has taken over the elder Cato's ultra-muttering, "Carthage must flip."

With Patrick Henry he judges the future by last month's bills. The senator is as correct as a measured mile when he asks how you can trust Red China any further than the top half of a Dutch door.

The synchronized nodding, the polite vacuuming of the fanged breath, the clammy fingering and the affable grimace mean no more than buttons on a shadow.

Knowland is documented in indelible brackets by the three wisest men of the East. Romulo, El Jamali and Sir Jack Kotelawala ear-marked Chou En-lai at the Bandung tea tasters' olympics.

Sir Jack wanted to know the difference between Western and communistic colonialism. The way Chou changed the subject proved he was using an auctioneer's list for a road map.

Senator Knowland is not buttering up a minority report, embarrassing the administration or fiver-per-centing the next election. All he wants to know is how can you trust a bird dog pointing the extinct moa?

There's more sense to that question that eyes the meat.

Chou-chou gave Romulo the back of his neck. The question stopped him colder than the north side of Everest.

Miracle At Flint

By Bob Considine

FLINT, Mich. (INS) — Another miracle is taking shape in Flint. It will take its place with an earlier supernatural event which transformed this gentle little carriage-building town into an industrial colossus that punches out Buicks, Chevvies, spark plugs and a host of other products in fantastic amounts.

The new miracle is being wrought by a man of great vision named Michael A. Gorman, editor of the Flint Journal. His helpers range from production titans such as Harlow Curtice, president of General Motors, to Merliss Brown, a retired hourly-rate worker who was born in Minsk under the Czar.

Coming Up With Cash

Gorman and he good people of Flint are building, here and now, a $13,000,000 "college and cultural development." It will elevate Flint Junior College into a four-year course that has ties with the University of Michigan. It will drop a lovely campus into the heart of Flint and provide the community with a new library, little theater, historical museum, another museum designed to tell the incredible story of transportation, an auditorium and a planetarium.

In a day when it is accepted practice to turn to Washington or to the state capital for alms, Flint is digging into its own pocket and coming up with the necessary cash. It is showing the same daring in the field of education and public enlightenment that it showed in forging the great plants and providing jobs that make it perhaps the most remarkable "take-home-pay" town on earth.

The biggest and most dramatic contributions toward the "college and cultural development" have come from Charles Stewart Mott, hale, hearty leader whose influence on Flint has been greater than that of any other individual. He'll be 80 on June 2. On his 75th birthday, Mott, largest individual holder of GM stock, gave the local junior college $1,000,000 toward the day when it would grow into a full-fledged school. Since then Mott has given 32 prime acres to the project and another $557,000. The Charles Stewart Mott building for the sciences is about completed.

Curtice provided a GM gift of $3,000,000, which Mike Gorman accepted without blinking an eye. Gorman is a very strong man, and he's driving himself night and day in his all-out effort. The late William S. Ballenger provided $200,000 for a field house. Pledge of a minimum of $25,000 constitutes qualifications as a sponsor. The Kudner Advertising Agency of New York came in for $25,000. And so did the aforementioned man from Minsk.

Gorman is driven by such statistics as: "There are now 2,000,000 students in our universities. By 1970 there will be 5,000,000. Where are we going to put them? Well, Flint is getting ready. It's showing the way."

Plenty Of Interest

There is no question about Flint's interest in going to school. Years ago, Mott came to the conclusion that it was dumb waste of good facilities to close down the schools of the city when the children left in the afternoon. Through the Mott Foundation he has since provided teachers, instructors and a host of services for the adults of the city . . . the men and women who build cars by day and hanker to improve their minds at night. School gyms swarm with activity. There are courses in motherhood, cooking; cram courses for adults who, years after leaving school for financial reasons, have returned to earn high school diplomas.

Mott picks up the tab. The children of these adult scholars are certain to get a better education than their parents could afford. They'll be going on to college. But by the time they're ready for it, the college will have come to them. The college and much more.

Gorman's fund-raising campaign is one of those rare gestures of selflessness the world sees too little of in Anno Domini 1955. Not a penny is being spent for administration of the fund raising.

"We'll wind up with a quarter of a million dollars more than we raised," Gorman grinned. "The money will have generated that much interest."

"Doc, I Need A Tonic," Is Cause Of This Discussion

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

It is difficult to write about tonics without stepping on someone's toes. These medicines were common in grandma's day and many fortunes were amassed by vendors of such nostrums. Some were advertised to purify the liver or the kidneys; others were supposed to build up the blood. "Pink pills for pale people" was a popular slogan of the day.

The users felt peppier because the majority of tonics had a sizable alcoholic content. Some malt products had a higher percentage of alcohol than whisky does and large amounts were consumed during the day even though sipped by the tablespoon rather than gulped by the shot. More than one teetotaler and reformer used tonics of this kind and often drank more alcoholic than the "drunkards" they were trying to bring back into the fold.

A tonic generally is regarded as an agent that restores "normal tone," thus promoting vigor and encouraging a feeling of well being. Old-timers believed this could be accomplished by stimulating certain organs. It is for this reason that liver tonics, laxatives, and substances to flush the kidneys were ballyhooed in every newspaper and magazine.

We now know that "tone" is an ambiguous term because the body cannot be compared to a motor that runs better when the spark plugs are cleaned and the carburetor is readjusted.

But the need for tonics still exists as many persons do not feel up to par or are in need of a lift at the end of the day. Before such a product is taken, however, most of us make an attempt to find out why we feel sluggish and rundown.

Is it too little sleep or are we overworked? Are we unhappy or in a rut? Health also enters the picture because infections, anemia, low metabolism, and an inadequate diet are capable of inducing fatigue.

These abnormalities must be corrected to obtain the desired results. How much better it is to live and work in an environment where such stimulation is not necessary. Besides, there is no sense in whipping a tired horse.

Modern tonics contain vitamins, especially the B complex group. The amphetamines also are used but not always recommended. Some elderly persons thrive on small doses of thyroid and there is nothing like a cup of coffee in the morning or a spot of tea in the afternoon to wake you up.

Since the repeal of prohibition, before dinner cocktails have been popular. There is no objection to a drink or two to enhance the sensation of well being. But some persons go too far and end as alcoholics.

Most of us take 10 times as much medicine as we need, including tonics. This is a human failing and one of the main distinctions between humans and animals. It may take a century or more for us to learn to use good sense by giving nature a chance.

MUMPS AND STERILITY

A. E. writes: Could a girl be made sterile from an attack of mumps at age 17?

REPLY

Yes, but in order to become sterile from this cause, the mumps virus would have to invade both ovaries. This is such a painful condition that if it had occurred, it would not have been missed.

CHARCOAL

REPLY

Burned toast will not harm the body but I know that some families are difficult to convince.

DELUDED

T. C. writes: At times I suddenly feel as though I were in strange surroundings. Does this sensation call for treatment?

REPLY

If this is a hypnagogic state, not treatment is required unless you decide to stay in this strange place and talk with friends you meet there.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

The suit he bought came from a bargain counter, of course, and featured an extra pair of pants. He appeared in his new garb on the hottest day in twenty years—and virtually stopped traffic. "Ach, now," howled the constable, "ye've finally bought it, eh? How does it set on ye, mon?"

"Not good," admitted Sandy. "In all this heat, two pairs of pants are doonright uncomfortable."

Market Has Hesitant Day And Closes Slightly Lower

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP) — The stock market went through a hesitant day today and finally closed lower.

Yesterday the market ran into heavy going and suffered severe losses on light volume.

Losses today weren't extensive. They usually were fractional. But some went to around 3 points. Gains were much the same—mostly small with some running to around 3 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 10 cents at $160.20. The fall yesterday of $2.20 was the second heaviest of the year. The industrial component of the average today was down 10 cents, while rails remained unchanged, and utilities lost 20 cents.

Volume was only 1,900,000 shares. That compares with 2,160,000 traded yesterday. Both are quite low when compared with the daily average so far this year of nearly three million shares.

General Dynamics was the day's most active issue, as it was yesterday, off 3/8 at 54 5/8 on 28,800 shares.

It was followed by Sunray Mid-Continent Petroleum preferred "A" up 1/8 at 25 5/8, Boeing off 1 3/4 at 55, Spiegel up 3/8 at 13 7/8, and Crown Cork up 5/8 at 16 1/8.

GOP Election Unit Members Ignore Meet

A joint meeting scheduled yesterday at the Court House by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and the Board of Election Supervisors took place but the only election official present was Matthew J. Mullaney, the Democratic minority member.

John M. Robb, the attorney to the Election Board, was also present but took little part in the discussion.

Mullaney said he was told by other members of the election board that they felt the meeting would develop into an "argument" over which of two voting machine companies should get the contract to furnish 103 machines for the county.

Commissioner William H. Lemmert said the board had called the meeting only to determine which machines would be best for county use. He admitted that the commissioners do not have the power to purchase the machines under the law, but they are to be purchased by the election officials with "the consent and approval" of the commissioners.

William H. Geppert, local attorney representing the Automatic Voting Machine Company, described his client's bid as the best. He said that on the basis of purchasing manually operated voting machines with a party lever his client had the lowest bid.

C. William Gilchrist, local attorney for the other firm, the Shoup Voting Machine Company, said his firm is offering a manually operated machine without party lever (which he termed illegal under Maryland law) at a price $1,146.68 lower than the Automatic firm.

Both attorneys argued the merits of the machines of their respective clients with Geppert stating that 2,598 of the Automatic machines are in use in Baltimore City and a number of other counties as compared to only 220 Shoup devices. He said they all have the party lever attached as the law pertaining to the levers may be changed in the future.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the commissioners, said the action of the board in asking for bids from both firms did result in their lowering their total price approximately $3,000 from prices previously quoted.

Mullaney said that as far as he knew, the Election Board had not changed its decision to purchase the machines of the Automatic Voting Machine Company.

The discussion terminated with no decision as to another joint meeting of the two bodies.

St. Luke's Lutheran Church Plans Building Fund Drive

St. Luke's Lutheran Church will officially open its building fund drive with a loyalty dinner at Fort Hill High School cafeteria Thursday at 6:30 p. m.

All members of the congregation have been invited to hear the building fund pledge explained and how the drive is to be conducted. There will be no charge for the dinner and no solicitation of any kind will be made, officials said.

The church has set a goal of $200,000. Pledges will be made on a weekly basis for a three-year period of 150 weeks. Solicitation will begin Monday, May 23.

According to proposed plans, the fund campaign will be conducted first and when sufficient money has been obtained, an architect will be hired. The church will be located on the corner lot adjoining the present building and will seat at least 400.

In 1850, the first church built by St. Luke's congregation was erected on Bedford Street and was then known as the German Lutheran Church. During its construction, the German Roman Catholic congregation was also constructing a church, SS. Peter and Paul.

As an encouragement to both congregations, city council voted a town clock to the church completed first. The Lutherans won.

As a result, the building, now housing the First Christian Church, has been known as "The Town Clock Church."

The present St. Luke's, built in 1927, was originally intended for a Sunday School room with a church to be erected later.

He is assisted by F. Lee Fresh, canvass committee chairman; Wilbur D. Sills, special gifts chairman; George Louis Spoerl, initial gifts chairman; Marshall H. Sowers, teams chairman; Dr. Norman Barger and Coit Speicher, division leaders; Mrs. Walter E. Scheermesser, hostess committee chairman; Mrs. George Louis Spoerl and Mrs. R. L. Stoutamyer, hostess vice chairmen; W. Edward Eichner, arrangements chairman; Joseph H. Pellerzi, publications chairman, and William J. Armbruster, treasurer.

Dwelling Permit Granted By Building Engineer

George O. Thrush, 606 Shriver Avenue, has obtained a permit to construct a one-story dwelling on Lot 38 and part of Lot 37 (506) Regina Avenue.

Records at the building engineer's office show cost estimated at $5,000. The building will be 29 by 36 feet, have concrete block foundation, brick walls and composition shingle roof.

Texas, the largest state, has 253 counties while Rhode Island, the smallest, has only five.

Market Has Hesitant Day And Closes Slightly Lower

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP) — The stock market went through a hesitant day today and finally closed lower.

Yesterday the market ran into heavy going and suffered severe losses on light volume.

Losses today weren't extensive. They usually were fractional. But some went to around 3 points. Gains were much the same—mostly small with some running to around 3 points.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 10 cents at $160.20. The fall yesterday of $2.20 was the second heaviest of the year. The industrial component of the average today was down 10 cents, while rails remained unchanged, and utilities lost 20 cents.

Volume was only 1,900,000 shares. That compares with 2,160,000 traded yesterday. Both are quite low when compared with the daily average so far this year of nearly three million shares.

General Dynamics was the day's most active issue, as it was yesterday, off 3/8 at 54 5/8 on 28,800 shares.

It was followed by Sunray Mid-Continent Petroleum preferred "A" up 1/8 at 25 5/8, Boeing off 1 3/4 at 55, Spiegel up 3/8 at 13 7/8, and Crown Cork up 5/8 at 16 1/8.

Mrs. Brotemarkle Services Today

Funeral services will be held today at 10 a. m. for Mrs. Audrey M. Brotemarkle, 75, a native of Bedford Valley, Pa., and a former resident of Cumberland, who was killed Saturday when struck by a car in front of her residence, Finderne, N. J.

Rev. F. M. Leonard, pastor of Finderne Reformed Church will officiate and interment will be in Blawenburg Cemetery, Blawenburg.

Mrs. Brotemarkle's death marred the first family reunion in a number of years at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Lewis, with whom she had lived since moving to Finderne 15 years ago from Cumberland.

Four gnereations were on hand to welcome home Maj. Martin E. Lewis, 33, of Fort Belvoir, Va., a grandson of Mrs. Brotemarkle, who had been on a tour of duty in England since 1950.

Mrs. Brotemarkle was carrying a carton of empty soda bottles and was on her way to the store when the mishap occurred about 8:55 p. m. Saturday.

The driver of the car, Bernard Bramman, 46, of Bradley Gardens, told police the woman stepped into the road in front of his car, which was traveling west, and he was unable to stop in time.

The left front of the car's hood struck the woman and threw her about 20 feet into the street. She was pronounced dead at the scene by County Physician D. T. Russo.

The driver was released on $1,000 bail to face preliminary arraignment on May 26 on a charge of causing death by auto.

Born in Bedford Valley, a daughter of the late Leviah and Mary (Smith) Hardman, she formerly lived in Cumberland, where she was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Other survivors, in addition to her daughter, Mrs. Lewis, are a sister, Mrs. Alice Brunner, Bedford Valley; a brother, Shannon Hardman, of Maryland; five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

WILT INFANT

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor D. Wilt, Breezewood, Pa., died Monday in Memorial Hospital. He was born April 29.

HERSH SERVICE

A funeral service for Mrs. Martha (Sipple) Hersh, 75, of 605 Greene Street, who died Monday, will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the George Funeral Home.

Rev. Carl H. Clapp, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed Church, will officiate, and interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Pallbearers will be Daniel Langer, Robert Snowden, Harvey Stouffer, Daniel Browne, Paul Collins and Franklin Kremer.

CASPER C. SHOUP

Casper C. Shoup, 88, retired lumberman, father of John R. Shoup, Cresaptown, died May 10 at Williamsport, Pa. A funeral service and burial was held there on May 12.

Surviving besides his son John, is another son, Robert Shoup, Williamsport; two daughters, Mrs. Mabel Kast and Miss Margaret Shoup, both of Williamsport and two sisters.

WRIGHT SERVICES

JENNERSTOWN, Pa.—Services for Oscar A. Wright, 77, of Jennerstown, a native of Frostburg who died Sunday in Somerset Community Hospital, will be held today at 2:30 p. m. in Trinity Evangelical and Reformed Church, Jennerstown.

Rev. Warren O. Zeigler will officiate and interment will be in the church cemetery.

FACTS FOR MEN

Your wife may be the big user of hot water in your home but when it comes to choosing a new water heater to replace the one that's worn out or inadequate, you're going to make the selection. Here are some facts you should know about ELECTRIC WATER HEATING.

SAVE MONEY ON INSTALLATION

An electric water heater needs no flue or chimney. It can be installed anywhere in your home. In most cases long pipes are eliminated and, of course, pipe costs are cut down. Then too, in long pipes water accumulates and grows cold. When you want hot water, all the cold must be drawn off. This runs up both water and water heating bills. Short pipes eliminate this.

SAVE MONEY ON RATES

Because your electric water heater uses current only during "off peak" hours—that is when power demand is low—you get the advantage of a special low electric rate. Efficient insulation keeps heat in the tank, making for further savings.

AUTOMATIC FUEL SUPPLY

No "re-ordering" or running short of electricity.

IT COSTS NO MORE

. . . . per gallon to operate a big tank than a small one, so get one BIG enough.

Mrs. Brotemarkle's death marred the first family reunion in a number of years at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Lewis, with whom she had lived since moving to Finderne 15 years ago from Cumberland.

The left front of the car's hood struck the woman and threw her about 20 feet into the street. She was pronounced dead at the scene by County Physician D. T. Russo.

The driver was released on $1,000 bail to face preliminary arraignment on May 26 on a charge of causing death by auto.

Born in Bedford Valley, a daughter of the late Leviah and Mary (Smith) Hardman, she formerly lived in Cumberland, where she was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Other survivors, in addition to her daughter, Mrs. Lewis, are a sister, Mrs. Alice Brunner, Bedford Valley; a brother, Shannon Hardman, of Maryland; five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

W. Va. Farmers Get Over Half Million From Cattle Sales

CHARLESTON — West Virginia farmers received over one-half million dollars as a result of commercial grass cattle sales sponsored this spring by the State Department of Agriculture and the livestock auction markets, it was announced by Commissioner of Agriculture J. B. McLaughlin.

Sales were held at 15 livestock auctions throughout the Mountain State. Steers averaged $127 while heifers averaged $90.60, bringing state farmers $554,724.35 for the 4,725 head sold.

Cattle were graded into uniform lots at all of the sales and an intensive advertising campaign was undertaken to inform interested buyers in a five state area. These facts resulted in an average of two cents per pound more for cattle sold at the special sales than at other current markets, Claud Underwood, marketing specialist, observed.

There has been a great improvement in the quality of cattle, according to Underwood. Cattle farmers now realize the need for better herd sires and other herd improvement factors if they are to realize the most profit from their livestock program.

W. Va. Farmers Get Over Half Million From Cattle Sales

CHARLESTON — West Virginia farmers received over one-half million dollars as a result of commercial grass cattle sales sponsored this spring by the State Department of Agriculture and the livestock auction markets, it was announced by Commissioner of Agriculture J. B. McLaughlin.

Sales were held at 15 livestock auctions throughout the Mountain State. Steers averaged $127 while heifers averaged $90.60, bringing state farmers $554,724.35 for the 4,725 head sold.

Cattle were graded into uniform lots at all of the sales and an intensive advertising campaign was undertaken to inform interested buyers in a five state area. These facts resulted in an average of two cents per pound more for cattle sold at the special sales than at other current markets, Claud Underwood, marketing specialist, observed.

There has been a great improvement in the quality of cattle, according to Underwood. Cattle farmers now realize the need for better herd sires and other herd improvement factors if they are to realize the most profit from their livestock program.

Officials Visit Harpers Ferry To See Restoration Progress

National Monument At Historic Site Is Assured

HARPERS FERRY, W. Va.—At this historic spot, where three great states and two great rivers come together, a program was held Saturday, which left little doubt that Harpers Ferry is to become a National Monument.

Through the combined cooperation of the National Park Service, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, the officials and residents of this community and many other interested people, the future of this quaint attraction is assured.

Conrad L. Wirth, director of the National Park Service, called attention that it was on June 30, 1944, that Congress enacted into law provisions which authorize the preservation of the old landmarks and buildings and the establishment of a National Monument here.

Former Rep. Jennings Randolph (D-W.Va.), who sponsored the idea and bill when he was in Congress, was among the visitors and speakers at the program here. His bill provides that work on the park would be undertaken as a federal project when necessary land was acquired.

Officials noted that the State of West Virginia has already purchased 500 acres it needed for its share, and the State of Maryland is now in the process of acquiring 800 acres of its share. Wirth told the visitors to the area Saturday that actual work will get underway about July 1, and $59,000 will be available for beginning of the project.

He, with Undersecretary of the Interior Clarence A. Davis, joined officials of Maryland and West Virginia in the tour. They found that some people had already moved out of the area that will be included in the 15,000 acre national park. Historical studies, preliminary to restoration of the many quaint old buildings, is well underway.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad ran a special train from Washington to Harpers Ferry Saturday, bringing many important officials of the federal government and the railroad here for the meeting and the tour.

When the train arrived at Harpers Ferry, the visitors were greeted with a band concert by Harpers Ferry High School Band, and were formally welcomed by Mayor Gilbert E. Perry and an official welcoming committee.

Luncheon was served the guests at the John Perry home on Bolivar Heights. Bradley D. Nash, deputy assistant secretary of the Air Force, was master of ceremonies, and talks were made by Mayor Perry, W. C. Baker, vice president of the B&O Railroad in charge of operations and maintenance; Clarence A. Davis, undersecretary of the Interior; and Conrad L. Wirth, director of the National Park Service.

Other B&O officials present included J. F. Whittington, general passenger traffic manager; J. E. Edwards Jr., general manager; W. M. Murphy, superintendent of the Baltimore division; A. W. Conley, superintendent of the Cumberland division; A. K. Galloway, general superintendent of motive power; J. W. Phipps, vice president of traffic; and Eugene Williams, chairman of the board of the Western Maryland Railway.

Senator Dennis Chavez, Congressmen W. F. Norrell, Benjamin Jensen, A. L. Miller, Gracie Pfost were also present, in addition to a number of West Virginia and Maryland publishers, historians and officials from neighboring communities.

On the tour of the area, the party was divided into four groups. Superintendent John Willett of Harpers Ferry National Monument; Dr. J. Walter Coleman, superintendent, and Dr. Fred Tilberg, historian of Gettysburg National Military Park; and Historian William Everhart served as guides and answered innumerable questions.

As the project unfolds and is completed, railroad and park service officials believe Harpers Ferry will become one of the most popular tourist attractions in the east.

Officials Visit Harpers Ferry To See Restoration Progress

National Monument At Historic Site Is Assured

HARPERS FERRY, W. Va.—At this historic spot, where three great states and two great rivers come together, a program was held Saturday, which left little doubt that Harpers Ferry is to become a National Monument.

Through the combined cooperation of the National Park Service, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, the officials and residents of this community and many other interested people, the future of this quaint attraction is assured.

Conrad L. Wirth, director of the National Park Service, called attention that it was on June 30, 1944, that Congress enacted into law provisions which authorize the preservation of the old landmarks and buildings and the establishment of a National Monument here.

Officials noted that the State of West Virginia has already purchased 500 acres it needed for its share, and the State of Maryland is now in the process of acquiring 900 acres of its share. Wirth told the visitors to the area Saturday that actual work will get underway about July 1, and $59,000 will be available for beginning of the project.

He, with Undersecretary of the Interior Clarence A. Davis, joined officials of Maryland and West Virginia in the tour. They found that some people had already moved out of the area that will be included in the 15,000 acre national park. Historical studies, preliminary to restoration of the many quaint old buildings, is well underway.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad ran a special train from Washington to Harpers Ferry Saturday, bringing many important officials of the federal government and the railroad here for the meeting and the tour.

When the train arrived at Harpers Ferry, the visitors were greeted with a band concert by Harpers Ferry High School Band, and were formally welcomed by Mayor Gilbert E. Perry and an official welcoming committee.

Sox Twirler's Wildness Costs Him Close Tilt

Billy Loses 4-Hit Contest; Robinson's Out Produces Tally

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP) — The New York Yankees were held to four hits, but made the most of Billy Pierce's wildness to beat the Chicago White Sox 1-0 tonight. Whitey Ford kept seven Sox hits well spaced while gaining his third shutout and fifth victory of the season.

The victory pulled the Yankees to within a half game of the second place White Sox, who missed a chance to take a share of the American League lead with Cleveland.

It was a tough duel between the two lefthanders until the sixth. Then Pierce, who had walked but one earlier, issued bases on balls to Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra on eight pitches. Berra overslid second and was out on an attempted double steal that moved Mantle to third, but after Elston Howard walked, Mickey came in with the only run of the game as Eddie Robinson hit into a force out.

Orioles Lose Marsh With Fractured Elbow

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP)—Hard-luck Freddie Marsh, utility infielder of the Baltimore Orioles, fractured his right elbow tonight before the start of the Orioles game with the Detroit Tigers.

Marsh broke the radius bone in his throwing arm when he crashed into the rightfield stands while chasing a foul fly in the pregame warmup.

Dr. Erwin Mayer, club physician, said Marsh would have to wear a cast for about three weeks and predicted the 31-year-old infielder would be out of action about six weeks.

Marsh was sidelined earlier in the season after spraining his left ankle in a game against Washington, April 23. He had just recently become available for duty. Marsh has played eight games at second base and is hitting .273.

Pittsburgh Loses To Redlegs, 9-2

CINCINNATI, May 17 (AP)—Southpaw Joe Nuxhall, who also drove a three-run double, tonight dumped Pittsburgh 9-2 to boost the Redlegs into sixth place in the National League. Big Ted Kluszewski hit his ninth homer of the season.

Boston Red Sox End Cleveland Mastery, 10-3

Jensen, Joost Pole Homers For Red Sox

BOSTON, May 17 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox, embarrassed by 11 straight losses to Cleveland last season, ended the Tribe's mastery in Fenway Park today by blasting the American League leaders for a 10-3 victory.

The victory was only the fourth for the Red Sox over the Indians in their last 26 decisions over a two-year period. The Indians won 20 of 22 last season and had taken three straight earlier this season in Cleveland.

The Red Sox combined power and timely hits off five Cleveland pitchers and were aided greatly by a porous Tribe defense. Four of the Boston runs were unearned.

Jackie Jensen, with his eighth homer of the season—with two on—Eddie Joost, with his second of the year with none on, and Gene Stephens with a double and triple paced the Boston assault.

Rookie first baseman Norm Zauchin had two singles, a pair of walks and a sacrifice fly in five times at bat. Third baseman Billy Klaus chipped in with a double and a single.

The Indians were weakened by the loss of three regular infielders. Third baseman Al Rosen is sidelined by a pulled leg muscle, second baseman Bobby Avila has a foot ailment and shortstop George Strickland is in a Washington hospital with an infection.

Early Wynn, veteran righthander who entered the game with a 3-0 record, was the victim of Jensen and Joost and was relieved at the start of the sixth. Bill Henry, Boston southpaw making his first start of the season, hurled creditably for six innings but ran into trouble in the seventh.

Jackson Blanks Brooklyn, 3-0

ST. LOUIS, May 17 (AP)—Rookie righthander Larry Jackson of the St. Louis Cardinals shut out the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers tonight on 10 hits, 3-0, scoring the Redbirds' fourth straight victory on the strength of home runs by Red Schoendienst and Ken Boyer.

Jackson, 23-year old Idahoan, held the Dodgers hitless in only one inning, but walked just one batter as he continued a string of sensational St. Louis pitching that has permitted the opposition just one run the last four games.

Victim in this pitching duel before a crowd of 23,067 was Carl Erskine, little Dodger ace who suffered his first 1955 defeat against five victories, a result of Schoendienst's fifth-inning homer into the screenless right-field pavilion. Erskine yielded five hits in six frames.

Elks Score 4th Victory In Row

Trim Moose, 14-10, Eagles Triumph, 7-3

The B.P.O. Elks kept their record unblemished in the Rocking Chair Softball League by scoring their fourth victory over the Loyal Order of Moose yesterday at Allegany Field. The score was 14-10.

Lou Baker banked a trio of two-baggers, Bob Pence connected for three singles and Bill Raupach belted a grand slam homer and single for the winners. Pete Elliott had four of the Moose team's 17 hits but he was wild as the proverbial March hare, walking a total of 10 batsmen. Raupach and Bob Price turned in the fielding gems.

Billy Loses 4-Hit Contest; Robinson's Out Produces Tally

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP) — The New York Yankees were held to four hits, but made the most of Billy Pierce's wildness to beat the Chicago White Sox 1-0 tonight. Whitey Ford kept seven Sox hits well spaced while gaining his third shutout and fifth victory of the season.

The victory pulled the Yankees to within a half game of the second place White Sox, who missed a chance to take a share of the American League lead with Cleveland.

It was a tough duel between the two lefthanders until the sixth. Then Pierce, who had walked but one earlier, issued bases on balls to Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra on eight pitches. Berra overslid second and was out on an attempted double steal that moved Mantle to third, but after Elston Howard walked, Mickey came in with the only run of the game as Eddie Robinson hit into a force out.

Orioles Lose Marsh With Fractured Elbow

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP)—Hard-luck Freddie Marsh, utility infielder of the Baltimore Orioles, fractured his right elbow tonight before the start of the Orioles game with the Detroit Tigers.

Marsh broke the radius bone in his throwing arm when he crashed into the rightfield stands while chasing a foul fly in the pregame warmup.

Dr. Erwin Mayer, club physician, said Marsh would have to wear a cast for about three weeks and predicted the 31-year-old infielder would be out of action about six weeks.

Marsh was sidelined earlier in the season after spraining his left ankle in a game against Washington, April 23. He had just recently become available for duty. Marsh has played eight games at second base and is hitting .273.

Pittsburgh Loses To Redlegs, 9-2

CINCINNATI, May 17 (AP)—Southpaw Joe Nuxhall, who also drove a three-run double, tonight dumped Pittsburgh 9-2 to boost the Redlegs into sixth place in the National League. Big Ted Kluszewski hit his ninth homer of the season.

Jensen, Joost Pole Homers For Red Sox

BOSTON, May 17 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox, embarrassed by 11 straight losses to Cleveland last season, ended the Tribe's mastery in Fenway Park today by blasting the American League leaders for a 10-3 victory.

The victory was only the fourth for the Red Sox over the Indians in their last 26 decisions over a two-year period. The Indians won 20 of 22 last season and had taken three straight earlier this season in Cleveland.

The Red Sox combined power and timely hits off five Cleveland pitchers and were aided greatly by a porous Tribe defense. Four of the Boston runs were unearned.

Jackie Jensen, with his eighth homer of the season—with two on—Eddie Joost, with his second of the year with none on, and Gene Stephens with a double and triple paced the Boston assault.

Rookie first baseman Norm Zauchin had two singles, a pair of walks and a sacrifice fly in five times at bat. Third baseman Billy Klaus chipped in with a double and a single.

The Indians were weakened by the loss of three regular infielders. Third baseman Al Rosen is sidelined by a pulled leg muscle, second baseman Bobby Avila has a foot ailment and shortstop George Strickland is in a Washington hospital with an infection.

Early Wynn, veteran righthander who entered the game with a 3-0 record, was the victim of Jensen and Joost and was relieved at the start of the sixth. Bill Henry, Boston southpaw making his first start of the season, hurled creditably for six innings but ran into trouble in the seventh.

Jackson Blanks Brooklyn, 3-0

ST. LOUIS, May 17 (AP)—Rookie righthander Larry Jackson of the St. Louis Cardinals shut out the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers tonight on 10 hits, 3-0, scoring the Redbirds' fourth straight victory on the strength of home runs by Red Schoendienst and Ken Boyer.

Jackson, 23-year old Idahoan, held the Dodgers hitless in only one inning, but walked just one batter as he continued a string of sensational St. Louis pitching that has permitted the opposition just one run the last four games.

Victim in this pitching duel before a crowd of 23,067 was Carl Erskine, little Dodger ace who suffered his first 1955 defeat against five victories, a result of Schoendienst's fifth-inning homer into the screenless right-field pavilion. Erskine yielded five hits in six frames.

Trim Moose, 14-10, Eagles Triumph, 7-3

The B.P.O. Elks kept their record unblemished in the Rocking Chair Softball League by scoring their fourth victory over the Loyal Order of Moose yesterday at Allegany Field. The score was 14-10.

Lou Baker banked a trio of two-baggers, Bob Pence connected for three singles and Bill Raupach belted a grand slam homer and single for the winners. Pete Elliott had four of the Moose team's 17 hits but he was wild as the proverbial March hare, walking a total of 10 batsmen. Raupach and Bob Price turned in the fielding gems.

The F. O. Eagles trimmed the winless Knights of Columbus, 7-3, at Stitcher Field.

Moorefield Tops Keyser, 3-0, Advances To Region Finals

Bulldogs Top Berkeley, 3-2

Martinsburg Earns Shot At Moorefield

Coach George Whitacre's Martinsburg High School Bulldogs were forced to go nine innings to defeat Berkeley Springs High's Indians yesterday at Charles Town in a semi-final round game of West Virginia's Region No. 4 baseball tournament. The score was 3-2.

The winning tally was scored in the second extra inning when Ronnie Clatterbuck, Berkeley Springs pitcher, dropped a pop fly with the bases loaded. The "squeeze play" was on at the time Clatterbuck committed the muff that climaxed a neat pitching duel between himself and Ronnie Smallwood.

Berkeley Springs took a 2-run lead in the top of the 7th inning by coupling a walk with two fielder's choices and singles by Hansroth and Potter. Lewis's single following a base hit and stolen base enabled the Bulldogs to tie the score in the last of the 7th.

Smallwood fanned eight and yielded two hits. Clatterbuck gave up eight safeties, fanned three and was aided by two snappy double plays. It was unbeaten Martinsburg's 11th consecutive victory. Berkeley Springs wound up the season with an 8-3 record.

Martinsburg will play Moorefield this weekend for the right to represent Region 4 in the state championship event at Parkersburg. Score:

Mongold Holds Clark's Outfit To Five Blows

Martin, Bauserman, Webster Bat In Runs In Errorless Battle

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., May 17 — Harold Mongold twirled Moorefield High School's Yellow Jackets into the finals of the West Virginia Region 4 baseball tournament by shutting out Keyser High School here today by the score of 3-0.

The Jackets' righthander who turned in a 5-0 record during the regular season, let Keyser's hard-hitting aggregation down with five safeties in today's game as Coach Jonathan Paugh's undefeated outfit racked up its 11th victory of the campaign.

Moorefield scored what proved to be the winning run in the second inning when Vernon Webster and Jim Barr worked Ronnie Stickley for free tickets, Don Peters singled to fill the hassocks, Webster was forced at the plate on Leslie Barr's fielder's choice and Jim Barr crossed the platter on Ruel Martin's timely base wallop.

The Jackets added two more tallies in the fifth. Allen Bean rapped a two bagger and after Harlan Barr walked Bill Bauserman's single sent Bean home. Vern Webster's long sacrifice fly enabled Harlan Barr to register the final tally. Jim Barr and Don Peters also hit safely before Keyser retired the side.

Both teams played errorless ball.

The fielding highlight was furnished by Ruel Martin in the second inning when he turned in a backhand stop of Moore's hot grounder and cut down a runner with a perfect throw to the plate.

Bean smacked a double and single and Don Peters had a pair of one-base knocks to pace Moorefield's 7-hit attack.

Keyser's five hits came in the first five frames and included a triple by Dick Shuck and a two-bagger by Jim Nicol.

Moorefield will play the winner of the Berkeley Springs-Martinsburg game for the Region 4 title this weekend. The victor qualifies for the state championship tournament at Parkersburg May 26, 27 and 28. Box:

Kellner Is Victor Over Senators, 1-0

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Alex Kellner, Kansas City lefthander, dealt Washington its third shutout in five games tonight, edging Maury McDermott in a mound duel, 1-0. Kellner scattered eight hits, while McDermott yielded six.

A lone base on balls given up by McDermott cost him the decision. He walked Hector Lopez to start the fifth inning, Joe Astroth sacrificed and Kellner singled to left, scoring Lopez.

Kellner permitted only two runners to advance to third base. Tony Roig tripled with two out in the fifth inning but McDermott grounded out.

Pinch Hit Happy

Manager Bobby Bragan of the Hollywood Stars in the Pacific Coast League had more than a little fun with the umpires in the first game of a double header with Los Angeles the other day when he became angered at decisions being made by the "men in blue."

He sent up eight pinch-hitters consecutively in the last inning of the game. They kept replacing each other after one pitch.

"All those batters were used to show up the umpires, who already made a farce of the game," Bragan said.

FRANKLIN, W. Va., May 17—Coach Bob Hartman's Franklin High School tossers concluded their 1955 baseball season with a 5-3 record by defeating Circleville High School's Indians today at Circleville by the score of 5-3.

Circleville suffered its sixth setback against two victories in the 12-team circuit.

Each team was limited to three hits in the game in which Harry Knicely was returned the victor over Dallas Harper in a neat pitching duel. Knicely fanned 14 batsmen and wound up the campaign with a 3-3 record. He also rapped a triple for the game's only extra base hit. Box:

End Of Hit Famine

NEW YORK (AP) — When pitcher Ed Lopat of the Yankees singled in the eighth inning of a game against the Boston Red Sox on April 23 it marked the end of a hit famine for the veteran southpaw. It was his first safety in 56 trips to the plate.

The last time Lopat hit safely was April 21, 1954 — against the same Red Sox.

Moorefield Tops Keyser, 3-0, Advances To Region Finals

Bulldogs Top Berkeley, 3-2

Martinsburg Earns Shot At Moorefield

Coach George Whitacre's Martinsburg High School Bulldogs were forced to go nine innings to defeat Berkeley Springs High's Indians yesterday at Charles Town in a semi-final round game of West Virginia's Region No. 4 baseball tournament. The score was 3-2.

The winning tally was scored in the second extra inning when Ronnie Clatterbuck, Berkeley Springs pitcher, dropped a pop fly with the bases loaded. The "squeeze play" was on at the time Clatterbuck committed the muff that climaxed a neat pitching duel between himself and Ronnie Smallwood.

Berkeley Springs took a 2-run lead in the top of the 7th inning by coupling a walk with two fielder's choices and singles by Hansroth and Potter. Lewis's single following a base hit and stolen base enabled the Bulldogs to tie the score in the last of the 7th.

Smallwood fanned eight and yielded two hits. Clatterbuck gave up eight safeties, fanned three and was aided by two snappy double plays. It was unbeaten Martinsburg's 11th consecutive victory. Berkeley Springs wound up the season with an 8-3 record.

Martinsburg will play Moorefield this weekend for the right to represent Region 4 in the state championship event at Parkersburg. Score:

Mongold Holds Clark's Outfit To Five Blows

Martin, Bauserman, Webster Bat In Runs In Errorless Battle

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., May 17 — Harold Mongold twirled Moorefield High School's Yellow Jackets into the finals of the W'es. Virginia Region 4 baseball tournament by shutting out Keyser High School here today by the score of 3-0.

The Jackets' righthander who turned in a 5-0 record during the regular season, let Keyser's hard-hitting aggregation down with five safeties in today's game as Coach Jonathan Paugh's undefeated outfit racked up its 11th victory of the campaign.

Moorefield scored what proved to be the winning run in the second inning when Vernon Webster and Jim Barr worked Ronnie Stickley for free tickets, Don Peters singled to fill the hassocks, Webster was forced at the plate on Leslie Barr's fielder's choice and Jim Barr crossed the platter on Ruel Martin's timely base wallop.

The Jackets added two more tallies in the fifth. Allen Bean rapped a two bagger and after Harlan Barr walked Bill Bauserman's single sent Bean home. Vern Webster's long sacrifice fly enabled Harlan Barr to register the final tally. Jim Barr and Don Peters also hit safely before Keyser retired the side.

Both teams played errorless ball.

The fielding highlight was furnished by Ruel Martin in the second inning when he turned in a backhand stop of Moore's hot grounder and cut down a runner with a perfect throw to the plate.

Bean smacked a double and single and Don Peters had a pair of one-base knocks to pace Moorefield's 7-hit attack.

Keyser's five hits came in the first five frames and included a triple by Dick Shuck and a two-bagger by Jim Nicol.

Moorefield will play the winner of the Berkeley Springs-Martinsburg game for the Region 4 title this weekend. The victor qualifies for the state championship tournament at Parkersburg May 26, 27 and 28. Box:

Kellner Is Victor Over Senators, 1-0

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Alex Kellner, Kansas City lefthander, dealt Washington its third shutout in five games tonight, edging Maury McDermott in a mound duel, 1-0. Kellner scattered eight hits, while McDermott yielded six.

A lone base on balls given up by McDermott cost him the decision. He walked Hector Lopez to start the fifth inning, Joe Astroth sacrificed and Kellner singled to left, scoring Lopez.

Kellner permitted only two runners to advance to third base. Tony Roig tripled with two out in the fifth inning but McDermott grounded out.

Pinch Hit Happy

Manager Bobby Bragan of the Hollywood Stars in the Pacific Coast League had more than a little fun with the umpires in the first game of a double header with Los Angeles the other day when he became angered at decisions being made by the "men in blue."

He sent up eight pinch-hitters consecutively in the last inning of the game. They kept replacing each other after one pitch.

"All those batters were used to show up the umpires, who already made a farce of the game," Bragan said.

End Of Hit Famine

NEW YORK (AP) — When pitcher Ed Lopat of the Yankees singled in the eighth inning of a game against the Boston Red Sox on April 23 it marked the end of a hit famine for the veteran southpaw. It was his first safety in 56 trips to the plate.

The last time Lopat hit safely was April 21, 1954 — against the same Red Sox.

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP)—Baltimore backed Erv Palica's tight six-hit pitching with four extra base hits, including Billy Cox's second home run of the year, as the Orioles defeated the Detroit Tigers 3-2 tonight before 28,532.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 17 (INS) — I had to laugh when I saw Guy Madison and he said, "Louella, before you ask me 'what's new?', I'm going to tell you. I've just signed to make six pictures for Columbia. Or I should say, I'll make the films for my own independent company with Columbia financing and releasing. Something like John Wayne's deal with Warners."

Before I could catch my breath, Guy added, "Our first is a Mary McCall, Jr., story called 'Seven Watchmen.'"

Guy's pretty wife Sheila, looking well and happy after the serious time she had when Bridget Katherine was born, was with her husband. She asked me if I'd heard that he is going to be in "Farewell to Arms" playing the Gary Cooper role on the Climax TV show.

There was a double celebration at the home of Margo and Eddie Albert a few days ago. Eddie, Jr., was given a birthday party with a dog as his gift. And Eddie, Sr., has just signed to play Burt McGuire, the husband of Lillian Roth in "I'll Cry Tomorrow" with Susan Hayward. Burt is the husband who helped Lillian back on the right road after 16 years as an alcoholic.

That gives Eddie a very full schedule. Before he starts rehearsing at MGM, he goes to New York for the TV spectacular, "Chocolate Soldier." In August he starts rehearsals for a Broadway musical, "Ruben, Ruben," in which he plays a trapeze performer in a circus.

There's no truth in Grace Kelly's romance with Jean Pierre Aumont, Charles Feldman says. He was at a dinner Elsa Maxwell gave at the Carlton Hotel in Cannes.

"That's where Grace met Aumont and he invited her to have luncheon the next day," said Charlie.

Since Grace is so much in the public eye and every little bit of news about her is seized upon as a big story, Aumont evidently was not averse to having his name associated with Grace.

Charlie's first date when he got back to town (and he didn't tell me this) was with Dana Wynter who, unless I miss my guess, will be one of our 1955 stars.

The flash from Europe that Paulette Goddard is marrying Erich Maria Remarque, the author, verifies a story I had about four months ago when Paulette was in this country.

She telephoned me from New York that she was hurrying back to Switzerland to meet Erich, with whom she has been in love for some years.

At that time Paulette said, "I know I am in love with him because we are so congenial. We like the same things and it's the first time in my life that I have ever wanted to sit down and read and stay at home.

Mercedes McCambridge telephoned me from her dentist's office to say she had been given the role of Luz, Sr. (Rock Hudson's sister) in "Giant." Carroll Baker has the role of Luz, (Rock's daughter).

Said Mercedes, "I am so happy that I'm taking out all my old Stevenson buttons and scratching off the 'on' to make the name Stevens so I can root for George! I've always wanted to work with him, and this is surely an answer to my prayers."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Doris Day had all her luggage stolen with the clothes and objets d'art she bought in Paris and London, according to a cable received from Marekesh, North Africa.

Gloria Vanderbilt Stokowski's newest escort in the east is Sidney Lumet, estranged husband of Rita Gam.

F. Hugh Herbert's daughter, Diana, will be a June bride. She is marrying Erwin Kramer, member of a wealthy eastern hotel family. The ceremony will be held in Hollywood.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Fort Hill Invitation Meet Set Friday Night

Five Schools Will Compete In 15 Events

Frederick, Handley, Montgomery Blair, Allegany Entered

Athletes of five schools, namely, Frederick, Montgomery Blair of Silver Spring, Handley of Winchester, Va., Allegany and Fort Hill will compete in a program of 15 events in the ninth annual Fort Hill High School Invitational Track and Field Meet Friday night at the Fort Hill Stadium, it was announced last night by William P. Hahn, Fort Hill mentor and director of the event.

Field events will get under way at 7:45 o'clock while the track contests are slated to start at 8 o'clock.

All events will be run on a time basis and the 100 and 220 yard dashes, the hig and low hurdles will be run in heats.

This year's program will be the sixth time for the invitational to be held under the lights.

Fort Hill has won its own meet seven times in eight years. Coach Hunter Maddex's Handley High School thinclads nosed out the Sentinels in 1953 by the score of 76-74.

Fort Hill and Montgomery Blair were the top track and field teams in Maryland last year. These schools tied for first place in the University of Maryland meet with 22 points each and in the Maryland Class "A" meet Fort Hill won over the Silver Spring school by the margin of 14 points.

The events will be as follows:

TRACK—100 and 220 dashes, 440, 880 yards and one mile runs, 120 high and 180 low hurdles, 440, 880 and mile relays.

Prices of admission are 25 cents for students and 50 cents for adults.

Beall And Hyndman Play In Frostburg

Beall High School, tied with LaSalle for the runner-up spot in the Bi-State Baseball Conference, will be shooting its fourth straight victory when it plays Hyndman High School today at 3:30 o'clock in Frostburg.

The Mountaineers hold a 13-2 decision over the Hornets and have scored 49 runs in their last three games, mauling Flintstone, 20-5 and 8-3 and crushing Allegany, 21-5.

Two City Tilts Today

The games will get under way at 6:15 p. m.

Manuel Ayulo, 33, Veteran Auto Racer, Dies Of Injuries

INDIANAPOLIS, May 17 (AP) — Manuel Ayulo, a veteran of auto racing and the nation's second race car driver last year, died today of the injuries he suffered in a crash at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The 33-year-old driver of Burbank, Calif., rammed into a retaining wall on the southwest turn yesterday as he was making a practice run in preparation for this year's Memorial Day 500-mile race. It would have been his sixth race here.

His death was the 45th fatality at the Indianapolis track since it opened in 1909.

Ayulo began his racing career shortly after World War II. He drove in midget and sprint races before getting into the big ones.

In his starts at the speedway Ayulo finished 13th in 1953 and 1954. In 1951, driving as relief for Jack McGrath, he finished third.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 17 (INS) — I had to laugh when I saw Guy Madison and he said, "Louella, before you ask me 'what's new?', I'm going to tell you. I've just signed to make six pictures for Columbia. Or I should say, I'll make the films for my own independent company with Columbia financing and releasing. Something like John Wayne's deal with Warners."

Before I could catch my breath, Guy added, "Our first is a Mary McCall, Jr., story called 'Seven Watchmen.'"

Guy's pretty wife Sheila, looking well and happy after the serious time she had when Bridget Katherine was born, was with her husband. She asked me if I'd heard that he is going to be in "Farewell to Arms" playing the Gary Cooper role on the Climax TV show.

There was a double celebration at the home of Margo and Eddie Albert a few days ago. Eddie, Jr., was given a birthday party with a dog as his gift. And Eddie, Sr., has just signed to play Burt McGuire, the husband of Lillian Roth in "I'll Cry Tomorrow" with Susan Hayward. Burt is the husband who helped Lillian back on the right road after 16 years as an alcoholic.

That gives Eddie a very full schedule. Before he starts rehearsing at MGM, he goes to New York for the TV spectacular, "Chocolate Soldier." In August he starts rehearsals for a Broadway musical, "Ruben, Ruben," in which he plays a trapeze performer in a circus.

There's no truth in Grace Kelly's romance with Jean Pierre Aumont, Charles Feldman says. He was at a dinner Elsa Maxwell gave at the Carlton Hotel in Cannes.

"That's where Grace met Aumont and he invited her to have luncheon the next day," said Charlie.

Since Grace is so much in the public eye and every little bit of news about her is seized upon as a big story, Aumont evidently was not averse to having his name associated with Grace.

Charlie's first date when he got back to town (and he didn't tell me this) was with Dana Wynter who, unless I miss my guess, will be one of our 1955 stars.

The flash from Europe that Paulette Goddard is marrying Erich Maria Remarque, the author, verifies a story I had about four months ago when Paulette was in this country.

She telephoned me from New York that she was hurrying back to Switzerland to meet Erich, with whom she has been in love for some years.

At that time Paulette said, "I know I am in love with him because we are so congenial. We like the same things and it's the first time in my life that I have ever wanted to sit down and read and stay at home.

Mercedes McCambridge telephoned me from her dentist's office to say she had been given the role of Luz, Sr. (Rock Hudson's sister) in "Giant." Carroll Baker has the role of Luz, (Rock's daughter).

Said Mercedes, "I am so happy that I'm taking out all my old Stevenson buttons and scratching off the 'on' to make the name Stevens so I can root for George! I've always wanted to work with him, and this is surely an answer to my prayers."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Doris Day had all her luggage stolen with the clothes and objets d'art she bought in Paris and London, according to a cable received from Marekesh, North Africa.

Gloria Vanderbilt Stokowski's newest escort in the east is Sidney Lumet, estranged husband of Rita Gam.

F. Hugh Herbert's daughter, Diana, will be a June bride. She is marrying Erwin Kramer, member of a wealthy eastern hotel family. The ceremony will be held in Hollywood.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Five Schools Will Compete In 15 Events

Frederick, Handley, Montgomery Blair, Allegany Entered

Athletes of five schools, namely, Frederick, Montgomery Blair of Silver Spring, Handley of Winchester, Va., Allegany and Fort Hill will compete in a program of 15 events in the ninth annual Fort Hill High School Invitational Track and Field Meet Friday night at the Fort Hill Stadium, it was announced last night by William P. Hahn, Fort Hill mentor and director of the event.

Field events will get under way at 7:45 o'clock while the track contests are slated to start at 8 o'clock.

All events will be run on a time basis and the 100 and 220 yard dashes, the hig and low hurdles will be run in heats.

This year's program will be the sixth time for the invitational to be held under the lights.

Fort Hill has won its own meet seven times in eight years. Coach Hunter Maddex's Handley High School thinclads nosed out the Sentinels in 1953 by the score of 76-74.

Fort Hill and Montgomery Blair were the top track and field teams in Maryland last year. These schools tied for first place in the University of Maryland meet with 22 points each and in the Maryland Class "A" meet Fort Hill won over the Silver Spring school by the margin of 14 points.

The events will be as follows:

TRACK—100 and 220 dashes, 440, 880 yards and one mile runs, 120 high and 180 low hurdles, 440, 880 and mile relays.

Prices of admission are 25 cents for students and 50 cents for adults.

Beall And Hyndman Play In Frostburg

Beall High School, tied with LaSalle for the runner-up spot in the Bi-State Baseball Conference, will be shooting its fourth straight victory when it plays Hyndman High School today at 3:30 o'clock in Frostburg.

The Mountaineers hold a 13-2 decision over the Hornets and have scored 49 runs in their last three games, mauling Flintstone, 20-5 and 8-3 and crushing Allegany, 21-5.

Two City Tilts Today

Manuel Ayulo, 33, Veteran Auto Racer, Dies Of Injuries

INDIANAPOLIS, May 17 (AP) — Manuel Ayulo, a veteran of auto racing and the nation's second race car driver last year, died today of the injuries he suffered in a crash at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The 33-year-old driver of Burbank, Calif., rammed into a retaining wall on the southwest turn yesterday as he was making a practice run in preparation for this year's Memorial Day 500-mile race. It would have been his sixth race here.

Ayulo began his racing career shortly after World War II. He drove in midget and sprint races before getting into the big ones.

In his starts at the speedway Ayulo finished 13th in 1953 and 1954. In 1951, driving as relief for Jack McGrath, he finished third.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

To Pay Or Not To Pay

I'm as confused as everyone else is about subscription TV and the more I hear about it, the more puzzled I get. The Federal Communications Commission, which will have to approve it before the matter gets any farther, has been deluged, according to "Variety," with 7,000 letters which have been running six to one in favor of subscription TV. (One letter is from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and she's in favor, too.)

Subscription TV—I suppose you all know—is where a little gadget is attached to the set to unscramble a picture. You pay for the program (either by coin or more probably by some method of billing you monthly); you get no advertising; and presumably you get high quality stuff not now available. All these are tempting arguments.

But there are enormous political, pholosophical and economic problems. In the first place, the United States—and every other place for that matter—has been wedded to the principle that air is free and that anyone who owns a set can pick up any program within range for free. Actually, the programs are not free; you pay for them every time you pick up a box of soap chips and don't forget it, brother. Still, the tradition is there and tradition is hard to buck. But the tradition can be changed if enough people want it and apparently a lot of people do.

Opponents of pay television are, understandably, the movie theater crowd who have suffered enough from free television and don't relish competition from first-run movies in the homes. Another and not nearly so understandable opponent is the broadcasting industry. The industry is already making $900,000,000 a year out of sponsored TV and they don't want any competition either. Actually the existing TV stations would probably have to transmit the pay TV programs and I don't see why they couldn't play both sides of the street, taking in the advertiser's dough part of the week and yours and mine the rest of it. But so far no broadcaster I know of has come out in support of pay TV.

In network circles around New York, the feeling is that if pay TV comes in, sponsored TV goes out, that the two are not going to exist side by side. However, if pay TV comes in, the existing stations and networks will certainly get into it and could conceivably wind up even richer than they are now in spite of themselves.

Other opponents are the theatrical unions, practically all of them. In one of the silliest statements yet to come into the controversy, the unions declared that free entertainment "now enjoyed by millions of invalids, including hospitalized veterans would disappear from the airwaves." If pay TV comes in, I feel confident some way will be discovered to get it free to hospitalized veterans. The real fear of the unions is this: suppose "South Pacific" opened, not on Broadway, but on subscription TV, played a one-night stand to 65,000,000 people. Rodgers and Hammerstein would get rich but what about the actors and stagehands who had jobs for years and years and years on Broadway and on the road in that show? They get paid for a single performance—well-paid perhaps but nothing like a five-year job.

The most potent argument against pay TV is that it is an infringement on your rights. If you don't happen to want it and refuse to install the gadget, then one or more channels will be dark to you temporarily or permanently. Suppose only 1,000,000 of the 35,000,000 set owners elected to install the

by Josephine Culbertson

FATAL DEFENSE

WEST in the following deal felt that the expert declarer "must know what he was doing" in leading trumps, and so West carefully refrained from laying down the high trump when he got in. What he overlooked, however, was that the declarer—expert or not—could not know just how the trumps were lying; hence, South's play was natural but West's was very bad.

South dealer.

	♠ Q 5 4 ♥ 6 4 3 2 ♦ A 7 5 4 2 ♣ 6
♠ A J 9 ♥ A K 7 ♦ K J 9 ♣ 10 5 3 2	N W E S	♠ 6 ♥ Q J 10 9 8 5 ♦ Q 10 8 ♣ 9 7 4
	♠ K 10 8 7 3 2 ♥ — ♦ 6 3 ♣ A K Q J 8

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Dble.	2 ♠	3 ♥
4 ♠	Dble.	Pass	5 ♥
5 ♠	Dble.	Pass	Pass
Pass

In view of the fact that South had been doubled at four spades, it may seem that he was running a grave risk in going on to five spades, but his freak holding justified this action. Naturally, South hoped to find better trump support opposite him because of North's semi-shutout raise. (Incidentally, North made a very misleading bid when he raised spades directly over West's takeout double. His hand called for a pass).

Observe that South wisely concealed his solid club suit, and it was doubtless this factor that gave West the chance to go astray on defense. West made his natural opening, the heart king. South ruffed and led a low spade toward dummy. West, to make sure of two trump tricks, properly put in the nine, and the queen held. South then returned a spade to his own ten, and West won with the jack.

West probably reasoned that if declarer was intent on trump drawing, he must know what he was doing and so there could be no point in "helping him" by laying down the spade ace. So West held on to that card and led another heart. That was precisely what South had hoped for after he saw the break of trumps. He ruffed and led out his solid clubs, discarding diamonds from the board, and there was now no way by which West could prevent South from ruffing a diamond with dummy's five of trumps.

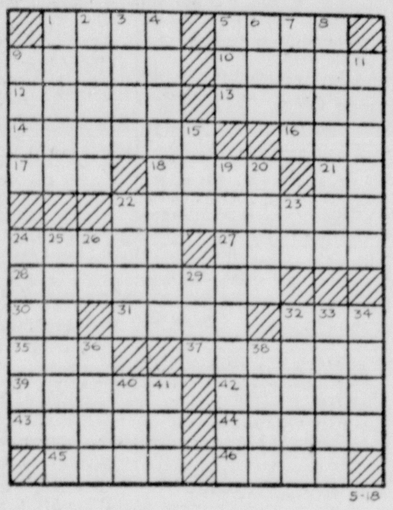
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Radio And Television

To Pay Or Not To Pay

I'm as confused as everyone else is about subscription TV and the more I hear about it, the more puzzled I get. The Federal Communications Commission, which will have to approve it before the matter gets any farther, has been deluged, according to "Variety," with 7,000 letters which have been running six to one in favor of subscription TV. (One letter is from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and she's in favor, too.)

Subscription TV—I suppose you all know—is where a little gadget is attached to the set to unscramble a picture. You pay for the program (either by coin or more probably by some method of billing you monthly); you get no advertising; and presumably you get high quality stuff not now available. All these are tempting arguments.

But there are enormous political, philosophical and economic problems. In the first place, the United States—and every other place for that matter—has been wedded to the principle that air is free and that anyone who owns a set can pick up any program within range for free. Actually, the programs are not free; you pay for them every time you pick up a box of soap chips and don't forget it, brother. Still, the tradition is there and tradition is hard to buck. But the tradition can be changed if enough people want it and apparently a lot of people do.

Opponents of pay television are, understandably, the movie theater crowd who have suffered enough from free television and don't relish competition from first-run movies in the homes. Another and not nearly so understandable opponent is the broadcasting industry. The industry is already making $900,000,000 a year out of sponsored TV and they don't want any competition either. Actually the existing TV stations would probably have to transmit the pay TV programs and I don't see why they couldn't play both sides of the street, taking in the advertiser's dough part of the week and yours and mine the rest of it. But so far no broadcaster I know of has come out in support of pay TV.

In network circles around New York, the feeling is that if pay TV comes in, sponsored TV goes out, that the two are not going to exist side by side. However, if pay TV comes in, the existing stations and networks will certainly get into it and could conceivably wind up even richer than they are now in spite of themselves.

Other opponents are the theatrical unions, practically all of them. In one of the silliest statements yet to come into the controversy, the unions declared that free entertainment "now enjoyed by millions of invalids, including hospitalized veterans would disappear from the airwaves." If pay TV comes in, I feel confident some way will be discovered to get it free to hospitalized veterans. The real fear of the unions is this: suppose "South Pacific" opened, not on Broadway, but on subscription TV, played a one-night stand to 65,000,000 people. Rodgers and Hammerstein would get rich but what about the actors and stagehands who had jobs for years and years and years on Broadway and on the road in that show? They get paid for a single performance—well-paid perhaps but nothing like a five-year job.

The most potent argument against pay TV is that it is an infringement on your rights. If you don't happen to want it and refuse to install the gadget, then one or more channels will be dark to you temporarily or permanently. Suppose only 1,000,000 of the 35,000,000 set owners elected to install the

by Josephine Culbertson

FATAL DEFENSE

WEST in the following deal felt that the expert declarer "must know what he was doing" in leading trumps, and so West carefully refrained from laying down the high trump when he got in. What he overlooked, however, was that the declarer—expert or not—could not know just how the trumps were lying; hence, South's play was natural but West's was very bad.

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ Q 5 4 ♥ 6 4 3 2 ♦ A 7 5 4 2 ♣ 6
♠ A J 9 ♥ A K 7 ♦ K J 9 ♣ 10 5 3 2	N W E S	♠ 6 ♥ Q J 10 9 8 5 ♦ Q 10 8 ♣ 9 7 4
	♠ K 10 8 7 3 2 ♥ — ♦ 6 3 ♣ A K Q J 8

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Dble.	2 ♠	3 ♥
4 ♠	Dble.	Pass	5 ♥
5 ♠	Dble.	Pass	Pass
Pass

In view of the fact that South had been doubled at four spades, it may seem that he was running a grave risk in going on to five spades, but his freak holding justified this action. Naturally, South hoped to find better trump support opposite him because of North's semi-shutout raise. (Incidentally, North made a very misleading bid when he raised spades directly over West's takeout double. His hand called for a pass).

Observe that South wisely concealed his solid club suit, and it was doubtless this factor that gave West the chance to go astray on defense. West made his natural opening, the heart king. South ruffed and led a low spade toward dummy. West, to make sure of two trump tricks, properly put in the nine, and the queen held. South then returned a spade to his own ten, and West won with the jack.

West probably reasoned that if declarer was intent on trump drawing, he must know what he was doing and so there could be no point in "helping him" by laying down the spade ace. So West held on to that card and led another heart. That was precisely what South had hoped for after he saw the break of trumps. He ruffed and led out his solid clubs, discarding diamonds from the board, and there was now no way by which West could prevent South from ruffing a diamond with dummy's five of trumps.

Four County Men Released On Parole

Four Allegany County residents were among 109 prisoners released on parole during the period from March 21 to April 11, according to the Department of Parole and Probation.

They were William David Taylor, ten years, malicious destruction of property and arson, July 1951; James McMillan, not more than 18 months, burglary last October.

Jack Louis Race, six months, operating a motor vehicle under influence of intoxicants, February of this year. Melvin A. Ritchie, one year, parole violation, October 1954.

Materials Are Being Placed In Filters

Filtering materials are being placed in the last six filters at the Lake Gordon filtration plant, according to Water Commissioner William J. Edwards.

He said the George F. Hazelwood Company, which has the contract for the rehabilitation of 12 units built in 1911, began Monday to fill the units with gravel.

This is to be topped with anthracite coal, which serves as the filtering agent.

Radio And Television

gadget and a network elected to show the opening night of the Metropolitan Opera at $1 a head. That's $1,000,000 which might be profitable to the network. But 34,000,000 get nothing at least on that channel that night.

Another argument of the anti-pay-TV forces runs like this. What can it offer that isn't already on the air and for free. The pro pay-TV crowd (which consists largely of Commander Eugene F. McDonald, president of Zenith Radio Corporation) say they can provide Broadway opening nights, heavyweight fights, operas and other things not now available. The anti-crowd comes right back with: what heavyweight fights—there aren't that many. As for Broadway openings and opera, does your average guy really want to see them and want them enough to pay for them in place of Jackie Gleason for free.

Those are just a few of the arguments against pay TV. There are many potent arguments for it, but I'll have to go into them another day. I will only say that I think subscription TV is eventually inevitable as I thought sponsored television was inevitable for Great Britain to meet television's ever mounting costs. How and when it's coming, I have no idea.

Pupils Clean Grounds At Flintstone

Classes for the final three grades of Flintstone High School Monday were in the form of a "clean up" of the grounds surrounding the recently completed addition to the present building.

Mrs. Elsie Hill Roland, principal, said the campaign apparently was a success since about eight or ten truckloads of rock, debris and other materials were hauled away from the area.

A survey was made by the senior science class under supervision of Eugene Harris, teacher, and their findings were accomplished Monday by students of the 10th, 11th and 12th grades of the school.

The students went to work with rakes and cleared off the debris, stones and also nails left by the contractors. The shrubbery was trimmed and flowers cultivated.

The area was divided off before the work began and groups busily went about their duties of cleaning up. The new addition to the present building includes a combination auditorium and gymnasium; four academic classrooms, home economic department; cafeteria and boiler room. There also is a separate agriculture shop built several years ago.

The new addition was constructed at a cost of about $500,000, Mrs. Roland added.

Pennsylvania authorities will put 1,500 more rainbow trout into Lake Koon Thursday, according to George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company.

Two Appeals Filed In Circuit Court

Two appeals have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

One was an appeal from a Trial Magistrate Court decision of Magistrate Morris Baron. James Taylor of First Street, Frostburg, had filed suit for $250 against James L. Weber, Louisiana Avenue, as a result of an accident on Braddock Road near Cumberland January 23. Magistrate Baron awarded Taylor $190 damages and Weber appealed. Edward J. Ryan was attorney for Taylor and William H. Geppart represented Weber.

The other appeal was from a State Employment Security Board ruling. Frank P. Kelly, 278 East Main Street, Frostburg, had brought the action against the United Insurance Company of Chicago. Kelly filed the appeal, contending the board had misconstrued the facts and the law.

Teamsters To Give Firemen Iron Lung

Local 453, Teamsters Union, (AFL) is going to present an iron lung to the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association during the Maryland State Firemen's Convention which will be held here in June.

David E. Kirk, president of the bi-county association, yesterday said that it will be decided at the convention just which company will be given the iron lung to keep for emergency.

Any member company of the association which wants to have the portable unit placed in its company is requested to make its bid during the convention.

Bette Davis Wins In Alimony Fight Another Round

Superior Court Justice Randolph A. Weatherbee upheld most of Miss Davis' objections to a 1950 agreement signed in California whereby Sherry was to get $250 a month. She paid for three years. When she stopped, Sherry sued.

Unless Sherry objects to the ruling and is upheld by the State Supreme Court, she won't have to pay any more.

Justice Weatherbee ruled that a section in the California agreement regarding alimony payments to Sherry was unenforceable under California law applying at the time the papers were signed. A similar decision was given at an earlier hearing.

The judge disagreed, however, with the contention that a wife's contract to pay alimony to her husband is "against the very moral fibre of our people."

Girl Is Sentenced

A 14-year-old local girl was sentenced to the House of Good Shepherd in Baltimore for an undetermined period as a delinquent juvenile by Magistrate Morris Baron in Juvenile Court Monday. The girl will remain in the Allegany County Infirmary detention quarters until she is taken to Baltimore, court attaches said.

Four County Men Released On Parole

Four Allegany County residents were among 109 prisoners released on parole during the period from March 21 to April 11, according to the Department of Parole and Probation.

They were William David Taylor, ten years, malicious destruction of property and arson, July 1951; James McMillan, not more than 18 months, burglary last October.

Jack Louis Race, six months, operating a motor vehicle under influence of intoxicants, February of this year. Melvin A. Ritchie, one year, parole violation, October 1954.

Materials Are Being Placed In Filters

Filtering materials are being placed in the last six filters at the Lake Gordon filtration plant, according to Water Commissioner William J. Edwards.

He said the George F. Hazelwood Company, which has the contract for the rehabilitation of 12 units built in 1911, began Monday to fill the units with gravel.

This is to be topped with anthracite coal, which serves as the filtering agent.

Radio And Television

gadget and a network elected to show the opening night of the Metropolitan Opera at $1 a head. That's $1,000,000 which might be profitable to the network. But 34,000,000 get nothing at least on that channel that night.

Another argument of the anti-pay-TV forces runs like this. What can it offer that isn't already on the air and for free. The pro pay-TV crowd (which consists largely of Commander Eugene F. McDonald, president of Zenith Radio Corporation) say they can provide Broadway opening nights, heavyweight fights, operas and other things not now available. The anti-crowd comes right back with: what heavyweight fights—there aren't that many. As for Broadway openings and opera, does your average guy really want to see them and want them enough to pay for them in place of Jackie Gleason for free.

Those are just a few of the arguments against pay TV. There are many potent arguments for it, but I'll have to go into them another day. I will only say that I think subscription TV is eventually inevitable as I thought sponsored television was inevitable for Great Britain to meet television's ever mounting costs. How and when it's coming, I have no idea.

Pupils Clean Grounds At Flintstone

Classes for the final three grades of Flintstone High School Monday were in the form of a "clean up" of the grounds surrounding the recently completed addition to the present building.

Mrs. Elsie Hill Roland, principal, said the campaign apparently was a success since about eight or ten truckloads of rock, debris and other materials were hauled away from the area.

A survey was made by the senior science class under supervision of Eugene Harris, teacher, and their findings were accomplished Monday by students of the 10th, 11th and 12th grades of the school.

The students went to work with rakes and cleared off the debris, stones and also nails left by the contractors. The shrubbery was trimmed and flowers cultivated.

The area was divided off before the work began and groups busily went about their duties of cleaning up. The new addition to the present building includes a combination auditorium and gymnasium; four academic classrooms, home economic department; cafeteria and boiler room. There also is a separate agriculture shop built several years ago.

The new addition was constructed at a cost of about $500,000, Mrs. Roland added.

Two Appeals Filed In Circuit Court

Two appeals have been filed in Allegany County Circuit Court.

One was an appeal from a Trial Magistrate Court decision of Magistrate Morris Baron. James Taylor of First Street, Frostburg, had filed suit for $250 against James L. Weber, Louisiana Avenue, as a result of an accident on Braddock Road near Cumberland January 23. Magistrate Baron awarded Taylor $190 damages and Weber appealed. Edward J. Ryan was attorney for Taylor and William H. Geppart represented Weber.

The other appeal was from a State Employment Security Board ruling. Frank P. Kelly, 278 East Main Street, Frostburg, had brought the action against the United Insurance Company of Chicago. Kelly filed the appeal, contending the board had misconstrued the facts and the law.

Teamsters To Give Firemen Iron Lung

Local 453, Teamsters Union, (AFL) is going to present an iron lung to the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association during the Maryland State Firemen's Convention which will be held here in June.

David E. Kirk, president of the bi-county association, yesterday said that it will be decided at the convention just which company will be given the iron lung to keep for emergency.

Any member company of the association which wants to have the portable unit placed in its company is requested to make its bid during the convention.

Bette Davis Wins In Alimony Fight Another Round

Superior Court Justice Randolph A. Weatherbee upheld most of Miss Davis' objections to a 1950 agreement signed in California whereby Sherry was to get $250 a month. She paid for three years. When she stopped, Sherry sued.

Unless Sherry objects to the ruling and is upheld by the State Supreme Court, she won't have to pay any more.

Justice Weatherbee ruled that a section in the California agreement regarding alimony payments to Sherry was unenforceable under California law applying at the time the papers were signed. A similar decision was given at an earlier hearing.

The judge disagreed, however, with the contention that a wife's contract to pay alimony to her husband is "against the very moral fibre of our people."

Girl Is Sentenced

A 14-year-old local girl was sentenced to the House of Good Shepherd in Baltimore for an undetermined period as a delinquent juvenile by Magistrate Morris Baron in Juvenile Court Monday. The girl will remain in the Allegany County Infirmary detention quarters until she is taken to Baltimore, court attaches said.

Charles M. See Takes Oath As State Senator

Goldstein Officiates At Brief Ceremony

Veteran legislator Charles M. See became State Senator for Allegany County at a brief ceremony in Baltimore yesterday.

He was sworn in at 3:35 p. m. in Governor McKeldin's office in Baltimore by Senator Louis L. Goldstein, president of the Maryland Senate.

Witnessing the ceremony were William S. Ratchford, superintendent of the Maryland Workshop of the Blind, of which Senator See is a member and field representative.

Others present were John G. Schilpp, chairman, and Henry P. Irr, members of the board of trustees; Murray Donahue and Harry McNabb, Senator See's assistant.

Senator See received his commission Monday from Governor McKeldin to succeed Robert B. Kimble, who resigned April 23 to become chairman of the Maryland Department of Employment Security.

He will be Maryland's first blind senator and during the recent session was one of two blind delegates.

He is employed as a field representative of the Workshop for the Blind and has served as a trustee for the board since 1943.

Senator See has served in the House of Delegates since 1938 and was chairman of the Allegany County Delegation for several terms.

His successor as delegate is slated to be named by the Republican State Central Committee tonight.

Bicentennial Headquarters

The model of Fort Cumberland has been given the place of honor at the Fort Cumberland Bicentennial headquarters at 75 North Centre Street. The window has been enhanced by specimens of trees and bushes which are used to protect the watershed of Lakes Gordon and Koon, which furnish the city's water supply. The model of the fort was constructed by CCC boys in 1937 for the Cumberland Sesquicentennial celebration and was recently reconditioned by Boy Scout Troop 14 so it could be used for the celebration.

Recreation Meeting Planned In Ridgeley

Treasurers of Ridgeley's recreation groups have been asked to attend a meeting today at 7 p. m. in the Ridgele: Council Hall, according to Charles Fryer, who will serve as chairman.

He said the meeting is being called to learn what funds are on hand so the summer recreation program can be planned.

Fryer said it is important that the treasurers of the Police Boys Club, Police Girls Club, Silver Street Playground and the West Side Playground be present.

One thing to be decided, he said, is to make plans for a substitute to the West Side Playground, which will be used for the flood protection project.

He said all citizens interested in the town's recreation program are invited to attend.

Move To End Electoral College Gains

House And Senate Measures Admitted

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — A Cumberland, Md., high school citizenship class is making some headway in its campaign to abolish the electoral college system of electing presidents.

At the request of the class, in Allegany High School, Rep. Hyde (R-Md) has introduced a bill to eliminate the electoral college.

The Hyde measure proposes a constitutional amendment providing for direct election of the President and vice president, on a popular vote basis. The electoral college system gives a state's entire vote to the candidate who carries the state.

The entire school and a good part of Cumberland now have joined in the campaign. They're sending letters to Washington officials in support of Hyde's proposal. A special edition to the school paper has been sent to every member of Congress and to newspapers and high schools over the country. The Hyde measure has been referred to a House Judiciary subcommittee. It was drawn up by former Maryland Atty. Gen. William C. Walsh at the request of the class. It also has the support of Sen. Beall (R-Md).

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee today reported to the Senate floor a proposed constitutional amendment dividing the electoral vote of each state in proportion to the popular vote received by each presidential candidate.

The elctoral college would be abolished.

Man Posts Bond In Morals Case

Sterling Frank Crites was arrested Monday and brought before Magistrate Donald W. Mason in Trial Magistrates Court where he waived a preliminary hearing and posted bond on the charge.

Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty, who prayed a jury trial for the state, said Crites had picked up the girl who also resides in Oldtown, at a relative's home late Sunday night and offered to take her home in his car.

Instead, Getty reported, the man drove the automobile in the opposite direction and parked near Ridge Road, several miles from Oldtown. He grabbed the young girl and attempted to force his attentions on her but her screams brought help from a neighbor who heard her cry out, authorities said.

The girl fought loose from Crites and ran from the car to the neighbor who took her to his home where the incident was reported to police.

State Trooper John F. Browning made the arrest at Crites' home.

Beautification Of Rural Mail Boxes Being Urged

The Cumberland Post Office is urging patrons served by this city's six rural routes to cooperate in the observance of Rural Mail Box Improvement Week.

The second annual drive is being conducted throughout the United States May 16 to 23 to focus attention on the need for sprucing up rural mail boxes.

Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster, said all of the 4,798 families served by the rural free delivery routes are being asked to join in the beautification project.

Postal regulations provide that all rural mail boxes must be regular mail boxes and must be kept in good condition, with a door which opens easily and equipped with a flag, and must be securely attached on an upright and sturdy post.

The box and support should be painted white, with the owner's name neatly printed on the side the carrier approaches, or to a strip above the box.

Where several boxes are placed together, the department says a heavy planking between two posts makes an excellent support for them all.

The Post Office Department is suggesting that the area surrounding the box or boxes be kept clean and, when possible, beautified with small flowering plants.

Officials said many of the rural boxes have been knocked down by passing vehicles, that original paint and lettering have faded, and that beautification will not only make the boxes more attractive but will improve rural mail deliveries.

Certified Mail Service To Be Available Soon

Certified mail stamps will go on sale at the Cumberland Post Office on June 7, according to Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster.

The 15-cent stamps, he said, will be used in connection with the new certified mail service which will be inaugurated in Washington, D. C., on June 6, and available elsewhere the next day.

The red adhesive will be .84 by 1.44 inches, arranged vertically, and has a uniformed letter carrier for its main design.

First-day cover service will be available through the Washington Post Office.

Conlon pointed out that all such covers must have either regular three-cent or six-cent air mail stamps attached, since certified mail stamps are not valid for prepayment of postage.

The new certified mail service is offered by the department as a less expensive substitute for a service now offered only through registered mail.

For the 15 cent fee, letters bearing the customary regular or air mail postage will be delivered and a receipt secured by the postman.

Registered mail service costs range from 30 cents to $1.75.

In either case, there is an additional seven cent fee if a receipt is to be mailed to the sender.

Boy Is Struck By Automobile

A five-year-old local boy who was hit by an auto at the corner of Bedford and Linden streets yesterday afternoon was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital for X-rays and observation.

Attaches said the condition of Timothy Norton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Norton, 360 Bedford Street, was good. He complained of injuries to his right hip and the right side of his face. He was admitted about 6 p. m.

Officer Kenneth W. Morrissey, who investigated, said the driver of the car was Miss Mary I. Jammer, 230 Columbia Street. He said Miss Jammer was traveling west on Bedford Street and the child darted into the path of her car from the concrete steps at the Linden Street intersection.

Miss Jammer, according to police, took the child to the hospital. The mishap occurred at 5:12 p. m. No charges have been preferred pending the outcome of the boy's injuries, police said.

Masonic Lodge Marks 100th Anniversary

Program To Continue Remainder Of Week

Potomac Lodge No. 100, A. F. & A. M., oldest of the four Masonic lodges in Cumberland, this week is observing its 100th anniversary.

The centennial celebration began Sunday evening when the lodge members attended worship service at St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church in South Cumberland. Rev. Frederick J. Eckert, pastor, directed the sermon to the visiting Masons.

Tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock the observance will continue with a Past Master's Night at the Masonic Temple on Greene Street. The lodge has 27 living past masters. The oldest is William Jeffrey, who served in 1916.

Past Masters

Out Of Ashes

Potomac Lodge came into existence, figuratively speaking, out of the ashes of two other lodges, Cumberland Lodge No. 61 and Gilman Lodge No. 90. These two lodges had all of their records and property destroyed by a disastrous fire that occurred February 14, 1853.

Both of these lodges became defunct because of a lapse of interest, due largely to the unsettled conditions of the community as well as the nation as a whole. History records that at this time a wave of cholera swept the city leaving a broad path of affliction and death.

At any rate at the annual communication of the Grand Lodge on May 14, 1855, a charter was granted to Potomac Lodge. The first officers were A. L. Withers, worshipful master; John B. Widener, senior warden, and Horace Resley, junior warden.

After organization, Potomac Lodge established itself on the second floor of the old National Hotel Building on Mechanic Street, later moving to Baltimore Street. The lodge has enjoyed a steady growth and today has 321 members.

ORLO M. BREES

Orlo Brees To Speak At Graduations

Speaker For Fort Hill, Beall Commencements

Orlo M. Brees, a former member of the New York state legislature, will speak at graduation exercises at Fort Hill and Beall High schools next month, according to Superintendent Ralph R. Webster.

Brees will speak at the Fort Hill commencement Thursday, June 2, and at Beall High School in Frostburg Friday, June 3.

Webster said that Brees was highly recommended after an appearance as a commencement speaker here some six or eight years ago.

Few men can speak to so many different audiences with the sympathetic understanding of their varied interests, Webster said.

Born in Illinois, Brees came up the hard way, working as a coal miner, textile worker, salesman, teacher, printer, editor, and publisher. His educational background includes Shurtleff College, Brown and Columbia universities, University College at Southampton, England, and the University of Vienna.

Brees served in the New York state legislature for 12 years until retiring at the end of 1952. In that capacity he won the reputation of being a champion of free enterprise and the American way of life.

Many different groups have commended him as an after dinner speaker. The Johnstown (Pa.) Teachers Association said that Brees gave the best after dinner speech they ever heard. The New York State Kiwanis Convention at Buffalo described Brees as having "a dominant sense of humor and captivating delivery."

Architect Named For New School On Valley Road

Mt. Rainier Firm Will Perform Work

The Mt. Ranier architectural firm of Walton and Madden yesterday was designated by the Allegany County Board of Education to prepare the plans and specifications for the proposed new elementary school in the Valley Road section, probably at Bowman's Addition.

Walton and Madden last year did the architectural work for the additions to Carver and Oldtown schools. The Valley Road school will have eight or 10 classrooms.

S. Russ Minter, local architect, was designated to prepare the plans and specifications for the addition to the Cresaptown School. This improvement is primarily a shower and locker room.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster also said the board approved a change order on the new Bruce High School job at Westernport. The change calls for the use of excavated dirt from the project for the development of a 100-car parking lot above the top level of the school and near the athletic field. This work will add about $9,160 to the cost of the job.

Assignments for the presentation of diplomas to graduating seniors also were made at the meeting. Kenneth R. Malcolm, board president, will attend the commencements at Carver and Oldtown. Mrs. Albert C. Cook will be at Bruce and Flintstone. Mrs. Stanley Buckley will participate in the graduation exercises at Mt. Savage and Allegany. Edward J. Ryan will be at Fort Hill, Valley and Cresaptown Junior High School. W. Earle Cobey will distribute diplomas at Beall High School.

State's Relief Payments Take Dip During April

ANNAPOLIS, May 17 (AP)—Maryland's relief payments took a $7,000 dip in April for the first break in a rising spiral that began last October, State Welfare Director Thomas J. S. Waxter said today.

He told the Board of Public Works that if the figure holds or drops lower it might not be necessary to ask the board to dip into a $500,000 emergency fund appropriated for the year beginning July 1 but that he has no way of knowing now.

Waxter said he hopes to have further information for the board at its June meeting after the figures for May are in.

Spent $487,156

He said the department spent $487,156 for public assistance in April compared to $494,245 in March. The total was still above the amount paid out in February but marked the first time in a six-month cycle that it had not jumped higher than the previous month.

Waxter said even if a downward trend develops in relief payments his department will still have financial difficulties because of a withdrawal of some federal funds for administrative use.

This has been caused primarily by an increase in the care of foster children by the department toward which the government pays nothing, Waxter said. He said the number of such cases had increased from 2,000 in 1950 to more than 5,000 at present.

The government contributes 50 per cent to care of old persons, but this figure has declined from its onetime high of 18,000 to about 11,000, the welfare director said.

Waxter came before the board—which includes Gov. McKeldin, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and Treasurer Hooper S. Miles—to discuss the relief picture and a $500,000 emergency fund which the Legislature appropriated to be used for welfare after July 1, if necessary.

Awards College Contract

The Legislature had already granted the department $450,000 extra for the current year to help take care of increased relief rolls.

Referring to the $500,000 fund in the hands of the board, Waxter said "we hope we don't need (any of) it in July" but indicated it was a possibility. He said he regarded the money as available for use in the discretion of the board."

In other action at its May meeting, the board awarded a contract for two new dormitories at Frostburg State Teachers College to Baltimore Contractors Inc. on a low bid of $470,000.

Bishop Walsh, Being Detained By Chinese Communists, Is Leading Life Of 'Piety, Humbleness And Frugality'

HONG KONG, May 17 (AP)—Five old razor blades for shaving in the past five years. They have been hard on the face of an American Roman Catholic bishop detained in Red China, but he doesn't complain.

Bishop James Edward Walsh, of Cumberland, Md., now 62, is one of more than 40 Americans still detained by the Chinese Communists. He is a member of the Catholic Foreign Mission Society of America, popularly known as the Maryknoll fathers from their headquarters in Maryknoll, N.Y. The Rev. Charles Meeus, a Belgian who was Bishop Walsh's secretary, has reached Hong Kong with this account of the bishop's privations at the Catholic Central Bureau in Shanghai:

The bishop resharpens those old razor blades every day inside a water glass. When he attends morning mass at the greatly reduced quarters the Communists have left him, his face may be bleeding from nicks by the dull blades.

"But he never misses mass," Father Meeus said. "The price of blades in Shanghai is 30 U.S. cents apiece, and the bishop believes the money that would have been spent on the blades could be put to better use among the Christians.

"The bishop leads a life of piety, humbleness and frugality, and is known as the 'holy American' to the humble Chinese in Shanghai."

His day starts at 6:30 a.m. when he shaves with cold water. The hot water pipes at the bureau froze one winter and have never been repaired—on Red orders.

After mass he strolls about a small garden at the bureau, meditating and watching through a fence as some small children play next door. His breakfast is always the same: a fried egg, a glass of water, brown bread, and some left-over U.S. salt tablets.

He likes to read, but American magazines are banned, and he has read and reread the old ones many times.

Upstairs at the bureau he has a small reading and sleeping room. There are a small table and a bed without springs. He frequently writes descriptive little stories of the little children he observes, trying to "show the essential goodness of China through its children." He tried to mail out a score of these stories, but the Reds sent them back to him.

Three Chinese priests live with him. Since they speak northern Chinese dialects and Bishop Walsh a southern dialect, they converse in Latin.

For their main meal they generally have rice and a few vegetables. There is little meat. The bishop reports to local police headquarters once a month to receive his ration cards for rice, oil, sugar and cloth.

Like his patron saint, St. James, the bishop's clothing is threadbare, and his knees calloused from praying. But he is spry and weighs 130 pounds. Sickness once took him down to 92. His normal weight is 160.

Weather

Yesterday was rather cool for mid-May as the temperature reached an official high for the day of only 64. Last night the Weather Bureau had an alert warning for orchardists in Maryland. By morning the temperature was expected to be between 36 and 44 with scattered frost likely in low lying areas. Today is supposed to be mostly sunny and cool. The official low at Constitution Park was 45 degrees and by 8 o'clock last night the reading was 60. Humidity at 6 p. m. stood at 85 per cent.

He will be Maryland's first blind senator and during the recent session was one of two blind delegates.

He is employed as a field representative of the Workshop for the Blind and has served as a trustee for the board since 1943.

Recreation Meeting Planned In Ridgeley

Treasurers of Ridgeley's recreation groups have been asked to attend a meeting today at 7 p. m. in the Ridgeley Council Hall, according to Charles Fryer, who will serve as chairman.

He said the meeting is being called to learn what funds are on hand so the summer recreation program can be planned.

Fryer said it is important that the treasurers of the Police Boys Club, Police Girls Club, Silver Street Playground and the West Side Playground be present.

One thing to be decided, he said, is to make plans for a substitute to the West Side Playground, which will be used for the flood protection project.

He said all citizens interested in the town's recreation program are invited to attend.

Move To End Electoral College Gains

House And Senate Measures Admitted

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP) — A Cumberland, Md., high school citizenship class is making some headway in its campaign to abolish the electoral college system of electing presidents.

At the request of the class, in Allegany High School, Rep. Hyde (R-Md) has introduced a bill to eliminate the electoral college.

The Hyde measure proposes a constitutional amendment providing for direct election of the President and vice president, on a popular vote basis. The electoral college system gives a state's entire vote to the candidate who carries the state.

The entire school and a good part of Cumberland now have joined in the campaign. They're sending letters to Washington officials in support of Hyde's proposal. A special edition to the school paper has been sent to every member of Congress and to newspapers and high schools over the country. The Hyde measure has been referred to a House Judiciary subcommittee. It was drawn up by former Maryland Atty. Gen. William C. Walsh at the request of the class. It also has the support of Sen. Beall (R-Md).

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee today reported to the Senate floor a proposed constitutional amendment dividing the electoral vote of each state in proportion to the popular vote received by each presidential candidate.

The elctoral college would be abolished.

Man Posts Bond In Morals Case

Sterling Frank Crites was arrested Monday and brought before Magistrate Donald W. Mason in Trial Magistrates Court where he waived a preliminary hearing and posted bond on the charge.

Assistant State's Attorney James S. Getty, who prayed a jury trial for the state, said Crites had picked up the girl who also resides in Oldtown, at a relative's home late Sunday night and offered to take her home in his car.

Instead, Getty reported, the man drove the automobile in the opposite direction and parked near Ridge Road, several miles from Oldtown. He grabbed the young girl and attempted to force his attentions on her but her screams brought help from a neighbor who heard her cry out, authorities said.

The girl fought loose from Crites and ran from the car to the neighbor who took her to his home where the incident was reported to police.

State Trooper John F. Browning made the arrest at Crites' home.

Beautification Of Rural Mail Boxes Being Urged

The Cumberland Post Office is urging patrons served by this city's six rural routes to cooperate in the observance of Rural Mail Box Improvement Week.

The second annual drive is being conducted throughout the United States May 16 to 23 to focus attention on the need for sprucing up rural mail boxes.

Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster, said all of the 4,798 families served by the rural free delivery routes are being asked to join in the beautification project.

Postal regulations provide that all rural mail boxes must be regular mail boxes and must be kept in good condition, with a door which opens easily and equipped with a flag, and must be securely attached on an upright and sturdy post.

The box and support should be painted white, with the owner's name neatly printed on the side the carrier approaches, or to a strip above the box.

Where several boxes are placed together, the department says a heavy planking between two posts makes an excellent support for them all.

The Post Office Department is suggesting that the area surrounding the box or boxes be kept clean and, when possible, beautified with small flowering plants.

Officials said many of the rural boxes have been knocked down by passing vehicles, that original paint and lettering have faded, and that beautification will not only make the boxes more attractive but will improve rural mail deliveries.

Certified Mail Service To Be Available Soon

Certified mail stamps will go on sale at the Cumberland Post Office on June 7, according to Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster.

The 15-cent stamps, he said, will be used in connection with the new certified mail service which will be inaugurated in Washington, D. C., on June 6, and available elsewhere the next day.

The red adhesive will be .84 by 1.44 inches, arranged vertically, and has a uniformed letter carrier for its main design.

First-day cover service will be available through the Washington Post Office.

Conlon pointed out that all such covers must have either regular three-cent or six-cent air mail stamps attached, since certified mail stamps are not valid for prepayment of postage.

The new certified mail service is offered by the department as a less expensive substitute for a service now offered only through registered mail.

For the 15 cent fee, letters bearing the customary regular or air mail postage will be delivered and a receipt secured by the postman.

Registered mail service costs range from 30 cents to $1.75.

In either case, there is an additional seven cent fee if a receipt is to be mailed to the sender.

Boy Is Struck By Automobile

A five-year-old local boy who was hit by an auto at the corner of Bedford and Linden streets yesterday afternoon was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital for X-rays and observation.

Attaches said the condition of Timothy Norton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Norton, 360 Bedford Street, was good. He complained of injuries to his right hip and the right side of his face. He was admitted about 6 p. m.

Officer Kenneth W. Morrissey, who investigated, said the driver of the car was Miss Mary I. Jammer, 230 Columbia Street. He said Miss Jammer was traveling west on Bedford Street and the child darted into the path of her car from the concrete steps at the Linden Street intersection.

Miss Jammer, according to police, took the child to the hospital. The mishap occurred at 5:12 p. m. No charges have been preferred pending the outcome of the boy's injuries, police said.

Masonic Lodge Marks 100th Anniversary

Program To Continue Remainder Of Week

Potomac Lodge No. 100, A. F. & M., oldest of the four Masonic lodges in Cumberland, this week is observing its 100th anniversary.

The centennial celebration began Sunday evening when the lodge members attended worship service at St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church in South Cumberland. Rev. Frederick J. Eckert, pastor, directed the sermon to the visiting Masons.

Tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock the observance will continue with a Past Master's Night at the Masonic Temple on Greene Street. The lodge has 27 living past masters. The oldest is William Jeffrey, who served in 1916.

Past Masters

Other past masters still living include William J. Edwards, William A. Darkey, William Montwill, Thomas A. Shires, William R. D. Sperry, George Morgan Smith, Arthur B. Gibson, Charles L. Kopp, Joseph E. Johnston, William A. Hollar, Frank A. Deffinbaugh, Glen S. Johnson, John B. Dodd, Oscar J. Swartley, Ivan D. Neidermyer, Carlton W. Collins, William C. Bennett, Daniel S. Evans, Charles E. Morris, Robert C. Elrick, Walter Henry, Burland E. DeBolt, William T. Stearm, Edward P. Kaylor, George V. Steele, and Wade L. Berg.

Senior Warden Hahne will serve as toastmaster and will make the opening remarks. Worshipful Master Fridinger will give the welcoming address. Remarks by Grand Master Dowell will be followed by an address by Past Master Gibson. Rev. Joseph Young, a member of the lodge, will give the invocation and benediction. Dinner music will be provided by the Colomy Trio.

Out Of Ashes

Potomac Lodge came into existence, figuratively speaking, out of the ashes of two other lodges, Cumberland Lodge No. 61 and Gilman Lodge No. 90. These two lodges had all of their records and property destroyed by a disastrous fire that occurred February 14, 1853.

Both of these lodges became defunct because of a lapse of interest, due largely to the unsettled conditions of the community as well as the nation as a whole. History records that at this time a wave of cholera swept the city leaving a broad path of affliction and death.

At any rate at the annual communication of the Grand Lodge on May 14, 1855, a charter was granted to Potomac Lodge. The first officers were A. L. Withers, worshipful master; John B. Widener, senior warden, and Horace Resley, junior warden.

After organization, Potomac Lodge established itself on the second floor of the old National Hotel Building on Mechanic Street, later moving to Baltimore Street. The lodge has enjoyed a steady growth and today has 321 members.

ORLO M. BREES

Orlo Brees To Speak At Graduations

Speaker For Fort Hill, Beall Commencements

Orlo M. Brees, a former member of the New York state legislature, will speak at graduation exercises at Fort Hill and Beall High schools next month, according to Superintendent Ralph R. Webster.

Brees will speak at the Fort Hill commencement Thursday, June 2, and at Beall High School in Frostburg Friday, June 3.

Webster said that Brees was highly recommended after an appearance as a commencement speaker here some six or eight years ago.

Few men can speak to so many different audiences with the sympathetic understanding of their varied interests, Webster said.

Born in Illinois, Brees came up the hard way, working as a coal miner, textile worker, salesman, teacher, printer, editor, and publisher. His educational background includes Shurtleff College, Brown and Columbia universities, University College at Southampton, England, and the University of Vienna.

Brees served in the New York state legislature for 12 years until retiring at the end of 1952. In that capacity he won the reputation of being a champion of free enterprise and the American way of life.

Many different groups have commended him as an after dinner speaker. The Johnstown (Pa.) Teachers Association said that Brees gave the best after dinner speech they ever heard. The New York State Kiwanis Convention at Buffalo described Brees as having "a dominant sense of humor and captivating delivery."

Architect Named For New School On Valley Road

Mt. Rainier Firm Will Perform Work

The Mt. Ranier architectural firm of Walton and Madden yesterday was designated by the Allegany County Board of Education to prepare the plans and specifications for the proposed new elementary school in the Valley Road section, probably at Bowman's Addition.

Walton and Madden last year did the architectural work for the additions to Carver and Oldtown schools. The Valley Road school will have eight or 10 classrooms.

S. Russ Minter, local architect, was designated to prepare the plans and specifications for the addition to the Cresaptown School. This improvement is primarily a shower and locker room.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster also said the board approved a change order on the new Bruce High School job at Westernport. The change calls for the use of excavated dirt from the project for the development of a 100-car parking lot above the top level of the school and near the athletic field. This work will add about $9,160 to the cost of the job.

Assignments for the presentation of diplomas to graduating seniors also were made at the meeting. Kenneth R. Malcolm, board president, will attend the commencements at Carver and Oldtown. Mrs. Albert C. Cook will be at Bruce and Flintstone. Mrs. Stanley Buckley will participate in the graduation exercises at Mt. Savage and Allegany. Edward J. Ryan will be at Fort Hill, Valley and Cresaptown Junior High School. W. Earle Cobey will distribute diplomas at Beall High School.

State's Relief Payments Take Dip During April

ANNAPOLIS, May 17 (AP)—Maryland's relief payments took a $7,000 dip in April for the first break in a rising spiral that began last October, State Welfare Director Thomas J. S. Waxter said today.

He told the Board of Public Works that if the figure holds or drops lower it might not be necessary to ask the board to dip into a $500,000 emergency fund appropriated for the year beginning July 1 but that he has no way of knowing now.

Waxter said he hopes to have further information for the board at its June meeting after the figures for May are in.

Spent $487,156

He said the department spent $487,156 for public assistance in April compared to $494,245 in March. The total was still above the amount paid out in February but marked the first time in a six-month cycle that it had not jumped higher than the previous month.

Waxter said even if a downward trend develops in relief payments his department will still have financial difficulties because of a withdrawal of some federal funds for administrative use.

This has been caused primarily by an increase in the care of foster children by the department toward which the government pays nothing, Waxter said. He said the number of such cases had increased from 2,000 in 1950 to more than 5,000 at present.

The government contributes 50 per cent to care of old persons, but this figure has declined from its onetime high of 18,000 to about 11,000, the welfare director said.

Waxter came before the board—which includes Gov. McKeldin, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and Treasurer Hooper S. Miles—to discuss the relief picture and a $500,000 emergency fund which the Legislature appropriated to be used for welfare after July 1, if necessary.

Awards College Contract

The Legislature had already granted the department $450,000 extra for the current year to help take care of increased relief rolls.

Referring to the $500,000 fund in the hands of the board, Waxter said "we hope we don't need (any of) it in July" but indicated it was a possibility. He said he regarded the money as available for use in the discretion of the board."

In other action at its May meeting, the board awarded a contract for two new dormitories at Frostburg State Teachers College to Baltimore Contractors Inc. on a low bid of $470,000.

HONG KONG, May 17 (AP)—Five old razor blades for shaving in the past five years. They have been hard on the face of an American Roman Catholic bishop detained in Red China, but he doesn't complain.

Bishop James Edward Walsh, of Cumberland, Md., now 62, is one of more than 40 Americans still detained by the Chinese Communists. He is a member of the Catholic Foreign Mission Society of America, popularly known as the Maryknoll fathers from their headquarters in Maryknoll, N.Y. The Rev. Charles Meeus, a Belgian who was Bishop Walsh's secretary, has reached Hong Kong with this account of the bishop's privations at the Catholic Central Bureau in Shanghai:

The bishop resharpens those old razor blades every day inside a water glass. When he attends morning mass at the greatly reduced quarters the Communists have left him, his face may be bleeding from nicks by the dull blades.

"But he never misses mass," Father Meeus said. "The price of blades in Shanghai is 30 U.S. cents apiece, and the bishop believes the money that would have been spent on the blades could be put to better use among the Christians.

"The bishop leads a life of piety, humbleness and frugality, and is known as the 'holy American' to the humble Chinese in Shanghai."

His day starts at 6:30 a.m. when he shaves with cold water. The hot water pipes at the bureau froze one winter and have never been repaired—on Red orders.

He likes to read, but American magazines are banned, and he has read and reread the old ones many times.

Upstairs at the bureau he has a small reading and sleeping room. There are a small table and a bed without springs. He frequently writes descriptive little stories of the little children he observes, trying to "show the essential goodness of China through its children." He tried to mail out a score of these stories, but the Reds sent them back to him.

Three Chinese priests live with him. Since they speak northern Chinese dialects and Bishop Walsh a southern dialect, they converse in Latin.

For their main meal they generally have rice and a few vegetables. There is little meat. The bishop reports to local police headquarters once a month to receive his ration cards for rice, oil, sugar and cloth.

Like his patron saint, St. James, the bishop's clothing is threadbare, and his knees calloused from praying. But he is spry and weighs 130 pounds. Sickness once took him down to 92. His normal weight is 160.

Weather

Yesterday was rather cool for mid-May as the temperature reached an official high for the day of only 64. Last night the Weather Bureau had an alert warning for orchardists in Maryland. By morning the temperature was expected to be between 36 and 44 with scattered frost likely in low lying areas. Today is supposed to be mostly sunny and cool. The official low at Constitution Park was 45 degrees and by 8 o'clock last night the reading was 60. Humidity at 6 p. m. stood at 85 per cent.
